Spotlights . . .

At 10:30 the entire student body will journey downtown for the second pep parade of the year in honor of the Arkansas Tech game tonight. Paraders will leave the cars and buses and walk through the business district of Monroe. Short pep meetings will be given at various places.

Plans are being considered by the Student council for an all-student production. Tentative plans call for a musical show directed and produced entirely by the students. Ralph Taylor, president, declares that this will give opportunity for student responsibility along many lines.

This morning at a student body meeting a queen and three maids will be elected to represent the college in the second annual Christmas fiesta parade sponsored by the Monroe and West Monroe Chambers of Commerce.

The band and pep squad will also take part in this gala affair. The event inaugurated last year will open the Christmas season in Northeast Louisiana. There will also be queens, maids, and bands from various high schools in this section.

Dr. Grace Ingledue, instructor in speech has been holding a series of individual conferences with her freshman students, attempting to give them special aid with their own particular speech problems. This was done with the hope of being of greater service to the students and was in accordance with new teaching methods.

Pep Squad Elects Majorettes; Practices Many Formations

Forty-eight girls, four twirlers, and one majorette will compose the Northeast Junior college pep squad.

Jerry Honeycutt is the majorette. The four twirlers are Jo Ann Guerriero, Peggy Mizza, Lane Shear, and Sara Gene Young.

The costumes for the Indianettes were designed by Roy Henderson, art instructor. They will be made by the girls in the pep squad.

Kelso Describes Costumes

Miss Frances Kelso, head of the home economics department, states, "The skirt is faced with four inch purple bands on which a design is formed of gold sutasah braid and buttons. The V-shaped neckline is trimmed in the same manner. The garment is fitted at the waist line and flared at the bottom. White oxfords or moccasins, purple socks, and headband of the same design as skirt and neckline, with a gold tipped purple feather, complete the ensemble. The dress itself is of white flannel.

Department Helps

"In order that the costumes are identical, the home economic department is cutting the patterns for the neckline and hem, and giving specific directions for making."

"The Indianettes," says Miss Ada Bess Hart, women's adviser, "will perform during the Thanksgiving and Homecoming games."

Girls' Glee Club Takes to Air

The Girls' Glee club displayed its talents for the first time this year with a fifteen-minute broadcast over KMLB Wednesday. The forty-five members, directed by Dallas Goss, rendered the following selections:

"Rosita," a Spanish melody; "The Coventry Carol," an English melody of 1591; "I Heard You Go By"; "Elves of the Forest," from "The Magic Flute," by Mozart; and "Amaryllis," arranged by Edmund Parlow. Elbertine Moore and Marjorie MacDonald were the accompanists for the program.

In addition to the above program, a small ensemble composed of nine girls sang "Juanita." The group was accompanied by Gene Copeland.

It is indefinite, as yet, as to whether the Girls' Glee club will sing at the State Teachers' convention next week, but Mr. Goss announced that the Boys' Glee club would appear on the program. He added, "We have not quite decided, but we plan to present 'Great Lone Hills,' from 'Findilina,' by Sibilus. If time permits the club will also sing 'Night Shades Are Gently Falling,' 'Old Man Noar,' and 'Road Ways.' There are forty-four members in the Boys Glee club this year, and they have good prospects of becoming the best club of its sort in the history of N.J.C.

Ag. Students Elect Golson

At an organization meeting of the Agriculture club last week, Frank Golson of Calhoun was elected president. Golson says he has outlined a definite plan for the new club's activity. "I am sure," he said, "that the Ag. club is to play an important part on the campus this year."

Other Officers

Other officers elected were Jimmie Thames of Seminary, Mississippi, vice-president; Morris McGough of Mer Rouge, secretary; Thomas Calloway of Bosco, treasurer; Bernard Miller of Kelley, reporter; Cecil Wells of Wisner, parliamentarian; and George Webb of Olla, sergeant-at-arms.

President Golson appointed the Program Work committee consisting of Homer Coleman, Bill Heard, and Arla Roberts; and the Program committee, which includes Donald Kennedy, Talmadge Crosby, and Dan Cox.

Price Confident

L. L. Price, club sponsor, feels very confident regarding the newly formed club. "With such a large number of members," he said, "I dare say that we will see some unusual achievements this year. The organization will not only influence all of North Louisiana, but will also affect other states, as our membership includes many out-of-state students."

New Directory Ventures Forth

Last week the much-awaited Faculty, Staff, and Student directory was distributed. The Commerce club, under the guidance of J. T. Johnson, A. B. Pitts, and F. G. Thatcher, gathered and compiled the information embodied between the covers of this handy pamphlet.

The uses of the directory are manifold and diverse. The Pow Wow uses it to check on spelling of names; it is used at voting booths to keep students from "stuffing the ballot box." Boys and girls alike refer to the directory for the addresses and telephone numbers of their admired ones; and, finally, there are those of us who madly pursue its pages searching for queer middle names with which to taunt their owners.

Thus, the faculty and students with one voice say, "Thanks" to the Commerce club.

"It Covers The Campus"

State Teachers Convene Here Next Week

"Since the city is expected to be over-crowded with the attendance of the Louisiana State Teachers' meeting beginning here Monday," states Dean C. C. Colvert, "cooperation is asked of the students because the visitors are our guests." He said also that classes will not be dismissed for the meeting except for the fourth, fifth, and sixth periods Monday.

Meetings Begin Monday
Louisiana College conference sectional meetings will begin Monday afternoon at two p.m. in various rooms of the local college buildings.

A joint session of the Secondary Principal's association and the Louisiana College conference will be conducted in the college auditorium beginning Monday morning at nine o'clock.

Hughes to Speak
Dr. Herbert L. Hughes of the Louisiana Polytechnic institute will preside. His topic is "Closing the Gap between High School and College."

Speakers will include Dr. H. L. Garrett, Louisiana State university; Dr. Charles L. Odom, Southwestern Louisiana institute; Dr. B. F. Mitchell, Louisiana State university; Horace Robinson, Homer High school; Dean C. C. Colvert, Northeast Junior college; Howard Turner, Leon Godchaux High school; and H. F. Townsend, Ruston High school.

A short business session will follow the general meeting.

The program will extend through Wednesday, but it provides for meetings of a more general nature.

Complete Plans For Homecoming

Plans for a gala day make up the tentative program in celebration of Northeast Junior college's eighth annual homecoming, November 29.

According to tradition, the campus will be ruled for the day by the homecoming queen and her ten maids. The queen is to be elected from the entire student body, while five maids will be selected from each of the freshman and sophomore classes.

Parade Starts Events

Opening the day's festivities will be a gigantic pep parade. A feature of the parade will be the attractive floats upon which the queen and her maids will ride. Prizes will be awarded for the floats representing the greatest thought and ingenuity.

A good representation of alumni is expected to participate in the celebrations. In addition, there will be the annual influx of high school seniors, who will spend most of their time "exploring" N.J.C.

Game Is Feature

The event that is always the highlight of homecoming is the football game, which will be played this year with the East Mississippi Jr. college Bulldogs. High school visitors will be guests at the game, and the bands from their schools will add their music to that of the N.J.C. band. At the half of the game, the Indianettes will be featured in a colorful performance.

The grand finale of the day will be the Purple Jacket dance held in the college gymnasium immediately after the game. In addition to the "specials," a feature will be the formal recognition of the alumni and high school seniors.

Speaker Urges Clear Thinking, Honest Motives

Dr. H. L. McCracken, head of the economics department of L. S. U., addressed the student body Wednesday on "Requisites for a Successful Democracy."

He stated that the source of a democracy is the people, and a government can only be as good as its source.

Prerequisites for Democracy

Dr. McCracken emphasized the theory that "Straight thinking is definitely a requisite for a successful democracy. The crooked thinking of the world of the 1920's is largely responsible for the 'straight shooting' of the 1940's. The better thinking we do the less fighting we will have to do," the speaker added.

Using honesty as a second requisite, Dr. McCracken said, "For a better democracy there must be higher business ethics than we have today. The slogan, 'Let the buyer beware' must be abolished."

"Let the Students Beware"

This idea has been carried over into college where the variation, 'Let the professor beware' has gained prominence. To this is attributed the "C" complex or the "get by" attitude of so many students.

"Many college graduates cannot find jobs because they are content with making "C" averages," Dr. McCracken explained. "In this world of precision and accuracy there is no place for the graduate who has been content with merely getting by," he added.

The speaker insisted that there is still room at the top for youths who can think clearly and act from honest motives.

"Thinking and integrity are required of our age," he concluded.

Home Ec. Girls Attend Meet

For the first time in its history, Northeast Junior college sent delegates to the Louisiana Home Economics convention at Alexandria, November 9. Representing the Home Economics club were Dorothy Walters, Edwina Slater, Marie Kincaid, Louise Berlin, and Miss Frances Kelso, club sponsor.

Walters on Committee

Girls from every college in the state met with the college section to discuss possible amendments. Dorothy Walters of N.J.C. was chosen to serve on one of the discussion committees. Plans for a spring meeting scheduled at Louisiana Tech, March 7 and 8 were discussed.

Frances Ann Corbel, president, Louisiana Home Economics club, recognized the representatives from each college. The local group was commended for sending such a large representation.

Sophs Name Honeycutt

"I think—and I think it sincerely—that you paid me a great compliment when you asked me to be your sponsor," declared W. C. Honeycutt, when told of his election to the position of sophomore class sponsor.

"I believe in you; you believe in the school; and the school believes in you," he went on. "Therefore, I expect great things from your class. I know of no work this year from which I will get more pleasure than I expect to get from being your sponsor."

Mr. Honeycutt proceeded to describe, in his engaging "Will Rogers" fashion, some things the sophomores should strive to accomplish. He is anxiously waiting, he said, to see what kind of showing the sophomore class will make in the homecoming parade.

Northeast Junior college's Indians will be out to protect their undefeated record tonight when they engage what will probably turn out to be the toughest opponent on their schedule, the Arkansas Tech "Wonder Boys" from Russellville, Arkansas.

Use Notre Dame Shift

The "Wonder Boys," coached by John Tucker, Alabama graduate, run their plays from the Notre Dame formation. Offensive hopes for Arkansas are Co-captain James Keaton, sophomore fullback; Bill Beeson, 200 pound all-state quarterback; and Joe Hamilton, deluxe passer, who proved his ability by bombing the Carthage, Illinois, teachers 34-6.

Stalwarts in the Tech forward wall are all-state candidate Ray Peters, 185 pound guard; and James Rasburry, giant tackle.

Team in Good Shape

N.J.C.'s Redskins were slightly battered in last week's 14-0 tilt over Pensacola but should be in great shape for the tilt tonight.

The only comparison of the two teams' superiority is Northeast Junior college's 9-0 victory over Ouachita college, a team which defeated the Techmen 21 to 7.

Dean Addresses College Group

Dr. C. C. Colvert spoke before the college section of the Arkansas Educational association, which met Friday, November 8, at Little Rock Junior college.

After delivering his speech, "Terminal Education in Junior Colleges," he was privileged to hear a number of other prominent speakers. Among them was Dr. Homer P. Rainey, president of the University of Texas, who spoke on "What Colleges Can Do To Promote Democracy."

Having been associated with several educational institutions in Arkansas, Dr. Colvert said sincerely that he appreciated the opportunity to be a guest speaker at the association and to renew old acquaintances.

Here's Something That's Different Speech Members Plan Unique Drama

Do you want to see something different?

If you do, go to the Speech club meeting in the auditorium next week and see "A Short Trip." After looking at the scene pictured to the right, you have probably decided that it is a rather unusual play, and you're right.

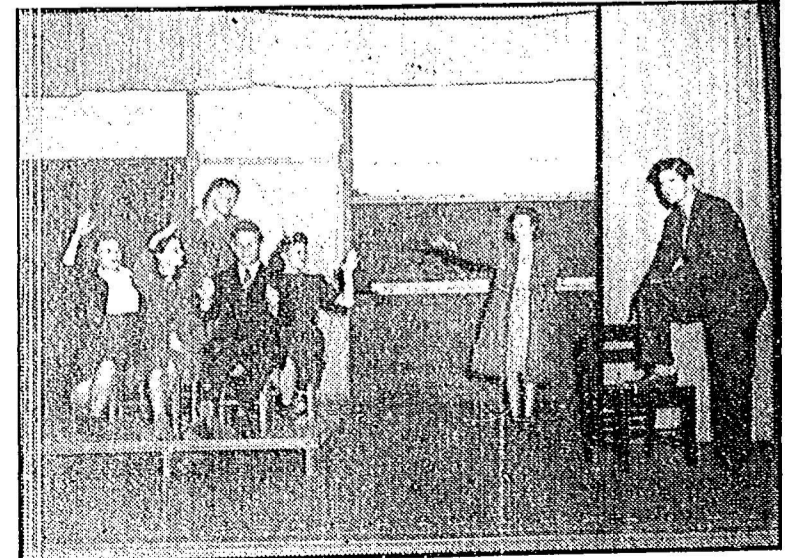

No Properties Used

It has no scenery or properties. However, walls and doors are observed just as if they were there. Sound effect records have been made on the speech department's recording machine. Shifting gears and a blowing horn can be heard just as if the old car were on our stage.

The play takes place when the old Model A Ford was new. The story is very simple. It presents an average American family taking a trip—just a regular weekend jaunt.

Cast Listed

row of the car are: Sue McBride who plays the part of Beulah, Dorothy Duncan who will be seen as Caroline, and John Bluck as Pa. On the back seat is Jake Ussery who is seen as Arthur, and Francis as Ma. To the right is George Hayes cast in the role of the stage manager, and Gladys Hale as Mrs. Hohmeyer. Says director Zach Daughtry, "It's a good play and it has a good cast; it should be a good show."

Thanksgiving, 1940

Next Thursday the people of Louisiana and most of the United States will follow the annual custom of taking a day off from their work to "give thanks." We of the United States feel that we have so much to be thankful for that we have never allowed Thanksgiving day, first observed in 1621 by the Pilgrims, to languish.

One other country, our neighbor, has made an annual observance of Thanksgiving day. This year the thanks offered up by the Canadians will be mingled with fervent prayers, for they are waging a war, side by side with their mother country, England.

So that leaves the United States, the sole nation celebrating a real day of thanksgiving. We Americans, citizens of the greatest democracy in the world, have genuine cause for thanks.

LET US BE THANKFUL THAT WE ARE AMERICANS!

CHRISTMAS SEALS

Help to Protect Your Home from Tuberculosis

The result of the Mantoux or tuberculin skin tests revealed that approximately 32 per cent of the 417 students who took the tests showed positive reactions, which indicates that those persons either have tuberculosis or have at some previous time been infected with the tuberculin germs. In the final analysis x-ray pictures of the chest must determine whether or not the patient has developed tuberculosis.

Since it is probable that the exposure to tuberculosis was received at home, it is recommended that all other members of the household report to the family doctor for examinations. In this way beginning tuberculosis can be discovered early and treatment given at a time when it is both simple and effective.

The Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association will arrange for x-ray tests for those unable to pay for them.

"CHRISTMAS SEALS HELP MAKE THIS WORK POSSIBLE."

A Senior R. O. T. C.

Perhaps some of you wonder why N.J.C. does not have an R.O.T.C. unit while L.S.U.'s military program continues to grow by leaps and bounds. This situation has not been the fault of our Dean. For five years an application for an R.O.T.C. unit at N.J.C. has been on file with the war department. The following is an excerpt from the latest reply to Dean Colvert's letters:

"At the present time the war department has found it necessary to suspend the establishment of additional Senior R.O.T.C. units due to the fact that the officer personnel required are urgently needed for duty with the combat forces.

"You may be assured that the application . . . will receive full consideration when extension of this training becomes possible."

Certainly the majority of us, both men and women, want an R.O.T.C. Men taking military science are not required to serve in the army as draftees. The best thing we have to work on is the phrase "full consideration." The way to get "full consideration" is to make our representatives in Washington and the war department N.J.C. conscious. If you want an R.O.T.C., write to your congressman, now.

De Loss Walker Speaks

"You Can Rise If You Will"

DeLoss Walker, associate editor of Liberty magazine, spoke to an electrified assembly audience last week. He stressed a great many familiar matters which, however, gained new meaning through his forceful presentation.

The tall, dynamic speaker said, "The very fact that I was born with flat feet probably had more to do with my becoming a champion high-jumper than anything else . . . It is the struggle to rise above weak points that breeds world champions."

Know Thyself

In an interview after the assembly program, Mr. Walker recalled that he had failed to stress an important point. He said, "Pass this on to the students, won't you? Tell them to believe in themselves. Anything they can conceive, they can do." He continued in this vein for several minutes, using Hitler, a one time paper hanger, as an example of a "man who believed."

Replying to a question from the reporter, Mr. Walker stated, "You ask me where work should end and pleasure begin. I can only say that to me there is no greater pleasure in life than work itself."

Parting Advice

As his parting shot, Mr. Walker gave some advice to Pow Wowers—advice, however, which might apply to anyone. "If you want to be a writer, you can do it. Just write about yourself, about things that are close to you. Get right down to the human heart, and you won't have to worry about success. I am speaking as associate editor of a popular magazine, and I know that what I have said is true."

A Peek into The Cafeteria

What Do You Think, Students?

(Associated Collegiate Press)

You might think the cafeteria a place to eat. That's right, but that's not all. In fact, eating is secondary at the professor's "gossip" table. The instructors themselves call it that, but we students feel a delicacy toward committing ourselves likewise. We would rather think that they just relax and discuss the technicalities of the day.

Mrs. Wood Brown, social room hostess, forgets to pay for her lunch. We had rather think she just likes to know what she has bought before paying for it.

Enough humoring of the teachers. Let's talk about Marjorie Mohr, Mary Burkett, Gloria Clouatre, and Murray Eby who always eat together. According to Eby, he and Gloria Clouatre have been eating together for the past four years "come next spring." Incidentally he adds, "I sincerely have to continue into the future!"

Be Responsible!

By Dr. C. C. Colvert

Student responsibility is made up of whatever responsibility each individual student is willing to assume. To paraphrase a statement, "What kind of a college would this college be if each student were just like I am?" Each student is a vital and important part of this college. Such student body membership carries with it individual responsibility. This student responsibility is connected with the Student council, the freshman and sophomore classes, the various clubs and all other college activities.

Think of your student responsibility and then meet it.

Goodie, oh goodie . . .

I've been wanting to write this column all year, but the omniscient editor has said, "No." But those in authority have been conventioning in Detroit, and "while the editors were away (Lady took off, too) the staff did play." So, here 'tis.

Calm Before the Storm . . .

We political-minded Louisianians at this institution of higher knowledge have been averaging an election a week—and sometimes it's been two or three. This week has been a lull; the bridge players in the social room have been able to concentrate in peace. But, just so you'll be prepared, there's an election for homecoming queen and maids coming up soon. And it ought to be a dilly!

Come Back, Butch . . .

Students from last year received a pleasant surprise the other day when John "Butch" Porter paid a flying visit to his Alma Mater. Butch, you'll remember, was one of the mainstays of the football team last year and was a renowned boxer before the sport was banned at N.J.C. In addition he's one swell guy.

Thanks . . .

This seems as good a place as any in which to give credit where credit is due. So it's "thanks" to Hollace Busbice, John Earl Blanchard, Jean Claire Grissette, and all the other members of the staff who proved such mainstays during those hectic days when we were "on our own."

Gee, Doc . . .

Dr. Ingledue to her speech classes: "I want as many of you as possible to attend the speech sessions at the Louisiana Teachers' convention next week. And if you see someone there whom you'd like to meet, I'll try to arrange an introduction." Note: We have it straight from headquarters that many of the teachers who will attend the convention are easily eligible for membership on a "Glamour Faculty." A person to do the introducing might be handy.

It's the Dreamer In Us . . .

The Dean on dreams: "Dreams are caused by physiological disturbances and never last longer than a minute. Persons of high intellect dream more than persons of lower intellect. Women often dream of flying and men of falling." Also, those gruesome dreams we have of appearing in public minus most of our clothes are simply indications of unfulfilled desires.

SHOE DEPARTMENT

BELLA SCHERCK DAVIDSON

WOMAN'S SHOP

Wails and Wahoos

By John Earle Blanchard.

Here's Hoping . . .

Recently begun is a movement to organize a boys' club similar to the Purple Jackets for the girls, this as you have perhaps heard about, is a Gold Jacket organization. Its biggest aim is to promote school spirit in all intercollegiate activities especially in football and the oncoming sport, basketball. Approximately twenty-five charter members will be selected to form the initial club. If you aren't chosen in the first drawing don't be disappointed because this organization is to be expanded to a much greater number. If you are interested in this new club, here is a tip, maintain a C average and yell like blazes at every N.J.C. football game, someone will notice you and you too will soon wear a Gold Jacket. Roy Stewart and Bill Funke are responsible for this movement, and boys, we are backing you one hundred per cent.

Louisiana Gridiron Grievs . . .

Before 20,000 fans in the Horseshoe stadium at Baton Rouge the Bayou Bengals of Louisiana State University fell before the passing assault of the Maroons of Mississippi State, 22-7. This makes it four up for the Tigers who have had one of the toughest grid schedules in the history of the Ol' War Skule . . . Tulane lost a hard fought battle to the Crimson tide of Birmingham, Alabama, 13-6, when they were hampered by tough breaks throughout the game. A 'Bama punt touched a Tulane man and was covered by a Tide man for a tally . . . It isn't all grief in Louisiana because La. Normal edged out Mississippi Southern 9-6, but in another state clash the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs went ferocious to down the Wildcats of Louisiana college 15-0 in a driving rain during their Homecoming day.

Can Arkansas Tech Mar Our Record? No! No! No! . . .

Our football squad has begun its home stretch toward an undefeated season with only a 7-7 tie to lighten their spirits. If the Tribe can go nine hundred miles away and take a game 14-0, surely we can't let them down in tonight's tilt with the "Wonder Boys" of Arkansas Tech. The Teachers will be out to repeat last year's 27-0 victory over the Indians, but if we have our wish we'll scalp 'em, but we're not on the playing field and all that we can do is to yell like we've never yelled before. Coaches and players, just listen to us yell tonight, because we want an undefeated season as much as you. That's why we are going to make more noise than has ever been made in Brown Stadium. We, the student body, are supporting the team to every member. We wish you the best of luck. Down with Arkansas Tech!

Homecoming . . .

November 29 the East Central Mississippi Junior college's powerful football squad will invade our campus for the most important event of the year—Homecoming. They'll be out to avenge last season's defeat handed to them by the Indians. That day Northeast Junior college will play host to some 1000 seniors of the surrounding high schools as well as a great number of N.J.C. graduates of past years. To climax the festivities of our eighth annual homecoming, a dance will be held immediately following the football game. Come on students and get behind this move to make this the biggest and best homecoming in the history of the college.

Introducing . . .

Ends—Ralph Taylor, sophomore end, from Tallulah, Louisiana, is very light, weighing only 163 pounds and standing five feet, 11 inches. His brilliant defense playing has aided the N. J. C. line.

Cecil Cosper is very similar to Taylor in weight and height. Cosper comes to us from Georgia. He is known for his training habits as he was selected last season as the team's best trainer.

From DeQueen, Arkansas, comes David Young who tips the scales at 170 and is six feet tall. Young has played good ball despite an injured hand.

Leo Lively, another light end, comes from Lake Providence, Louisiana. He weighs only 165 and is six feet tall.

San Francisco, California, gives us George Jones, Jr. Jones is the largest end on the squad, weighing 180 pounds and standing six feet tall.

Ed Ochoa, freshmen end from Laudo, Texas, weighs 180 pounds and is six feet in height.

Redskins Whip Naval Fliers By 14-0 Score

With James McElroy and Charlie Manichia leading the attack, the Northeast Junior college Tribesmen downed the Pensacola, Florida, Naval Academy 14-0, last Friday in Pensacola.

Manichia, who recently ran wild to score three times against the Centenary Frosh, was responsible for both Indian tallys against the Fliers. In the second period he ran off tackle for 29 yards to score and took a lateral from Gerald White on the Florida team's 18 and galloped the remaining distance for the second score. Besides these spectacular runs he got away on several 15 and 20 yard jaunts behind the colorful blocking of Dixie Howell, guard, and McElroy, wing-back.

J. W. Bain Chosen Intramural Head

At a recent meeting of the officers of the men's physical education classes and a few honorary members, a new organization was formed to take the place of last year's Men's Physical Education club. This club has been named the Intramural council and was organized primarily for the purpose of promoting intramural activities among the different classes.

During this meeting J. W. Bain was elected president and Mr. A. S. Huffman, sponsor. Other officers are: James Keith, vice-president; and John Kitchenham, treasurer.

The Battle of the Sexes There're Two Sides to Everything

Once upon a time there lived a college coed who wrote an article titled "Ninety-nine Reasons Why I Hate Boys." In two weeks she was the most dated girl on the campus. They all wanted to see what a genuine dyed-in-the-wool man-hater was like.

No one on N.J.C.'s campus can approximate the number of hates that coed professed, but they all have their pet peeves. Here are some of them:

"The boy who gets under my skin," says Erline Lusk, "is the one whose main topic of conversation on a date is the other girls he has been with." And Margie Robbins doesn't care for the boy who "turns green with jealousy if you walk down the hall with another boy."

Veracity is a Virtue

And how these girls hate you southern gentlemen who can't be believed! Listen to what Pat Vining has to say on this subject: "The boy who continually tells fibs or little white lies will never get to first base with me." Carolyn Husted elaborated on Par's statement with, "Some of them (the worms) try to put one over on us by saying one thing and then doing another. They never succeed though."

More Slams

Vivienne Busbice cannot abide "boys who are so darn conceited;" Edwina Slater has an aversion to suspenders (even those new glass ones, Edwina?); and Ann Hayward proclaims "take me away—far, far away—from the habitual late-dater."

But all of these shots at the male ego are mild compared to the cannon-ball released by Nell DeLee and Jean Claire Grissette, who agree with, "We just don't like boys!"

Delta Psi Omega Is Entertained

Dr. Grace Ingledue entertained the Delta Psi Omega fraternity and speech majors with an informal party at her apartment Tuesday, November 5. Preceding the social function, the Delta Psi Omega held a short meeting at which possible constitutional changes were discussed.

Festivities began when the speech majors joined the party. Bingo, treasure hunts, and jingles formed a gay prelude to delicious refreshments.

Guests were Elaine Calloway, Phillip Embanato, Dorothy Dennis, Frances Smith, Irving Ziedman, Erline Lusk, Olga Lipson, Sue McBride, Nell Moore, Jo Ann Guerriero, Zach Daughtry, Jerry Funchess, and Gerald Michael.

"Your feet may not be too big, but you annoy us in plenty of other ways," retaliate the young gentlemen. To get down to brass tacks, here's what they dislike about our coeds.

Seab DeLee shrinks from "those silly long socks that some of them wear. And I don't like girls who think it's cute not to play bridge."

"Horrid chicken feathers on hats. They almost scrape the ceiling, and keep people dodging so they won't stick them in the eye," shudders Lem McCoy.

Bill Funke and Roy Stewart are together as usual with, "Take us away from all girls who smoke."

Almost every member of the male sex interviewed agreed with Joe Turpin in his hatred of "a lot of unnecessary makeup."

Ed Broadnax emphatically states, "They are never on time; they don't appreciate a boy who likes to have a good time; and they all try to reform us."

"They're all alike; we can't believe any of them." Mike Bell sums it up, and Buddy Smith adds, "I'm all for the girls, but they pout too much."

"Lawrence 'Bubber' Vaughan tersely dislikes "Two-timers."

So there you are, coeds. Take heed of their prejudices and you will be on the road to becoming that "All-American Girl."

ners, consistently gaining territory for his teammates during the entire contest.

Bill Abraham, whose leg is rather abnormally injured, booted a beautiful extra point squarely between the uprights to make the score 7-0 in the second quarter. Olin Thayer was called into the game for the placement kick after the second tally and kicked the oval between the posts to make it 14-0, in favor of N.J.C.

Last Minute Danger

Only once did the Fliers invade goal-line territory and that was in the last few minutes of play when Johnson passed to Harmon who was downed on the six-yard line. A line play was tried and the gun sounded ending the game.

Although outweighed fifteen pounds per man the Malone coached squad's defense held fast, allowing the Navy five first downs while they piled up seven.

Outstanding in their play against the Aviators were Rudy Broussard, Hal Hansen, Dixie Howell, Ralph Taylor, and David Young.

Head National Groups

Library News . . . Magazine Guides Are Rearranged

Under the direction of Miss Mary H. Clay, college librarian, the magazines in the library have been rearranged during the past two weeks.

All bound volumes of periodicals have been moved to the downstairs stack level and are now located on the shelves to the left of the loan desk. This means that persons desiring to use these magazines will find them readily accessible without going upstairs.

An alphabetical list of the bound volumes with dates of each issue bound is being prepared and will be posted for general use.

Unbound issues of the magazines on the second floor of the stacks have also been rearranged. The magazines received by the N.J.C. library which are indexed in Readers' Guide to Periodicals, the composite index to many outstanding magazines, are arranged alphabetically by title in the section to the right of the stairway.

The list of the magazines in the front of the recent volumes of Readers' Guide has been checked to indicate which periodicals may be found in the N.J.C. library.

Experts Praise C.A.A. System

Captain Jack Cram, acting chief of developments of C.A.A., and C. B. Arthur, acting chief of ground schools, visited N.J.C.'s flying school at Selman field last Saturday.

"You are certainly to be complimented on your excellent system," Captain Cram said after inspecting the set-up.

The visitors were enthusiastic when informed of the ground school facilities.

"Your use of an obsolete army P. T. 3 and various cut-away plane sections for class illustrations parallels the methods used at Pensacola," Mr. Arthur pointed out.

The inspectors were especially anxious that ground school be stressed. "For," they said, "if students here go on down to Pensacola or Randolph field unprepared, they may be held up for further instruction."

"When we have completed our tour, we are going back to Washington, where we plan to use the information we gather for the betterment of C.A.A. ground schools," Captain Cram stated.

the Home Economics club, Thursday, Edwina Slater spoke in behalf of all the delegates and said, "The convention was indeed a peppy one. We all came to the conclusion that we are glad to have had the opportunity of majoring in home economics."

"I think the meeting was one which was profitable to our Home Economics club, and I am glad that we could have delegates. For the first year of organization, we did well to be represented," Miss Kelso added.

They Satisfy

COOLER, MILDER, BETTER-TASTING

With Chesterfields the smoking situation is always well in hand—because Chesterfields have what smokers want.

Chesterfield's right combination of American and Turkish tobaccos makes it the smoker's cigarette.

Do you smoke the cigarette that SATISFIES

YEARS OF PAINSTAKING STUDY and research have put Chesterfield far out in front in the blending and preparation of tobaccos to give you a cooler, better-tasting and definitely milder cigarette. (As seen in the new film "TOBACCOLAND, U. S. A.")
