FRESHMEN WIN STUNT AWARD

CHAPMAN AND MARSALA'S PERFORMANCE WINS TIN CUP

The Literary Guild sponsored a stunt program in the auditorium Thursday, December 20, during activity period. There was a small admission fee charged. The proceeds are to be used for the beautification of the library. Most of the school organizations contributed a stunt to the program.

Evelyn Hill, president of the Literary Guild, announced the following program:

"Safety First," a dramatic sketch presented by the Elementary Council. Katherine Adams, Mary Frances Hondlink, Mary Lou Herring, Nettie Lewis, Herman Clifton, Neina McDonald, and Marabel Allen took part in this.

"Little Boy Blue," a musical reading presented by Elby Nolan, accompanied by Edna Nolan. This stunt represented the Girls' Glee Club.

Annie Mae Smith gave a Christmas reading, representing the Y. W. C. A.

A clever skit was given by the following Y. M. C. A. boys: Billy Laffler and George Kincaid.

The Dramatics Club presented Mildred Breard and Louis Guerriers.

The Spanish Club was represented by Eleanor Bennet, who played several piano selections.

M. D. Swayze, S. M. Sevier, and Gus Swayze played and sang several selections. This stunt received much applause.

The Honor Scholastic Society presented a rather outstanding act. Jason Berry (we believe that he was the gentleman) made several startling announcements over the school radio system.

The Literary Guild contributed a stunt, but were not competing for the prize. Their stunt was acted by Mary Frances Hondlink and Nettie Lewis.

Mr. Colvert presented the trophy, a tin cup, to Eugene Chapman and Tony Marsala, who represented the Freshman class in an outstanding stunt. According to the opinion of the judges, Miss Veal, Mr. Smith, and Mrs. Younse, the Freshman class won the trophy.

The program committee for stunt program, Mary Helen Weaver, chairman, and Frances Jones, Mary Wilma Booth, Mary Frances Hondlink, Evelyn Hill, take this means of thanking those clubs which participated in the program.

AGNES MACPHAIL, M. P., TO SPEAK AT L. S. U.

Baton Rouge, La.—Agnes Macphail, first woman member of the Canadian House of Commons, will speak at the University on January 18 as the third of a series of speakers to be brought to the campus this session under the auspices of the Graduate School. All interested in hearing Miss Macphail are cordially invited to attend.

Elected to the Canadian parliament in 1921 as the United Farmers' member for Southeast Gray, Ontario, she was re-elected in 1925, 1926, and 1930 and remains the sole woman M. P. In 1929 she was appointed one of the three Canadian delegates to the 10th assembly of the League of Nations, at Geneva, and was there chosen to sit on the Disarmament committee, being the first woman so honored.

Born and reared on a farm and having taught in country schools for a number of years, Miss Macphail has a sympathetic understanding of the farmers' position and of rural problems. She has never lost contact with the people who chose her as their representative. She has followed a practice which may be characterized

CHORAL CLUB GIVES MESSIAH

THE FOURTH ANNUAL PERFORMANCE GIVEN BEFORE FULL HOUSE

On December 19, 1934, the citizens of Monroe showed their appreciation of the higher things of life by turning out a full house to witness the fourth annual performance of the Messiah, which was presented by the Choral Club of Monroe and West Monroe, assisted by Dr. Henry W. Stopher and the L. S. U. Symphony Orchestra. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Daisy Carlock Raymond, soprano and Mrs. Erica Green Hornsey; Mr. Willis Ducrest, tenor, and Mr. Sherrod Towns, bass, all of whom are members of the L. S. U. School of Music. Choruses were done by the entire Choral Club under the guidance of Mr. Roger C. Frisbie, who, incidentally, seemed to enjoy very much the opportunity of directing the L. S. U. Symphony Orchestra during several numbers.

After the performance, participants in the Messiah were entertained in the faculty room, with Dean and Mrs. C. C. Colvert acting as hosts.

POW WOW STAFF IN XMAS PARTY

Tuesday, December 19th, the Pow Wow staff had a Christmas party in the publications room, which was gaily decorated for the occasion. The students who have been putting out this paper gathered around a Christmas tree and waited for Santa Claus. Soon Santa (Jason Berry in whiskers and costume) came striding in, and the party was on.

When the staff had finished the delicious refreshments, which included sandwiches, fruit, candy, and drinks, Santa Claus began to distribute the gifts, several of which were sent by people who are usually called practical jokers. Mrs. Penick, the genial sponsor of the paper, received a highly illustrated book whose title was "Learning to Write Step by Step with Betty and Jack." Arthur "Minne" Doehla was given an excerpt from the last War Whoops column which contained remarks that were not complimentary to the writers of the Minne-Ha-Ha. Cary "Ha-Ha" Nettles, Doehla's co-worker, received a toy animal which is usually called a donkey, or jackass (with a gentle insinuation—). Jason Berry, the War Whooper, was the recipient of some choice perfume. (Evidently the Minne-Ha-Ha writers are taking steps to make Berry's column smell better).

The Big Chief of the Pow Wow, Ed Gill, the editor, received two small dolls to brighten his labors and keep him at his work of editing this paper. All the other staff members were made happy by appropriate gifts, and the party was voted a grand success. Before rushing off to classes, the staff members extended a vote of thanks to Jason Berry's mother, who prepared the delicious sandwiches for the party.

NEW INTEREST GIVEN TO STUDY OF ITALIAN

Baton Rouge, La.—New interest has been given to the study of Italian at the Louisiana State university by the appointment of Mrs. Robert Penn Warren to the faculty of the Romance language department as a specialist in this field. Mr. Warren, a graduate of Oxford, England, is a member of the English staff.

Mrs. Warren, formerly Emma Brescia, native of Ecuador and of Italian parentage, was educated in private schools in Rome, Italy, until nine years of age. Her family

NEW RATING FOR POW WOW

"ALL-AMERICAN" IS GOAL FOR THIS YEAR'S PUBLICATION

Editors of the past school year Pow Wow won a certificate of award for second class honor rating in the fourteenth annual all-American newspaper critical service.

The Pow Wow as issued last year was two columns smaller than the Pow Wow at the present time. With this increase in size, and the work of a very faithful staff which is doing all possible to improve the paper, the Pow Wow this year should be ranked as "All-American."

This will be the fifteenth annual All-American Newspaper Critical Service of the National Scholastic Press Association. Papers entering this contest must be sent in before January 26, 1935.

This early date is for getting the papers judged and certificates of award to schools before the end of this school year.

There has been a general settling down among the students after the Christmas holidays, and no one wonders why. Semester examinations are just around the corner, and the corner isn't very far ahead. These examinations begin Monday, January 28, and continue through Friday, Feb. 1.

Registration for the second semester must be made during examination week, also. A late registration fee will be charged those who register the following week.

The soy bean, fifteen years ago considered to be fit for consumption by horses and cattle, has today been so intensively developed that Prof. G. L. Schuster, of the University of Delaware (Newark) believes that it will eventually replace 15 to 20 per cent of the wheat consumed in the world.

AGE OF INNOCENCE

(By Kurl Stevenson)

Thirteen members of the student body eagerly lent their assistance in helping the writer fulfill this assignment. It is interesting to note that the idea of an article on the "Age of Innocence" was framed up at a press meeting, which the author was unable to attend, and passed on to him. Tracing various clues, the evidence is stacking up on Mr. Berry . . .

In order to get a line on what the contents of this article should be, questions were asked a restricted number of students. The writer is grateful to "Boo" for the suggestion, ignorance and burlesque; W. V. Smith, "opposite of innocence"; Polly Nenney, "Betty Boop"; Pal May, "I can show you a model"; Doehla, "liquor parties"; Jack Nolan could think only of Mildred Breard. Billy Laffler says it is the "age of opportunity"; Mrs. Griffis (Corrine), "I am afraid to say". Bono thinks only of Frances Nolan. Jason and Guin say practically the same thing, "not in this day"; Edna, "nudist colony"; and Hulda thinks the title applies to "Blimp". The faculty either offered no suggestions, or refused to be quoted.

The author does not want to show favoritism to any one of the above so . . .

Being a young man, naturally I can tell more about the woman's side of this subject than the man's. I have often seen pictures of women—of a number of years ago—with large hoops in their skirts. The poor things would nearly lace themselves to death in an effort to taper their waist down to a point, and then put on scores of petticoats and a dress that scraped the floor. When the

PRE-MEDIC CLUB HOLDS MEETING

PAUL COLVIN GIVES TALK ON COLLOIDAL SYSTEM

At a business meeting of the Pre-Medic Club, December 18, Paul Colvin gave an interesting talk on colloidal systems. During the talk he prepared a few different kinds of colloidal systems, and explained them to the members. In part he stated, "colloidal systems move as the molecules move in a gas"—going further to explain that this was part of the Brownian movement.

After the conclusion of his speech, the club was declared in a business session and important points were discussed, one being a certain topic discussed to turn their subjects over to an appointed committee that would see that the plan was carried out.

Members present were: Miss Wolfe, sponsor of the club; J. C. Butler, M. G. Carso, Eugene Chapman, A. P. Colvin, Walter Culpepper, Jetson David, Dorothy Mauldin, J. U. Morrison, Ruth Murphy, F. B. Shipp, Erlene Stout, Harry Wilson, B. Trichel, and Raymond Bolton.

The general upbuilding of the college will be aided at the beginning of the second semester by the addition of several new courses to the college curriculum. Educational Psychology, Methods of Teaching Arithmetic, Practice-teaching in the Elementary Grades, Comparative Government, Fundamentals of Basketball, and Rural-Urban Sociology will be added, and are expected to aid many students in their preparation for higher work.

Several new students are expected to enter for the second semester, according to the requests for catalogues and for various other information about the college.

WOLFE OFFERS SCHOLARSHIP

AWARD GIVEN IN HONOR OF INSTRUCTOR'S FATHER

Miss Kathryn M. Wolfe, sponsor of the Pre-Medic Club, has given a $50 gift scholarship to the college. It is to be known as the James H. Wolfe scholarship, in memory of Miss Wolfe's father. The award this year is to be made to a pre-medic student who has completed three semesters of this course. It will be given this year as soon as the first semester grades have been recorded. It will be awarded to a student on the basis of scholarship, dependability, character, and worthiness as a member of the student body.

Dean C. C. Colvert has appointed Dr. Albritton, Mr. F. F. Smith, and Miss Wolfe as the committee to select the recipient of this scholarship.

It is hoped that other scholarships will be given.

MISS DOT WROTEN MATRIMONIAL VICTIM

The interest of many friends in this section of the state is centered in the announcement of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Wroten, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Wroten, of Alexandria, and Mr. Thomas M. Green, of Monroe.

The double-ring ceremony was performed Sunday afternoon, December thirtieth, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. S. F. Baker, in Pineville, with Reverend A. E. Prince officiating in the presence of the family and a few intimate friends.

A nuptial concert was rendered during which Miss Rose Baker played a group of old love songs. Miss Jewell Kees sang "At Dawning," and Miss Margaret Wroten sang, "I Love You Truly."

Miss Rhoda Alsop, aunt of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a smart gray wool model and corsage of roses.

The bride wore a beautiful dark blue wool model, with matching accessories, and a corsage of white roses. She was given in marriage by her father, Mr. O. E. Kirkland, close friend of the groom, acted in the capacity of best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held, during which the bride cut the wedding cake, a delectable confection of white and green. Numerous telegrams of congratulations were received.

Mr. and Mrs. Greer will reside in Monroe, where Mrs. Greer is registrar at the Northeast Center of Louisiana State University, and Mr. Greer is associated with Swift and Company.

Query in the Columbia University (New York City) Spectator regarding that institution's gridiron future: "Littlemen what now?"

GLEE CLUBS SING AT L. S. U.

LOCAL STUDENTS ASSIST IN PRESENTATION AT BATON ROUGE

On December 16th at 5:30 a.m., various members of the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, accompanied by Mr. Frisbie and Miss Florence Ziegler, climbed into the "Drowsy Tiger," and sped away to Baton Rouge to assist the L. S. U. Glee Club in a presentation of Handel's "Messiah." They arrived at Baton Rouge early in the afternoon and proceeded to the university, where they were welcomed by Dr. Stopher, the head of the music department, and many students of music. Then all singers donned their vestments and made ready for the performance.

The Messiah was presented by four soloists and a chorus which consisted of about two hundred singers. The L. S. U. Symphony Orchestra accompanied the singing, and the whole performance was under the direction of Dr. Stopher. It was presented in Music Hall to a large and appreciative audience.

After the performance the Northeast Center singers were guests at a tea given by President Smith of L. S. U., in the Venetian room, and after the tea, were shown the many buildings of the university.

They spent the night at various places, such as the women's dormitories, the infirmary, the fraternity houses, and private homes, and enjoyed the hospitality of the L. S. U. and Baton Rouge people.

The return trip was made on Monday, December 17th, the bus arriving in Monroe about seven p. m.

The Glee Club members who made the trip were: Mildred Breard, Carrimena McIntosh, Nettie Lewis, Louise Wood, Mildred Trichel, Hulda Tillman, Jean Bounds, Marie Taylor, Mary Helen Weaver, Margaret Booth, Kathryn Adams, Nellie Breard, Lillian Aulds, Juanita Ferrington, Avonia Gerald, Pearl Mason, A. M. Sevier, Garland Shell, A. D. Langston, Walter Savage, Carl Davis, John Aulds, Arthur Doehla, and Cary Nettles.

GLEE CLUB IN NEED OF TENOR

With little exception, the Men's Glee Club work is coming along in great shape. The club has already completed six or seven pieces which they intend to give at assembly in the near future. The outstanding difficulties which confront the club are the matters of raising funds for the Glee Club trips next semester, and the problem of finding a good first tenor.

The first item is being worked on by a committee of three, who are going to cooperate with the Women's Glee Club on the financial proposition. The matter of finding a tenor is going to be the hardest job. Mr. Frisbie would be glad to see any one who has the slightest idea he can fill the place, and give him a tryout. If you can be of service to your school in this line, you can't help the college in any better way than by making the Glee Club a success.

Entered as second-class matter January 5, 1932, at the post office at Monroe, Louisiana, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

How are your New Year resolutions? Did you make many, and cast them aside after the first few days, or did you make one that you are still keeping, and intend to keep throughout the year?

Resolutions, like everything else that involve thinking, are easily made, but hard to keep unless the determination behind them is strong. They are a proof of your will power, and what you can do, once you set your soul, heart, and body to the task.

Life offers no alibis, neither will it accept them; you are, or you are not; and what are you? Just what you've made of yourself no doubt, for no one else can make you a success, nor can any one make of you a failure. If you have within yourself the determination to be something, that shall you be, no more, and surely no less.

When you resolve that the new year shall be a more successful one for you, you must set out to make it so, and not sit idly by and let each day bring what it may.

You are the youth of today and the America of tomorrow; the world is yours. It offers anything that you may wish for; and you can be anything that you choose to be if you are man enough to fit yourself for that position, and you are, but will you take advantage of all that is offered you? That is the question.

What shall I do with the new year, how shall I spend each day? Does that question rise before your conceptive mind? If so, what is your answer? You alone can tell. Each day can bring into your life—that which will make it rich, successful, and beautiful if you will but take notice of all that goes on about you, and not let your mind be swayed by idle thoughts and the easiest way to live through each new-born day.

What has been done can be done again; men and women have risen from the very depth of nowhere, and made of themselves famous figures, simply because they gave something to a world which is always ready to recognize those who can add something to the lives of others.

What you wish to be, you can be, if you are willing to work and take advantage of the opportunities that come to you each day.

Success doesn't often come to those who only sit and dream, but to those who are always "doing." For everything you do that is worthwhile, life offers some reward, and if you do nothing, that is what you gain, just nothing.

"Life writes our histories on all our faces; it brands the record of emotions, and our passions on our brow." If this be true, and it has been proved so, then what type of face shall be yours, that you shall look upon in years to come, and even until you are no more?

Think well of what the new year offers; and so live each day that you may be justly proud of what the end shall bring.

"Let us then be up and doing,
 With a heart for any fate,
 Still achieving, still pursuing,
 Learn to labor and to wait!" —R. L. Partridge.

Several former members of our student body were in Monroe during the holidays. Among them were Clara Terzia, Sara Moffett, Sadye Peters, A. L. Peters, Henry Florsheim, Jane Dawkins, Miriam McGimsey, Louise Gray, Lillie Thompson, Roy Hale, Georgine Cole, Bill Yeager, John Reynolds, Turner Reynolds, Turner Alexander, Sara Florence Coon, Dorothy Flanagan, Rufus Yeager, Hazel Mitchell, W. K. Olmstead, James Hollingsworth, and several others.

Dean and Mrs. Colvert and their small daughter, Marguerite, spent the holidays visiting in Cahot, Arkansas, and other points of interest.

Miss Marshall has as her attractive guest, her mother, who lives in Ohio.

We are glad to see Miss Davis back in school after a brief attack of influenza.

Bill Whatley is rapidly recovering from a recent appendicitis operation.

Marshall Allen was the guest of friends in Shreveport recently.

The Pow Wow staff was entertained at a very delightful party on Tuesday before school was dismissed for the holidays.

Ruth Helen Harvey was privileged to spend the past ten days with her mother in Tylertown, Mississippi.

The social room in the lobby of the gym seems to be a huge success. Everyone is urged to drop in for a friendly chat.

Quite a large number of students were privileged to spend the holidays with their parents for the first time since school started in September. They all report that they had a grand Christmas.

The Northeast Center faculty was rather scattered about the U. S. during the Christmas vacation. Each one was reluctant to return to his position at the beginning of the year. Among those out of town were Miss Turner, Springfield, Mo.; Miss Null, southern Louisiana; Miss Baker, St. Louis, Mo.; Miss Hefley, Homer, La.; Miss Marshall, Dallas, Texas; Miss Davis, New Orleans; Miss Blackman, El Paso, Texas; Miss "Boo" Clark, Dallas; Mrs. Penick, Pond Creek, Okla.; Mrs. Greer, Alexandria; Mr. Smith, Ruston and Leesville; Mr. Hammond, Louisville, Ky.; Coach Malone, Alabama, and New Orleans; Mr. Redditt, Columbia, and Alexandria, and Mr. and Mrs. Frisbie, Little Rock, Arkansas.

NEW RULES ARE MADE BY DEAN

In assembly held Monday morning, January 7th, Dean Colvert gave to the student body a new regulation concerning noise in and around the building.

By unanimous vote of the faculty, the noise in the halls, in the rooms, and around the building must stop, because,

1. It has a bad effect upon those people who wish to study during vacant periods.
2. It interferes with the proper order of the student body and the college.
3. It interferes with instruction.
4. It creates a bad impression upon visitors and the general public.
5. It is unbecoming in college men and women.

Since it must be quiet in the halls and rooms and around the building, and since students need some place for a social room, the faculty offered the lobby of the gymnasium for the convenience of the students. The bookstore was moved into the west store room of the lobby of the gym.

In order to protect the gym floor and to prevent useless traffic through the first floor hall, the entrance to and from the social room must be made from the front.

The social room was turned over to the students, and the student body elected "Blimp" Manning as chairman, for the purpose of governing the room. A student commission composed of Risdon Wood, Burt Trichel, and Margaret Chase, sophomores, and Jason Berry, Kenner Day, and Peggy O'Toole, Freshmen, was elected to help Mr. Manning.

This commission is responsible to the student affairs committee of the faculty for counsel. It has the power to withdraw the privilege of the social room to a student for a definite or indefinite time.

The new social room has for furniture now two lounges and a radio. It is hoped that this will be added to in time.

LETTER OF THANKS

The sponsor of this paper and her family wish to express through its pages their deep appreciation of the sympathy and floral offerings tendered them by faculty members and by students of Northeast Center in their recent bereavement at the sudden death of their brother and son, Paul L. Crider.

374 GRADUATE STUDENTS ENROLLED IN UNIVERSITY

Baton Rouge, La.—Students from 28 states and three foreign countries comprise the graduate school enrollment of 374 at the Louisiana State University this session, according to statistics released by Dr. Charles W. Pipkin, dean of the graduate school.

"Keeping step with the increase of graduate student enrollment at the university, there has been a corresponding quickening of sustained and serious interest in scholarly work on the part of faculty members and graduate students," commented Dr. Pipkin in making the announcement.

"There is no more important service that the university is giving the state and the nation than the present concentration upon highgrade work at the graduate level. The welfare of Louisiana depends upon its teachers and professional leaders, and the university keeps before it as a practical ideal the goal of serving in the most complete fashion the needs of our state," Dean Pipkin stated.

Pointing out the larger opportunities now open to the university because of its recognition in

LIBRARY NEWS

One of the most interesting things that I have seen this year is in the library now. It is a stereoscope and stereoscopic photographs. This fascinating new book on physics makes Galileo's early experiments and the latest discoveries in cosmic rays exciting courses in understandable. The book, "From Galileo to Cosmic Rays," by Harvey Brace Lemon, tells you why you could jump over a two-story house located on the moon with the same degree of effort as clearing a six-foot bar on earth. Another thing, it explains to you what horsepower is, and that to deliver one horsepower of performance, a 150-pound man would have to run up-stairs three steps at a time, three times every second. Also it explains why you get the sensation of walking down-hill as you walk through the aisle of a train that is slowing down rapidly.

One feature rarely found in books has been included in this one. Many of the photographs may be seen in solid relief, stereoscopically, as it is called, being double in reproduction. These double pictures are not two identical prints from the same negative, as many persons suppose, but are taken by two lenses on two negatives; in most cases simultaneously.

Stereoscopic photography has a multitude of uses. By taking the two photographs from distances separated by many feet instead of by the distance between the two eyes, when distant objects, as planets, are involved, the third dimension (that from the observer to the object) is greatly magnified in comparison with the other two. Such "giant vision" views reveal aspects of topography that may be seen in no other way. Microscopic photographs, X-ray photographs, and the photography of cloud-forms all find increased possibilities of delineation by the use of the stereoscopic principle.

All physics students should by all means see this book and use the stereoscope. Even if you don't take physics, you should see this book. —Rachel Haynes.

Louisiana and elsewhere, Dr. Pipkin called attention to three editorial honors held by L. S. U. faculty members. Dr. Wendell H. Stephenson is editor-in-chief of the "Southern Historical Review," Prof. Walter Prichard is editor of the "Louisiana Historical Quarterly," and Prof. S. T. Sanders is editor of the "National Mathematics Magazine." Prof. E. A. Davis of the history department is associate editor of the Southern Review and both Dean Pipkin and Dean B. Trant, commerce, serve on editorial boards. Dr. W. Paul Webber, Dr. Irby C. Nichols, and Dr. H. Lyle Smith of the mathematics department are members of the editorial board of the "National Mathematics Magazine."

Paying tribute to the "deep interest of President James Monroe Smith in strengthening the entire program of graduate work, both in teaching and research facilities," Dr. Pipkin said that there is no reason why the university should not in a few years be a great center for research

COLVERT'S CORNER

Your college education is divided into three parts as follows: Your textbooks and library, your association with your instructors and other members of the faculty, and your extra-curricular activities. The thing I would like to mention right now is your clubs of the college. Many of you are overlooking a great training of one or two clubs and of making your membership mean something to you and to your club. I believe there is something that each one can do to better his club and that something is to elevate that club to a plane of constructive service and action.

C. C. COLVERT, Dean.

LEARNING

When only a child I chased a butterfly,
 And found it's wings would crumble at a touch.
 As I grew older, I found pleasure just the same,
 That all was useless, when we seek too much.

And when I'd tasted of the deeper things, sorrow and despair,
 I found that they were useless, too,
 And life much too short to care.

So now I take them as they come,
 And mix them into one,
 That I may know the fulness of life,
 When day is done.

—R. L. Partridge.

A poll to select the handsomest man on the campus of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute indicates that the male engineers believe that "brutishness" mean handsomeness.

A chapter of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, national honorary geology, mining, metallurgy and ceramic fraternity, has been installed on the Miami University (Oxford, Ohio) campus.

A vigorous campaign is being waged by students at the University of Richmond (Va.) for the abolition of the system which allows undergraduates to grade papers.

"This will immeasurably aid the state and nation in meeting the confusing problems of modern existence and in increasing the usefulness and happiness of our people," he concluded.

States other than Louisiana represented in the graduate school are Mississippi, Nebraska, Kansas, Iowa, Oklahoma, Texas, Washington, Virginia, Wisconsin, Illinois, Alabama, Kentucky, North Carolina, South Carolina, New York, Massachusetts, Georgia, Missouri, Ohio, Minnesota, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Indiana, Arkansas, Colorado, Michigan, and Connecticut. There are also students from Puerto Rico, District of Columbia, Canada, and India.

THERE IS NO DEAD LANGUAGE, SAYS PROF.

Middlebury, Vt.—(ACP)—They may be the dead languages in most colleges and universities, but it is not scholastically dead on the Middlebury College campus, according to Prof. Raymond H. White, head of the Latin Department here.

As is true in all colleges, there is a much smaller number electing Latin and Greek now than there was ten years ago, but those who are taking them are ordinarily the better students, he says.

"What educators need to remember is that to cripple the mission of the classics will presently spell the same fate for the modern languages," Professor White went on, "and ultimately for the prophetic progress already made in our country in the cultivation for the arts.

"Our colleges need to teach not fewer languages but more. Many a problem we are trying to solve by endless discussion of politics and economics would be nearer solution if we had the patience to travel the language road.

"The popularity of the sciences is tending to throttle interest in the arts. The classical teacher, from the nature and content of his subject, is an important ally of all those interested in the arts.

"Whiskers" Poidon, "Fuzz" Roddy, has at last found a member of the fairer sex that he can get along with. They spend a few happy moments together on the bus daily while he ciphers her 3rd grade arithmetic problems.

Old Dead-Eye, Sharpshooter Trichel has all the damsels at his feet since scoring 12 points in the Monticello game. One luscious creature even went so far as to inquire if he could do anything else so brilliantly as he loops baskets.

The great Cashon must be hard to please. Not satisfied with the multitudinous dolls with come hither eyes on the campus, he goes in for high school activities.

Spillers has just about convinced Hulda Tillman that Lake Charles is a good place to be from. One John Renwick of the Parish High is still in the race, however. It'll be a neck and neck race!

Cecil (Never Sweat) Hill must have worn his Tux duck hunting during the holidays. Either that, or he's gone in for wading.

"To that extent he is a champion of the duty of the college to see that a balance is kept between those two factors of the modern curriculum, each of which is as vital as the other.

"Middlebury's new plan for instruction in the classics is based on the fact that the present and future grow out of the past so inevitably that he who knows only the present does not really know that.

"The ancient languages are so taught that the student will feel that they are really languages, and each the sanctorum sanctorum of the people that create it, and, secondly, so that the student may acquire a knowledge of the ancient world and thus better understand his own.

"Only through familiarity with the language of a people does one come truly to know that people."

JAMES A. GARFIELD HAD NOTHING ON THIS CO-ED

Wichita, Kan. (ACP)—When it comes to utilizing one's time, James A. Garfield, who studied while riding a horse on a canal towpath, had nothing on Miss Agnes Wilson, University of Wichita Co-ed.

If Miss Wilson feels the need of study on one of the subjects she is taking, she walks the two miles from the university to her home, and by the time she arrives she has the necessary lesson.

The system she uses is simple. If it happens to be Spanish vocabulary that needs learning, she writes the words in question on a small piece of paper before leaving the university. She studies as she walks, and by the time she arrives home the vocabulary is firmly fixed in her mind. Other subjects receive the same treatment.

as unique. She addresses them frequently at local meetings, explains the stand which she has taken on various matters and asks "Was I right?"

Of her power as a speaker, the Ottawa Journal has recently made the following interesting comment: "Miss Agnes Macphail's speech was like a waterfall in the desert. . . She spoke for forty minutes from sparse notes, holding a crowded and hushed house throughout. . . Miss Macphail's effort had structure and passion, plus a fine and restrained vein of sarcasm, a dancing wit, some passages of pathos, and a deal of humor. It was far and away the best speech that has been made in the House this year."

Others who have addressed the club this year are Dr. E. A. Parsons of New Orleans, president of the Louisiana Historical association; E. M. Coulter of the University of Georgia, president of the Southern Historical association, and Adamantios Polyzoides, Greek journalist and noted authority on international relations. Miss Jessie Harris, head of the department of home economics at the University of Tennessee, will be one of the speakers during the second semester. Others are to be announced later.

NEW INTEREST GIVEN TO STUDY OF ITALIAN

ily removed to America when she was nine, after which she attended American public schools and, on the completion of preparatory work, the University of California. She was graduated from the University of California in 1929. In addition to Italian, she has also spoken Spanish since babyhood and is versed in three other languages, English, German, and Polish.

Concerned in the development of greater interest in the language than might evolve in formal class meetings alone, Mrs. Warren has organized an Italian Club which meets for pleasantly informal sessions at the Warren home. As the work of the department progresses, courses will be expanded to include a consideration of Italian letters and culture, the club continuing to form a nucleus for group study and informal conferences. Officers of the club are Rocco Contini, Dover, Ohio, president; Annie Marie Campanella, Baton Rouge, vice president; and Anthony Pascucci, Rockport, Mass., secretary-treasurer. Members of the entertainment committee are Olga Maestri, Margaret Lanian, and Wallace Stopher, all of Baton Rouge.

At the first meeting of the club, held the early part of this month Dean Charles W. Pipkin of the graduate school gave a talk on Italy and a program of Italian music was presented by a group of students from the university school of music.

Will Rogers, America's ace humorist, has been invited to attend the Rollins College (Winter Park, Fla.), founders' day exercises, at which he will be given a Bachelor of the Art of Making People Grin, Laugh and Guffaw degree.

DEMONS STAGE SECOND-HALF OFFENSIVE TO SMOTHER INDIANS

The Northeast Center basketball team dropped its second straight game last night, losing a 33-14 decision to the Demons of Louisiana Normal at the local gym.

The Demons didn't offer quite as stiff opposition as the Monticello Aggies presented Tuesday night and the Indians held their own fairly well in the first half. However, during the second half the Normal quintet dropped in field goals with monotonous regularity and widened the gap between the two teams.

It was six minutes after the game started before a score was made. Both teams started the contest with their players wearing purple jerseys and after six minutes of play, the game was stopped and the Indians changed their shirts. That apparently was a good move, for immediately after play was resumed, Pryor, Indian center, dropped in a field goal. Trichel, local forward, followed with another basket and the Northeast Center quintet held a 4-0 lead. However, the Demons started to click and reeled off four field goals and a free throw before the Indians again tallied. The score was 13 to 8 for Normal at the half.

The second half also got off to a slow start. Curiously, it took the teams another six minutes before either could make a tally. After Wyatt, Normal forward, made good one of two free throws, the Demons rung up four consecutive field goals that sent them 'way out in front. The Indians were able to make but one field goal in the second half.

Trichel again turned in a fine floor game for the Indians and he also led the locals' scoring with five points. Wyatt, Normal forward, won individual scoring honors with four field goals and four free throws for a total of 12 points. Doughty, center, and Dupree, guard, were runners-up with six points. Wyatt was the Demons' outstanding player, with Dupree also turning in a good floor game.

Doughty, captain of the Normal five, with ejected from the game for using language one isn't supposed to use when the referee is listening. Doughty had been "gripping" during most of the game and apparently had it coming to him. Whittington, Normal guard, went out via the foul route. He objected, but there wasn't anything that could be done about it. He, also, had been doing more "gripping" than is usually allowed. Apparently the Demons weren't in the best of humor after their long road trip.

MINNE-A-HA-HA

At last we have discovered why Miss Dorothy Wroten has been saving the cooking lessons and recipes from the daily papers. Sunday, December 30, she and Mr. Thomas M. Greer were married in, of all places, Pineville. Knowing the bride as we do, this seems to us to be a most appropriate location for such an event. (Pineville is the home of the state insane asylum.) Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held during which the bride cut the wedding cake. We wonder if her hand shook? Numerous telegrams (probably of congratulations and consolation) were received. In all seriousness, we offer our congratulations and wishes of happiness.

Berry claims that "discriminating and dastardly slurs" are being cast on his "fumerous" column. Discrimination and favoritism are two things the writers of this column shy from. To prove this, we say that not only are Berry's "War-Whoops" rotten, but that his whole sports page is the lowest form of writing that exists, even falling below the depths of the dime novel, which he claims compares favorably with our writings. As to his statement that we are laboring under a "delusion and misapprehension" that our works are being appreciatively accepted by the student body, they (Minne-Ha-Ha) seem to be worth imitation, which is the highest praise we can ask for.

We wish the Cooper twins would stop eating candy in the show. That cellophane makes so much noise that we can't hear what the actors are saying.

"Pal" May can't decide between blondes and brunettes. One time we see him with Polly Nenny and the next vacant period he is dragging "Goon" Stroud around the halls. Take our advice and keep away from all blondes.

Ask Bono if he knows anything about the telephone in the bookstore being used for foolishness.

Burt Trichel gets credit for the prize boner. He went in the bookstore and asked for "a nickel's worth holes." He wanted note-book reinforcements.

We noticed that there was an unusual amount of interest shown in physical education classes last week. Perhaps Mr. Colvert should check those rolls every day.

Why all the deep, dark mystery about the winners of that beauty contest sponsored by the annual staff? Will you tell us, or must we employ the well known system of key-hole peeping?

Kurl Stevenson claims that he is writing an article that is so bad that it will have to be put on the sports page.

We never thought that Rachel Haynes could stoop so low as to become a cradle snatcher. Who was the high-school sophomore that took her to the dance the other night?

"Tony" Coverdale would like very much to know who stuck a dough-nut on the door handle of his car when it was parked in

7 BUILDINGS PLANNED FOR L. S. U. CAMPUS

Baton Rouge, La.—Work on the 1935 building program announced last week for the University, to include a building for the college of arts and sciences and several residence units and to take care of an anticipated increase of 1,000 students in the 1935-36 session, will be begun early in January, it has been announced by President James M. Smith. Announcement of the program was made by President Smith following the vote of the state board of liquidation December 27 to borrow $1,000,000 for the program in anticipation of the funds to be received from the corporation tax voted at the recent special session of the legislature.

Work on the building of the college of arts and sciences will be begun early in January, that on the smaller units in March, according to present plans, the an-

VARIETY OF GIFTS AT PARTY

Thursday, December 20, 1934, ole Santa in all his pomp and glory, paid Northeast Center students a worthy visit to further bring on the Yuletide spirits. The student body gathered in the auditorium, and after several songs were sung, the old bewhiskered fellow made his annual visit, and left practically every student the proud owner of a gift of some denomination.

Naturally, your writer couldn't see what everyone got, as there was a lot of confusion going on. Then, too, he was busy putting away a nice sized bag of delicious candy. Between bites, however, he saw Jack Nolan proudly displaying a package of cigarettes and a nice handkerchief. How I envy those bi-present getters. Frances Browning received a celluloid fish with several names written on it. We couldn't get the connection. It is, or should be, rather, a known fact that she couldn't be termed a fish—it must be the company she keeps that are termed as the aquatic inhabitants. . . . Of all the dirty tricks ever—Goon Stroud had the fastest one pulled on her—a bar of Life Buoy soap, and whom was she sitting with at the time! . . . Mr. Smith must want Burt Trichel to keep close tab on himself; anyway he gave Burt a diary (not milk cows, just a small book to insert daily occurrences in) . . . It is rumored that Doris Davenport got a doll; let's hope she did announcement stated. Plans for the arts and science building call for a three-story building, including two main stories and a sub-floor. The sub-floor will be surrounded by airways. Lecture halls, classrooms, and lavatory facilities will be located on the first and second floors; lecture halls, the fine arts department, offices of the lower division, and other offices on the third floor.

Smaller units include, according to the tentative program, a graduate men's dormitory, junior and senior women's houses, a co-operative women's dormitory, a French house, and the dormitories in the west side of the stadium. The construction of the French house, which will be a campus center for the study of French, is one of the projects announced recently in the expansion program of the Romance language department.

The arts and science building will be located just north of the agricultural group and adjoining Hill Memorial library, its position corresponding to that of Peabody Hall at the northwest corner of the North quadrangle. Locations of other units have not yet been announced.

AGE OF INNOCENCE

(Continued from page one) (they really started a little before). Such carryings-on were only in well known districts; today the precinct has spread until it covers the entire city. Smoking and drinking have become so habitual among the women that many of them can out-drink or smoke the men who accompany them.

I would like to put in a word for the women here. In this country the women have the same rights as men. If it is all right for the men to smoke or drink, certainly the women have that right. Years ago a man would lower himself and have a good time, but seldom did he marry the type of woman he enjoyed his sports with. Today the tables have turned, a fact which probably accounts for the attitude toward the situation.

One of the truest remarks, I believe, is what the old generation says of the coming one, "I don't know what this world is coming to," or something similar to that. Usually the ones who shout the loudest of the youths' carryings-on were grand rascals when they were our age. Some highly religious people and big business men are classified by critics among the worst examples of immorality.

so that baby talkin' can be done at home, to some extent. Six-bits to a half it was a blonde. . . . Doc Devereaux wanted a fireman's hat, but he got only a police whistle; tough luck. . . . Mr. Kemerer was given a book labeled "Negroid Enunciation," by the co-authors, Stud Mays and Boyd Arnold. Now that was a gift that really should be appreciated. Mr. Kemerer should, in turn, give them the inside dope on talking like a riveting machine. . . . What is it that doesn't come in cellophane these days and times? Can you conceive of Mildred Beard's getting a nipple and baby doll all in the same package? All precious gifts come in small packages. . . . That's nothing tho, it was just noted that Martha Garretson got twin dolls.
