SENIOR CLASS IN FIRST MEET OF NEW YEAR

At its first meeting of 1934, the senior class discussed some of the most important matters that come before a graduating class. The assembly was unique in that matters brought to a vote were either un-animously accepted or provoked much discussion pro and con.

Miss Null, class sponsor, gave a brief impromptu talk on the scholarships available to the senior students of this school. "The competitive examinations," stated Miss Null, "are not so difficult that any student with a fairly high average could not, with the proper coaching, make a creditable showing in the tests. Several different types of scholarships are being offered, including one from the University of Chicago. Full particulars are posted on the bulletin board of the college."

Following Miss Null's talk, President Tommy Zeagler of the senior class discussed for the student assembly the requirements for ordering class jewelry. At the time, however, Mr. Zeagler, did not have quite the complete information on the matter.

An interesting committee report was given by James Tisdale concerning the selection of an appropriate gift to be left to the school by the senior class. Mr. Tisdale declared that after giving the matter more than careful consideration, the committee had decided that the class could accomplish a double purpose by giving the library a few volumes of an encyclopedia of which additional volumes are published every six months. Not only would the books be valuable in themselves, but also would establish a standard for future classes. Inasmuch as our library is limited, and each volume added to

RODEHEAVER IN CONCERT HERE

On Friday afternoon Homer A. Rodeheaver, former choir leader for Billy Sunday, and world renowned gospel singer, gave a concert in Ouachita Junior College auditorium. A large number of students enjoyed his program, which consisted of songs, many of which are published under his name, and trombone solos.

Mr. Rodeheaver spiced his program with remarks, jokes, and sleight-of-hand tricks between selections.

The college is indebted to the Inter-Church Youth Council for this splendid program.

Speech Class Renders Interesting Program

Friday, January 19, 1934, the Speech Class under the direction of Miss Null in the absence of Mrs. Alexander, rendered their usual program. Many interesting selections were presented. The following students appeared on the program:

B. H. Myers, "Filibuster Brown."
Ella Mae Herren, "The Indian Burying Ground," Phillip Freneau.

Miriam Swinebroad, "A Boy's Musing."
Louise Gray, from "Sea Fever," by John Masfield.

Alice Daimwood, "An Essay On Men."

THOR HAGBERG CONCERT FEB. 2

Women's Glee Club Will Sponsor
Recital To Be Given In College Auditorium

The Women's Glee Club of the Ouachita Parish Junior College is sponsoring a concert to be given by Thor Hagberg February 2, 1934.

Mr. Hagberg, who is a very famous singer, was born in Jonkoping, Sweden, and was trained by Prochoski. He also studied at the University of Chicago, and with many of the eminent teachers of voice in Chicago.

Mr. Hagberg is a R. C. A. Victor artist and a radio artist. He is a member of "The Internationalists," a group of men singers' sponsored by Redpath Chataqua. He has been cantor in the University of Chicago chapel for several years, and also bass soloist in the Hyde Park Presbyterian church, Chicago. He is the bass soloist with a group of singers called "The Troubadours" who are well known in Chicago.

Mr. Hagberg's recital here in Monroe will be one of exceptional interest to music lovers in the city. It will be given February 2, 1934, in the Ouachita Junior College auditorium at eight o'clock. Miss Beatrice Skirvin will assist Mr. Hagberg in his concert.

Mrs. Amos Hood Presents Music Class

The students of the Public School Music Class were fortunate the other day when Mrs. Amos Hood, teacher at the Sherrouse grammar school in West Monroe, brought eight of the members of her Public School Music Class and presented them in numbers that are used daily in regular class work. The program was well given and greatly enjoyed by the college students.

Dramatics Club Reviews Eugene O'Neill's Tragedy

The Dramatics Club held its bi-monthly meeting Tuesday, January 16th. The program consisted of a very colorful review of Eugene O'Neill's tragedy "Mourning Becomes Electra," by Aeschylus. The title of this play as well as the play is based on an old Greek fable of how Electra, the daughter of Agamemnon incites her brother to take revenge on her enemies. In like manner Lavinia Mannon incites her brother to kill the lover of his mother, because her mother poisoned her father. Her brother grows morbid and kills himself after the mother has committed suicide. Lavinia Mannon then decides that she must live a life of seclusion until her death.

At the next meeting Miss Lois Bushnell will review one of Barrie's plays, and Miss Henrietta Swayze will also review a play by Eugene O'Neill.

Officers Are Elected By Varsity Club

At a meeting of the Varsity Club called for the choosing of officers, the following elections were made:

Ivy McDonald, president.
Denison Ellerbe, vice president.
Bernard Price, secretary-treasurer.

An entertainment committee was appointed consisting of Berry and Hightower. The nineteenth was set for a dance to be given by the club.

TALKS TO CLUB

H. FLOOD MADISON

H. Flood Madison Makes Address At Club Meeting

Mr. H. Flood Madison gave a very much appreciated talk to members of the Pre-Law and Debating Club at their first meeting of the new year Tuesday. Mr. Madison's talk concerned the court system in the state of Louisiana. He described the procedure that a case might go through from the Justice of the Peace court to the State Supreme court. After the talk Mr. Madison answered questions of the members on parts of the system they did not understand.

Y. W. C. A. HEARS INSPIRING TALK

The Y. W. C. A. held their regular meeting Wednesday morning, January 17th.

The meeting was opened by a prayer and scripture reading, after which Miss Nora Lee Butler, graduate of Louisiana State Normal, and former president of the Y. W. C. A. at this school, made a most inspiring talk. The theme of her discussion was "The Possibilities for Activity of a Y. W. C. A." She described the many interesting things the girls at the state normal do.

The girls left this meeting feeling that "God's in His Heaven, all's right with the world," and with more determination to make their Y. W. C. A. bigger and better, and accomplish those things for which it was intended.

Future Of Y. M. C. A. Discussed At Meeting

Mr. Charles Freeman, who is leaving our college to attend Louisiana College, gave the Y. M. C. A. a very interesting talk on the outlook for the future.

Immediately following the talk, the president, acting as spokesman for the organization, expressed the regret of losing Mr. Freeman and wished him every success at Louisiana College.

At the meeting before, Rev. L. T. Hastings of the First Baptist church, gave a talk stressing the value of taking care of oneself so when an emergency arises he can weather through it.

PRES. COLVERT MAKES ADDRESS

Students Who Make Poor Showing In Examinations Divided Into Two Classes

In a pre-examination talk Tuesday morning, President C. C. Colvert gave the student body some very profitable and much appreciated advice. He pointed out the fact that there are two classes of students who make a poor showing in examinations, one composed of nervous, high-strung persons, and the other of the non-chalant and blase.

The nervous, super-sensitive student fears any unusual test and is never at his best under strain. To him expectation is even worse than reality, just as a swimmer shivers far more on the shore than after he has plunged in. "But," said Mr. Colvert, "what sort of life is it that cannot stand a sudden strain? Socrates said that an unexamined life is not worth living. A battleship is of no use if it cannot be safely tested on a trial trip. The engine of an automobile must stand a careful test before it leaves its builders. Whatever cannot be subjected to emergency tests is essentially unsound, unsafe, and unfit for daily use. A solid satisfaction follows the standing of a hard test. The man who is pronounced sound in every vital organ after a life insurance examination is reassured and inspired by the tests, but the one who does not apply for the examination for fear some defect may be found has already proved himself a mental coward and a moral delinquent."

On the other hand is the student who never does well in examinations because he carries an assumed superiority and indifference to all tests. He declines to worry and ostentatiously neglects to prepare. But he never rouses himself to meet an

At a junior class meeting called Thursday, January 18th, for the purpose of electing a class sponsor, Miss Anne Marshall was chosen. The class also adopted a resolution to the effect that they would cooperate with Mr. Colvert in maintaining order in the halls. After several announcements had been made, the meeting adjourned.

Interesting Talks Made To Le Cercle Francais

Le Cercle Francais held its second meeting Friday, Jan. 12th, with Miss Dorothy Flanagan presiding. The program was opened by Miss Hazel Mitchell, who gave a talk on the "Cathedrals of Paris." An interesting account of "Costumes Francaise" was given by Miss Sara Florence Coon. The club is open for membership. All who are interested are invited to the next meeting, which will be announced later.

EXAMINATION NOTES.

There's no need to "cry over spilt milk."
 Now is the time to begin reviewing for examinations. Of course if you haven't "opened a book," you can't expect to get a review.
 It has been suggested that one good way to review is to use the table of Contents. Have you tried it?
 One cannot expect to "cram" in one night what he should have systematically gotten in four months.
 To which of President Colvert's classes do you belong? Is it your nerves which go back on you and make you forget the response? Are you of the blase or sophisticated sort who just can't be bothered? Or, perhaps, you strike the happy medium and take what comes, do the best you can, and let it go at that.

JUNIORS DEFEAT ADLER QUINTET

The Ouachita Juniors continued its unbeaten pace in the city league with a 25 to 24 victory over the strong Adler club. The sensational one point victory placed the Juniors at the top of the league.

The Juniors displayed superb teamwork, and put up a defense which forced the Adlers to do their shooting from long range. The college led at the half 21 to 12, but were forced to fight hard to hold the lead the last half.

BROWN PAPER MILL WINS OVER SENIORS

The Brown Paper Mill Juniors hit the basket from all angles of the court to beat the Seniors 30 to 12. The game was marred with many fouls. The Paper Mill lost Noble by the foul route, and the Seniors lost Medaries and Ellerbe. McDonald, Seniors' center, also had four fouls, but was left in the game because of the lack of players. Broom, Peper Mill's center, led the scoring, tossing in four field goals and three free shots for a total of eleven points. Florsheim led his team with seven points.

SENIOR CLASS IN FIRST YEARLY MEET

it is a step toward our school being more generally recognized by higher scholastic centers, the gift is unquestionably logical.

A second suggestion for a gift to the college was made by Miss Ella Rose Crawford. She maintained that a banner with the school emblem upon it would be a lasting gift which could be displayed at meetings and social functions of the college. When the question was put to vote the student body responded unanimously in favor of the books.

The idea of a senior class play met with the approval of the entire student body. Miss Null stated that in view of the present class' financial status it would be less risk to present a play this year than it was last year. Incidentally, the play last year was termed a success. Mr. Colvert added to the discussion by asking the seniors to give the play careful consideration. Briefly, the thought behind Mr. Colvert's statement was, there is only one way to do such a thing and that is the right way.

Invitations, which are fast becoming a thing of the past, brought on quite a number of arguments, and were finally left to the personal choice of the individual.

emergency and hence, never discover his own powers. Through pride and indifference he lives habitually below par, exerting perhaps only fifty percent of his potential energy. He can never compete with men of even less ability who are exerting themselves close to one hundred percent.

The first essential in approaching a test is to keep physically fit. One hour when the nerves are firm and the brain is functioning like a smoothly running engine is worth three hours of effort when the nerves are jaded and the brain is painfully pumping up forgotten data.

One should also experience the benefit and exhilaration which comes from a bird's-eye view of the whole subject at the end of the term. The daily grind of lectures or recitations may so overwhelm one with facts that his general ideas become very vulgar fractions. He may come to suppose that an education consists only in attending classes, or that a junior college course means sixty-four semester hours. It is an inspiration at the end of the semester to rise above hours and classes, dates and formulas, and look over the whole subject at once as a man from a mountain summit looks down on the valleys through which he has been trudging. To do the trudging and then never see the landscape as a whole is a blunder.

The world outside the college is full of comprehensive examinations. We might as well get used to these tests now, taking them rationally, coolly, even smilingly; putting every ounce of energy into honest preparation and accepting the results without alibis, but with an honest willingness to be judged by our own output. To such a test, in college or afterwards, a student may go with quiet confidence—as the runner goes to the track, or the ball player goes to the bat.

Ask Jimmy Tisdale if he remembers when he lived here in Monroe many years ago he and his friends were skating one afternoon. Jimmy slipped and fell and tore a big hole in his pants. After Jimmy had gone home to his mamma to fix his knee, he went back to look for the goods.

What's this we have been hearing about Herbert Cooper (the one and only) being too young to go with a certain good looking girl of the college. Here is a tip, Herbert, don't forget you are in Louisiana and not Arkansas now.

Was Ticheli mad when the new book store saleslady "stood him up" the other nite? Better luck next time "Tic".

A. L. is now becoming musical, on account of "Breard influence," we believe. He was feebly heard, the other day, trying to croak a tune to these words, "Mildred, I'm in lo-ve with you."

Mrs. Mouk says the way to a man's heart is through his stomach. She seems to have proved this statement. Look at the young swains draping over the radiator if you don't believe it.

Dr. J. Warshaw, Spanish Instructor, Is Honored

Dr. J. Warshaw, chairman of the Spanish department of the University of Missouri, has been made a knight of the Order of Isabella the Catholic, by the president of the Spanish republic. He was informed of this honor by the Spanish ambassador to the United States, Senor Francisco de Cardenas. This order was established in 1816 and is similar to the Legion of Honor in France. Membership is given those who are recognized as having rendered distinguished service for the country.

This news is received with interest at Ouachita Junior College because last year at the University of Missouri, Dr. J. Warshaw was the instructor of Miss Lillian Baker, Spanish teacher at Junior College. With the exception of two courses, all of her work completed toward an M. A. degree was done under the supervision of Dr. Warshaw.
