New dean for education

Dr. Bernard Shadoin

Dr. Bernard Shadoin has been appointed dean of the College of Education, replacing Dr. H.T. Garner. The appointment was approved by the State Board of Education, meeting in Baton Rouge Friday.

The appointment was made when Dr. Garner requested a return to full time teaching duties, after serving as Dean of the College of Education for the past five years.

Dr. Shadoin has served as head of the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education since 1969 and has been a member of the NLU faculty since 1960.

The new dean will assume his duties beginning with this year's second summer term.

New pharmacy building dedication held Sunday

Gov. Edwin Edwards

Formal dedication of the NLU pharmacy building, Leon G. Sugar Hall, took place Sunday with Louisiana Governor, Edwin Edwards, and other officials taking part in the ceremonies.

Among those participating in the dedication with Gov. Edwards were Dr. George T. Walker, Northeast president; Dr. Ben F. Cooper, dean of the College of Pharmacy and Dr. Boyd Granberg, editor of the American Journal of Pharmaceutical Education. The dedication ceremonies began with a luncheon in Schulze Dining Hall.

The formal ceremony followed in Sugar Hall and concluded with an open house tour of the structure.

The formal dedication speech was delivered by Dr. Granberg, professor of Pharmacy at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa, after Gov. Edwards spoke to those in attendance about the program of education in Louisiana.

Aid given

Two federal grants were recently awarded Northeast, according to George T. Walker NLU president. The grants from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) and the Educational Opportunity Grant Program totaled $89,016, Walker said.

The HEW grant totaling $672,776 was given to NLU under the College Work Study Program, said James F. Hawkins, director of Financial Aid and Placement. Hawkins said the grant is federal money to be used for student employment. "Northeast presently has a student work force of 1800 students," Hawkins said, "and the grant will provide jobs for 200 more students next year."

Application for the loans, grants and work scholarship are based on the income of the family, Hawkins said. Incoming students should apply prior to entering Northeast, while presently enrolled students can obtain an application from the financial aid office stated Hawkins.

Registration set

Students will register for the second summer term Thursday, July 13, from 1 p.m. - 5:30 p.m. in the Ewing Coliseum.

First black frat receives house

Alpha Phi Alpha, NLU's first black fraternity, will receive it's fraternity house according to Glenn Hicks, president of the fraternity. The house will be located on Bon Air Drive next to Sigma Tau Gamma.

Hicks said.

Hicks said the house which will accommodate four people, will be vacant by late August and the fraternity can move in three days before the fall.

Exhibit set

Faculty and students of the NLU Art Department have been involved recently in various art exhibits of both local and national importance. According to Dr. James B. Edwards, head of the NLU Department of Art, the faculty exhibit will be held in Corpus Christi, Tex. while the student exhibit is being held on campus.

According to Dr. Edwards, two faculty members, Robert G. Ward, assistant professor in painting and Louis P. Lubbering's instructor in drawing and design, were selected to display their works in the annual Texas Fine Arts Association traveling arts exhibit. Ward's acrylic, non-representational painting entitled, "Introspection" will be presented along with Lubbering's two figurative charcoal drawings, "South Pacific Street" and "Librarians Wife."

The works will be on display through July 7, said Dr. Edwards, and the gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Three senatorial positions filled

The result of a two and one half hour meeting of the Student Government Association's Summer Senate Tuesday night was the appointment of three new senators and much discussion concerning the Free University Series.

Those appointed to the senate were Patsy Hammonds, Sunny Griffith and Rick Reno. Miss Hammonds is an education major from Monroe and an NLU cheerleader. Miss Griffith is a liberal arts student from Tennessee. Reno, an unsuccessful SGA presidential candidate, is a business administration major from Monroe.

After the new senators were sworn in, discussion turned to the proposed list of Free University Series speakers presented to the senate last week by Larry Eason.

A main point of discussion concerned who the Summer Senate should try to contract for the fall semester. The question of whether the Summer Senate had the power to spend funds, which would come out of the fall budget, was raised by SGA president John Hammons.

Hammons, who is not a member of the Summer Senate since he is not attending summer school, said "I've checked with some lawyers . . . and I don't think the constitution permits the Summer Senate to allocate funds collected during the fall."

Replying to this, Judi Lombardino, summer chairman, said "We are dealing with money spent for students and not with some lawyers. If you get that technical you can't spend any of the money."

After some discussion, the senate decided to narrow the proposed list of Free University speakers down to a few names and see who would be available for the Fall semester.

Among those under consideration are Howard K. Smith, Jack Anderson, Jean Dixon, Jerry Kramer, Sen. Henry Jackson, Rep. Paul McCloskey, Sen. Strom Thurmond and Lester Maddox.

Course made optional

The formerly required Government 301 course of Americanism versus Communism has been made optional to students, according to Dr. Frank Morgan, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

"The course is no longer required of students," Dr. Morgan said. "This action takes effect immediately. We will continue offering the one-hour course, as it is a very informative course and can offer students a valuable elective credit."

An act passed by the Louisiana legislature required all state universities to teach a certain number of hours in Americanism vs. Communism. The state board also ruled that the course be mandatory for students at all institutions under their jurisdiction. The course took the form of a one-hour credit course. The course was offered only to students of junior and senior standing.

The basis of the action taken recently by the State Board was originated by the 1971 NLU fall senate. A motion requesting that the courses Government 301 and Freshman Orientation 101 be placed on a pass-fail grading system, was passed at the October meeting of the senate. The Northeast SGA then took the motion to the Louisiana Student Association meeting held in October. The motion was approved by the thirteen voting-member schools attending.

Following this action, the Louisiana Student Association took action to have the motion presented to the State Board of Education at its December meeting. The motion requested a uniform policy statement for all universities under the board's jurisdiction concerning the courses.

Former SGA organizations chairman and current senate vice-president Judi Lombardino circulated a petition among students concerning the motion and requested other schools do the same.

Following the presentation to the State Board, the motion was referred to the state President's Council for consideration. Recommendation from the council made the course optional to students instead of adopting the pass-fail system of grading. No action was taken on the freshman orientation course.

Chanin case pending

After a marathon hearing before the State Board of Education last Friday in Baton Rouge, the case of NLU foreign language professor, Dr. Wolfram Chanin is still undecided.

As of press time Wednesday no new developments had risen concerning the case. According to Dr. George Walker, NLU president, the case was scheduled to continue its hearing before the school board yesterday at 9:30 a.m.

Dr. Chanin is suing the university in an attempt to prevent his dismissal, saying he did not know why he was being dismissed.

Following a series of legal maneuvers, U.S. Fifth District Court Judge Ben Dawkins signed an order June 9 calling for a due process hearing to be held before the state board to show cause why Dr. Chanin was dismissed from the Northeast faculty.

The hearing began last Thursday, was continued Friday at 1:30 p.m. and lasted until 4 a.m. Saturday morning, with no decision being made. The board then decided to adjourn. It was to reconvene yesterday and a decision was expected to be reached this week, said Dr. Walker and Paul Kidd, attorney for Dr. Chanin.

Dr. Chanin, 53, was informed Feb. 20 his contract which was to expire May 27 would not be renewed. On April 25 he was given a more detailed explanation for his dismissal, said Dr. Walker.

According to a Baton Rouge newspaper, among the university's charges was that Dr. Chanin has pitted faculty against faculty, delayed departmental meetings was remiss in performing administrative duties assigned to him and was in-subordinate to regulations and requests of his superiors.

In testimony before the board, the Baton Rouge paper said, Dr. Chanin charged that Northeast "Doesn't allow you to open your mouth," and he denied all charges against him.

The board also heard testimony from four other witnesses in addition to the comments made by attorneys Kidd and Benjamin

Peters, lawyer for the university. The due process hearing was originally scheduled to be on the NLU campus and was to be conducted by a reviewing body representing a cross section of the university.

However, the June 9 order signed by Judge Dawkins reversed the order and directed the State Board of Education to conduct the hearing.

KNLU State Board approves station

KNLU, the proposed campus radio station, has made another step toward reality, according to Vice-president of Student Affairs Alton H. Taylor.

A letter requesting permission to petition the Federal Communications Commission (FCC) for a permit to operate the station was approved by the Louisiana State Board of Education at its June meeting.

Taylor stated that the administration was now in the stage of compiling technical and statistical data for the applications that must be filed prior to construction and receipt of the FCC license.

Dr. V. Jackson Smith, associate professor of speech and long-time faculty proponent of the station, stated that he is working with various engineers on the various applications that must be completed. He stated that this governmental red tape could take approximately two months to complete.

The station will be classified as a non-commercial, low power and will be an FM station, as frequencies are unavailable in the AM spectrum. The station will be financed by the SGA and Union Board. The SGA allocated $12,000 in the spring, inclusive of a previously set-aside $5,000 carried over from the administration of 1969-70 SGA president Dan McKay. The SGA also approved a motion that 50 cents of each student activity fee apportioned to the SGA would be earmarked as funding for the station beginning in the fall.

The radio station for the NLU campus was first proposed by the 1966-67 SGA.

The Union Board voted in the spring to earmark 25 cents of their portion of the student activity fee for the radio station fund also. These funds, in addition to the SGA funds, will be used for the initial purchase of equipment for the station and will cover operating expenses for the initial installation year.

Freedom doesn't come once a year

The approaching week-end will bring many things: cars jamming the nation's highways; accidents of all shapes, sizes, and colors; special sales in department stores; and somewhere there will be people denouncing the basic principles for which this country stands.

And somewhere beneath all the confusion, commercialism, and dissent is a day simply referred to as the Fourth of July, also known as Independence Day.

We don't wish to expound upon the sacrifices and efforts of our colonial ancestors. We merely wish to remind everyone the holiday was not a creation of Madison Avenue.

Instead it is a day whose observance began almost 200 years ago when a group of what was then called wild eye radicals, met in Philadelphia and dared to break with tradition and fight for the changes which they thought to be right.

It is a day whose observance has allowed other generations the right to do openly and supposedly without fear of reprisal, the same thing that was done behind closed doors in 1776.

This country is far from perfect. It always has been and it always will be. But it has proved to be a workable system. It has worked because it is constantly undergoing change, sometimes abruptly but more often on a gradual basis.

So we wish to remind those persons who are always fighting change and attacking the people who criticize this country, we are living in a country whose birth was conceived amidst change.

And to those who bemoan the death of patriotism, we say they are not the first to so mourn.

For when that group of men met in Independence Hall, they, rather unpatriotically, decided to rebel against a system they found oppressive.

And it was they who were farsighted enough to give the following generations the right to do the same without fear of reprisal by adding one clause to the Declaration of Independence. The clause states, "Should any government become destructive of these ends it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it."

Yes, it appears the dissenters of today have a lot in common with the founding fathers of yesterday.

Superboard has potential

Why it was decided years ago to let LSU operate under a governing body separate from the other state colleges and universities is beyond us.

There is no logic to the system presently in use. But, hopefully the days of the double standard are over. Presently before the state legislature is a bill which would end this dual system and create one body to govern higher education in Louisiana.

The bill would simply combine the State Board of Education, the Coordination Council for Higher Education, the LSU Board of Regents and LSU Board of Supervisors into one single unit—the Superboard.

Already having Senate approval and expecting passage by the House Education Committee this week, the bill needs then only to be passed by the House and signed by Gov. Edwin Edwards to become law.

But there is a strong lobby working against passage of the bill—LSU. We can understand their concern. If the bill becomes law the LSU system will no longer enjoy its autonomous existence.

The bill also means other state colleges and universities, including Northeast, should get their fair share of appropriations from the state.

Recently John Hammons SGA president urged the members of the Summer Senate to make an individual effort to seek support of the bill by sending telegrams to Gov. Edwards and area lawmakers.

We agree with Hammons and urge all Northeast students to contact their state senators and representatives through any means available to them and urge them to vote for passage of the superboard proposal.

The creation of a superboard to govern higher education will affect every student at Northeast, perhaps more directly than any other bill before the state legislature. It is for this reason alone and no other that we urge all students to give their support to the proposal.

College spotlights

Triple option for coeds

By Larry Wall
Pow Wow Editor

Student rights is a major issue on every college and university campus across the nation. Even those colleges which seem completely liberated have their problems.

When talking about student rights the conversation can go in several directions but inevitably it will touch upon curfew hours in women's dormitories. This has been a major issue at NLU for quite some time with some progress being made. But LSU has inaugurated a new system which looks promising.

The Summer Reveille reported the university is now offering the coeds three options, in regard to housing. The first option is simply the old rule which says the coeds have to be in by a certain hour and must sign in and out.

Option II allows the young woman to determine her own hours but she must still follow the signing in and out procedure. Things are looking better.

The final option not only allows the coed to determine her own hours but she does not have to bother with signing in and out. Another area of student rights which goes hand in hand with dormitory regulations is the university cafeterias. This, an institution unto itself, is the butt of many a joke and much criticism. Probably the biggest complaint is the quality of food served, but to a large extent that is a matter of personal taste.

Now, there is another problem, that of compulsory requirement to eat in the university dining facilities, if a person is living on campus. Northeastern University in Boston, Mass. has been faced with this problem. According to the student newspaper the students are asking for an optional five day meal ticket plan instead of the compulsory seven day plan.

The students say they shouldn't have to pay for meals they don't eat, but the university is saying that they aren't paying for those meals. Somehow the administration figured out a way, which is beyond us, which says a person is entitled to 21 meals but is only paying for 15 because of the high rate of absenteeism on weekends.

What they are saying, we think, is if everybody stayed on campus every weekend and ate all the meals he is entitled to the university would have to raise the prices.

But if everyone is entitled to 21 meals why would the prices have to be raised if everyone chose to eat those 21 meals. There must be some logic to that statement somewhere, but we sure can't see it.

Letter to the editor

Dear Students:

In response to "In our opinion" I find it vitally necessary to properly inform you of my political ideology. I joined the Republican party because I found it to be the key to developing good government and a competitive two-party system in Louisiana. I ask you, is it detrimental to the NLU student body for the SGA president to desire good government in Louisiana?

I hope also to utilize the Republican party as a means of gaining information on, and support of, the positive programs we have planned for Northeast. Also I hope it will enable me to contact such possible speakers as Vice-President Spiro Agnew and U.S. Senator Strom Thurmond.

Although the Pow Wow has attacked my Republican standing as making me incapable of being a representative SGA President, I submit to you that my active role in politics only fortifies my pledge of "Active Leadership" for you. Also the view of the Pow Wow that no campus leader... "should let his personal views affect his actions while serving the student body," seems highly unfounded. My personal views initiated my campaign platform which is basically my plan of action! It seems unthinkable to divorce one's actions from his personal views.

Sincerely yours,
Jonh Hammons

"James Gang" to give concert

"The James Gang," a nationally popular rock group will be presented in concert July 16 in the Monroe Civic Center arena at 8 p.m., according to Mike McGee, civic center spokesman.

The Northeast Union Board will sell $5 concert tickets for $3 to students beginning July 10, according to Union Board advisor Charles H. McDonald. The tickets will be sold at the Hostess Desk of the Student Union Building, 2nd floor. Each I.D. card will purchase two tickets, but the student must present his own I.D., stated McDonald.

The Cleveland, Ohio, based group is comprised of Jim Fox, drums, piano and vocals; Dale Peters, bass guitar and vocals; Don Troiano, lead guitar and vocals; Roy Kenner, congas and lead vocals. The group has released four albums on the ABC-Dunhill label. The albums are: "Yer Album," "The James Gang Rides Again," "Thirds," and "James Gang Live at Carnegie Hall."

The James Gang has produced capacity crowds at such auditoriums as Carnegie Hall in New York and the Lyceum Theatre in England. They are managed by Belkin Personal Management and William Morris agency.

Fox is noted as the spokesman and organizer of the group. Fox began his original training in music at the age of eight in the field of classical music and then moved into jazz. He became interested in rock music after hearing the Beatles and put the musicians in the James Gang together in 1966.

Peters, who initially began as a drummer, met Fox in Cleveland in 1966 and they began working together there. Peters and Fox are originally from Cleveland.

The two other members of the group, Troiano and Kenner are from Canada. Troiano, who has played the guitar for over ten years, formerly played with a group called Mandala who received minor recognition for a tune called "Opportunity." He later played with a group called Bush. He was greatly influenced, as is evidenced in his music, by Ray Charles and Aretha Franklin.

Kenner, who brandishes a pipe and walking stick, is the lead singer of the group and also was formerly a member of both Mandala and Bush. A writer as well as a singer, he has penned several compositions for other artists, such as Three Dog Night's "I Can Hear You Calling."

Members of the group claim that they are into the music as a collective experience. They rely as much on the warmth of the audience's response as they rely on the warmth of playing. The group claims to have achieved success, not through a flash single in the top 40, but from an appreciative public.

The group is currently working on a new album, that they claim will be a slight variation on an old theme.

"The James Gang" will ride again during their upcoming concert at the Monroe Civic Center. The group is based in Cleveland, Ohio and has played before crowds at both Carnegie Hall and the Lyceum in England. The James Gang concert is scheduled for July 16 at 8 p.m. Tickets for the concert may be obtained at the student Hostess desk for $3 upon presentation of a student I.D. card. The regular ticket price is $5.

"Consortium" based at NLU

By Sherri Whitlock
Pow Wow Reporter

The National Consortium for Humanizing Education, which originated and is based at NLU, is currently working actively in 12 states. According to Flora Roebuck, executive director of the Consortium and assistant professor of Elementary and Secondary Education, the Consortium is dedicated to bringing a closer personal contact between teachers and students. Operating under a three-year, $350,000 research grant from the National Institution for Mental Health, the program conducts research in this area and instructs other states in initiating programs of their own.

Under the grant, the NLU program works in coordination with the Waco, Tex. program which, according to Miss Roebuck, has approximately 320 teachers and principals participating. Other states can get instructions on obtaining a similar research grant Miss Roebuck said.

The Consortium gives interested groups in-service training based on the concept of interpersonal relations. These groups must agree to establish a follow-up program to study the effects of this training.

Training focuses intensively on physical, intellectual and emotional skills that each teacher, counselor or administrator needs to live and work effectively with those around him. Workshops and consultations deal with techniques on how to measure and increase student participation in the classroom, how to get more thinking from students, and how to effectively employ interpersonal techniques.

According to Miss Roebuck, the workshop also encourages the student to think above levels of memory and recall, and to take part in discussions. The workshop also encourages the teacher to respond to the feelings of the student and thus encourages the child to become involved in learning.

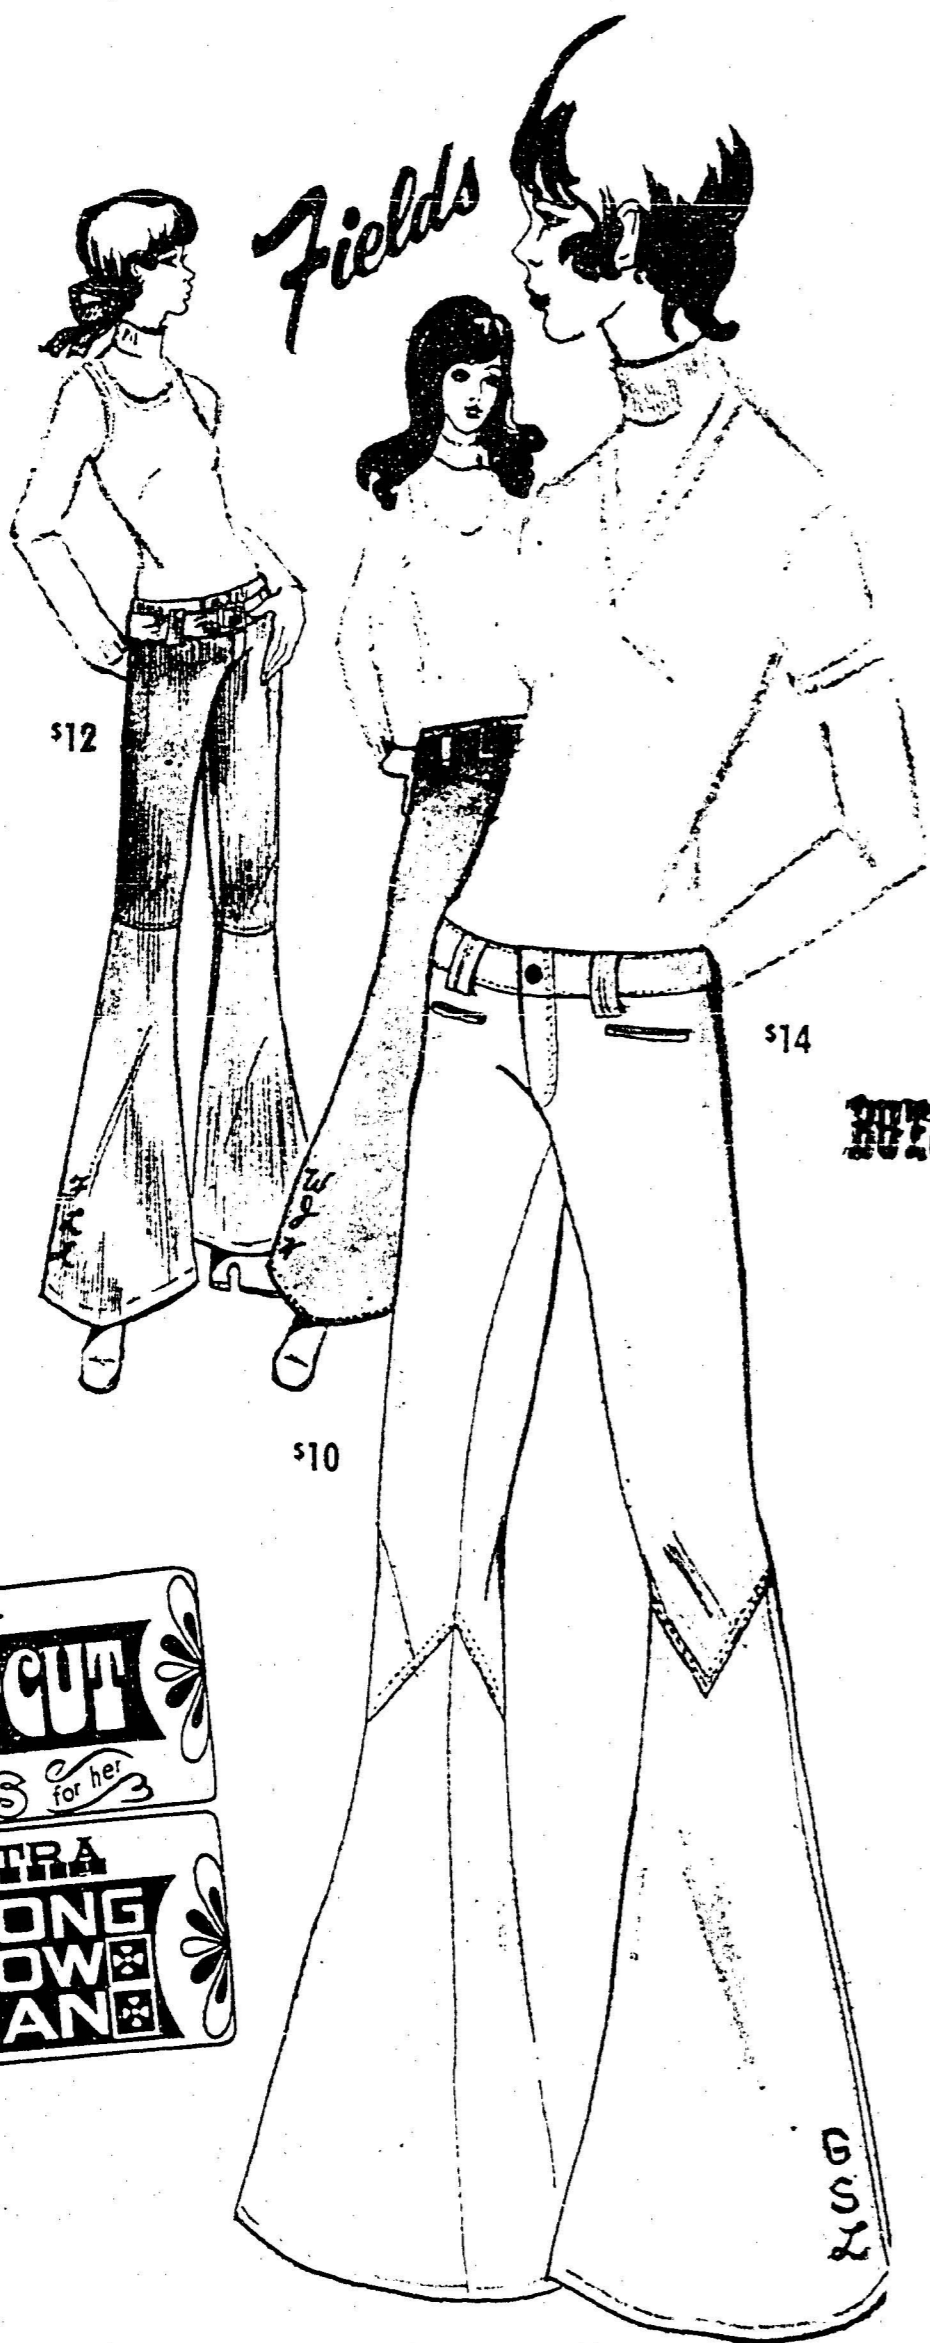

"Our research has shown that children's learning is better where they are respected as worthwhile individuals," said Miss Roebuck. The teacher is shown the importance of showing confidence in the student's ability, and being genuinely interested in the student.

Miss Roebuck said scales are used to measure the degree of interpersonal relations between a teacher and a student. One such scale is the Aspy Scales of Interpersonal Functioning, developed by Dr. David N. Asby, principal investigator for the Consortium and professor of education at NLU. The Aspy Scales are a systematic approach to teacher training, she said. Other scales used are Flander's Interaction Analysis, Bloom's Taxonomy of Educational Objectives and the Cognitive Scale.

The Consortium works on all academic levels, with main emphasis on elementary and secondary levels.

Dignitaries praise progress during pharmacy dedication

A combination of bricks, mortar, love, time and money was the description used by those speaking at the formal dedication of the NLU pharmacy building, Leon G. Sugar Hall, Sunday.

Following a luncheon in Schulze Dining Hall the formal dedication took place in Sugar Hall with Gov. Edwin Edwards, Dr. Boyd Granberg, Dr. George Walker, and others taking part in the ceremonies.

Speaking before a near-capacity audience in the pharmacy building's auditorium, Dr. Ben F. Cooper, dean of the College of Pharmacy, told those assembled much time and effort had went into the construction of Sugar Hall and "the personality of this building had already begun with the name."

Sugar was instrumental in organizing two citizen groups, the Northeast Boosters Club and the Northeast Foundation, which provided primary support to the university.

He was among the first to provide scholarships and other financial assistance when the School of Pharmacy was first established and continued that support till the time of his death in 1958.

Presenting Mrs. Sugar and other dignitaries to the audience, Dr. Cooper turned the floor over to Dr. Walker, NLU president.

Dr. Walker told the audience, in order to have a new building, "You have to have a legislature, you have to have a governor and you have to have taxpayers" who will cooperate in providing funds for such a purpose. Dr. Walker said Northeast, had been very fortunate in receiving appropriations from the state for construction of Sugar Hall and other facilities.

He said the university had hoped to receive funds from the state for the 1972-73 year "equal in dollar amount to funds received for the 1971-72 year." However, through the efforts of Gov. Edwards, said Dr. Walker, NLU might receive funds totaling $400,000, which would be more than originally hoped for.

Forming a subtle smile as he turned to face Gov. Edwards the university president said, "Governor, we thank you. We thank you in advance."

Following a few moments of laughter the Louisiana governor stood behind the lectern and said to Dr. Walker, "It's easy to see how you got where you are. You get me up here for this dedication, then you thank me in advance for money you haven't got yet." The governor then said to Dr. Walker, "Your mamma didn't raise no fool."

After a few more barbs aimed at the NLU president Gov. Edwards told how the progress made for improved educational facilities had come about through the combined efforts of many persons working together. "We are going to continue working in this direction," he said.

Concluding his brief talk the governor said he was primarily interested in academic advancement of colleges and universities throughout the state. But he said, there is room for both the academic and athletic aspects of college life.

Referring to a possible new football stadium for Northeast, Gov. Edwards said, "I'm hoping before the end of this four years we will be well into this direction."

The formal dedication speech followed the governor's and was presented by Dr. Granberg, editor of the American Journal of Pharmaceutical Education and professor of pharmacy at Drake University in Des Moines, Iowa.

Dr. Granberg spoke of the direction in which pharmacy is heading and cautioned the pharmacy family to be careful or it will find itself falling behind as did the ancient universities who failed to keep up with the times.

Pharmacy has been moving at a rapid rate, Dr. Granberg said. "Pharmacy educators do not know where they are going." He said the statement was made with the best intentions because today's pharmacy student has the highest degree of training possible.

"But the pharmacy scene is changing," Dr. Granberg said. "We need breathing time to evaluate the result of our progress to date."

Stressing the family concept of pharmacy where the educator, student, practitioner and consumer each interact with each other for a common goal, Dr. Granberg said each member of the family must evaluate their position and see what has to be done.

After Dr. Granberg's speech, the ceremonies ended with a benediction delivered by Dr. Ernest Holloway, former dean of men at NLU and was followed by an open house tour of the three-story, 78,000 square-foot structure.

The College of Pharmacy was first established at Northeast in 1856. In 1959 it received full accreditation and graduated its first pharmacist. Plans for the new pharmacy building were initiated in 1963. Dr. Cooper was appointed dean in 1966 replacing Ralph Wilson.

Final plans for the new structure were completed in 1969 and construction began the following year. The NLU college of Pharmacy is the fourth largest in the nation and the youngest with an enrollment of over 400 students and 23 faculty members.

Shadoin replaces Garner as new head of education

Dr. Bernard Shadoin, professor of education and head of the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, has been appointed as dean of the NLU College of Education.

Dr. Shadoin replaces Dr. H.T. Garner, dean of the College for the past five years who requested a return to full time teaching duties. The appointment was approved at the last meeting of the State Board of Education in Baton Rouge Friday.

"I requested for a reassignment to teach because that's what I want to do," said Dr. Garner.

Dr. Shadoin has been on the faculty at Northeast since 1965, and head of the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education since 1969.

A native of Benson, La., Dr. Shadoin attended Northwestern State University where he received his B.S. degree in 1949. In 1956, he received the M.A. degree from Stephen F. Austin State University, and was awarded the Ed.D. degree by the University of Arkansas in 1966.

Before joining Northeast, he taught elementary and junior high school, coached junior athletics and supervised elementary school physical education in Desoto Parish schools for 13 years.

Dr. Shadoin has participated in many professional activities including consultant, evaluator and panelist for numerous education oriented groups. He has also designed, implemented and directed various programs for public school systems in the area.

A member of Louisiana Teachers Association and National Education Association, Dr. Shadoin is also program chairman of Northeast Louisiana Reading Association, and a member of the honorary fraternities, Phi Delta Kappa and Red, Red Rose.

He was also named "Favorite Professor" twice by Alpha Lambda Delta scholastic society.

Dr. Shadoin will take his new post beginning the second summer term of 1972. Dr. Garner will likewise begin his new teaching duties with the second summer session, when he will be instructing Education 201.

Standards of Dress For Men Students

"NLU men students are expected to be appropriately dressed and well groomed at all times. Appropriate dress for everyday classroom activities includes shoes, collared shirts and button shirts or other similar shirts which are worn according to the manner for which they are fashioned.

"Cut-off shorts may be worn in the Men's Residence Hall areas. Shirts must be worn by residents at all times when leaving their rooms. Residents are required to be properly dressed when using or passing through the lounge areas.

Standards of Dress for Women Students

"The well-groomed coed at Northeast wears hose, low, stacked, or shaped heels; tailored skirts or jumpers and blouses, dresses or suits, or neatly fitted slacks to class.

A student who dresses tastefully and neatly for each occasion enjoys increased self-confidence and poise, which in turn bring other desirable results. Northeast women enjoy a most favorable image within the community. It is hoped that you will assist in sustaining and enhancing that image by dressing appropriately at all times and insuring that your guests are so attired.

"Dressing appropriately includes wearing shoes. Low cut and strapless sun dresses and midriffs are unsuitable attire for campus or street wear. In addition "cut-offs" and side-laced shorts are not to be worn outside the residence halls."

Rehearsing their roles in the forthcoming play, "The Red Shoes," are (from left): Donna Massingill, Mary Easterling and Arden Allen. The play is based on a children's fairy tale by Hans Christian Anderson and will be presented in the Northeast Theater July 7-9. The play is under the direction of Dr. George C. Brian.

Musical to be presented

A young girl's dream will become a reality on stage, as the NLU Speech Department presents Hans Christian Anderson's "The Red Shoes", July 7-9 at 2 p.m. in the Northeast Theatre.

The musical, written by Lyla Hay Owen, is a fantasy based on a fairy tale by Anderson. The play was first presented by the Children's Corner of Le Petit Theatre du Vieux Carre in New Orleans, under the direction of Luis Q. Barroso.

The main character of the play,

Karen, dreams of becoming a ballet dancer. In the original tale, she lies to her grandmother and buys a pair of red ballet shoes. Because of this, she cannot stop dancing, until her feet are cut off. The musical however ends on a happier note, with Karen waking to find it was all a dream.

The play is directed by Dr. George C. Brian, and the music, arranged by Fred Palmisano, will be played by Miss Gertrude Sandrock.

Admission will be $.50 for students and $1.00 for adults.
