Northeast Needs A Postoffice

Northeast State needs a genuine postoffice.

With about 1,500 campus population this year and an average of about 600 to 1,000 pieces of mail going out weekly, the regular services offered by a full fledged postoffice is a real necessity. And the incoming estimate is about the same as the outgoing, bringing the sum total of mail pieces handled weekly to an average of roughly, 1,200 to 2,000 weekly.

This is 1955. If we consider the growth potential of Northeast for the next five years, say, then we must conclude that now is the time to establish on the campus an honest-to-goodness postoffice to provide all the regular services of those downtown.

When this college was very, very young—in the 1930's—there was a postoffice here. It was discontinued about 1938 mainly because justification for it was lacking.

Now, however, times have changed and Northeast continues to build at a rapid pace. Monroe Postmaster Woodrow Hathorne said last week that he believes a postoffice on our campus in 1955 is justified. He explained that he could not speak for the postoffice department, but that in his opinion, one could be acquired.

Northeast President Lewis C. Slater also agrees that we need a regular postoffice and that one is justified. He said last week that he will look into the matter very soon, and explained that the idea of a campus postoffice had not escaped him.

Students and faculty members, the administration staff and the general public near Northeast State's campus would receive a great amount of convenience from such a "regular postoffice."

And we believe it is a necessity.

12 NE Debaters At LSU Today

The intercollegiate forensics season opens today in Louisiana as the L. S. U. Forensics Conference gets under way at Baton Rouge with twelve Indian debaters representing Northeast State.

Directed by James W. Parkinson of the Speech Dept., the debate squad attending the conference includes: Sammy Danna, James Hicks, Tommy Lee Wheeler, Thomas Lolley, Lemmie Hightower, Sue Turner, Willene Perkins, Peggy Rogers, Sarah Batton, Alice Mae Tarphey, Lynn Phillips and Frank Scalia.

Anticipating a successful season, Mr. Parkinson said, "This year we have the largest and (Continued on page 3)

Welcome, alumni!

The attitudes and achievements of those who have attended this institution, above all else, serve as a standard for measuring the past and future progress of Northeast State.

We solicit your continued interest in your Alma Mater.

Sincerely yours,

Northeast Alumni—Welcome Back

Northeast State alumni—scattered as you are to the many parts, you are indeed welcome to return and witness the changes taking place here at one of the fastest growing colleges in the country.

Your suggestions and active support for the betterment of Northeast State, possessor of an immense potential, are heartily encouraged.

You are encouraged, also, to allow no lag in alma mater interest; to keep us informed of your whereabouts and of your continuing support. Northeast students, faculty and staff members alike enjoy hearing from you.

More than that, Northeast has a definite interest in you and your happiness.

And why not drop all of us a line—often? Addressed to the Editor, Pow, Wow, your letters will be published, thereby informing everyone that you do want to remain a part of Northeast's mounting future.

Meanwhile—welcome back. We hope you enjoy a fun-packed weekend with us.

Education Enriches Life

One of the great pioneer cattlemen and bankers of North Texas, reared in the turbulent period of the War Between The States, learned to read and write long after he had reached manhood.

But today the three Rs are not enough, and youth of the United States are encouraged to finish grade and high school and if possible to graduate from colleges and universities.

A college education is a means toward a more abundant life. It means, first of all, a more secure economic future. Yet economic security is merely one benefit, and while all of us recognize the importance of being able to earn a good livelihood we should value as the greatest prize of all the ability to live zestfully and nobly and enjoy each day as a vivid personal experience.

Our pleasure in living is increased as our knowledge increases and the secrets of the universe in which we live are opened to our understanding eyes.

The young men and women attending college today are at the threshold of knowledge such as the world never knew before. They are studying in the dawn of the atomic age, in which mankind is gaining new mastery over environment, and unlocking storehouses of energy that should transform civilization within a few years.

No matter how great are human achievements in controlling physical environment, however, they may amount to little, and in fact might be destructive, unless at the same time there is mastery of moral and ethical factors governing the peoples of the earth.

No person is well educated unless he gains moral and ethical mastery over himself.

Education cannot add one iota to human intelligence, but it can lead the young man and woman to greater and more abundant use of the intelligence with which they were endowed at birth.

It can enrich their lives, and it is something that cannot be taken away from its fortunate possessors.

Let's Get Our Parking Straight

Students who bring cars to school have a real problem. They are constantly late for classes due to not finding a parking place.

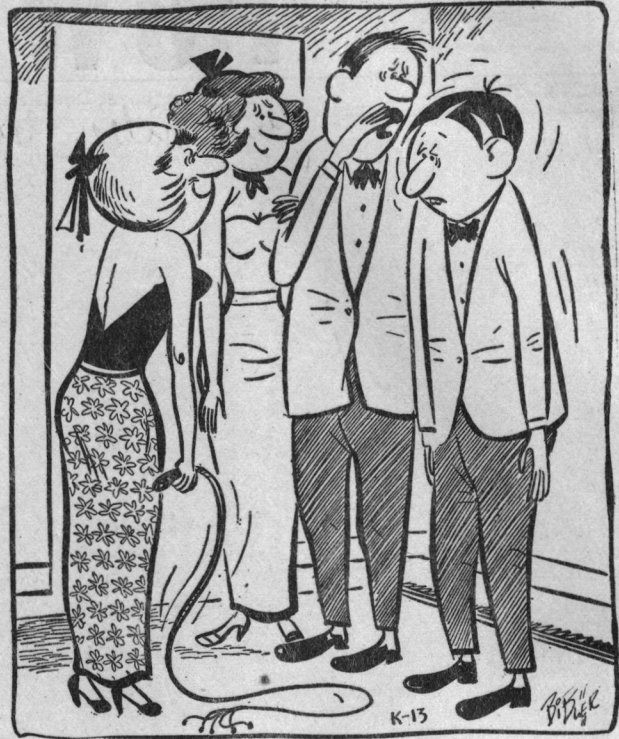

Yellow lines have been placed in the parking areas to help drivers park. So far, few have paid any attention to them. Some cars are parked right in the middle of the lines. This takes up two spaces.

By the second hour all the parking spaces are taken, so that students coming for second hour classes have to park on the sidewalk, in drive-ways, or on the campus.

Our campus is too beautiful to ruin the ground by parking cars on it. There is plenty of room for everybody if the drivers will park between the yellow lines. There is really no ex-

Now, Indians—shall we do it again?

One of those nice gestures of our college president, Lewis C. Slater, was made last weekend.

Immediately following the Indians' defeat of Western Kentucky's Hilltoppers, President Slater said, in effect, "No school Monday!"

Thank you, sir!

The fact that Northeast State has been a senior college for only five years and has graduated as many classes, may create alumni complications.

I'll Never Take Her With Me Again!

By Virginia Surles

A lady friend of mine had just seen her first football game.

And what happened?

Well, first was the pregame show. She wanted to know how they were going to play with that many people on the field. Someone told her that they would leave the field before the game started.

Then she wanted to know why they were out there in the first place and it was a real problem to explain this to her.

Time for the kickoff came. Everyone stood up.

She had to be told why everyone rose from their seats. I told her that the people just stood up because it was tradition.

I happened to call the football a "Pigskin". I shouldn't have done it! Because then she felt sorry for the poor pig that was forced to give up his skin for a football.

I think, after that, she flinched every time the ball was kicked, fell or was sailed through the air. Still I don't think she believes me.

And when she saw the cheerleaders out there, that did it. She said she couldn't understand people who got out in front of a whole bunch of people and made a spectacle of themselves.

I tried to tell her that it was what they were supposed to do. I told her that they were there to cheer the team on and encourage them to make a goal.

She couldn't see much sense in grown men getting out there and trying to take the ball away from each other. She said she didn't see why they had to run from one end of the field to the other.

It seemed stupid to her.

I never did make her understand why they played the game the way they did. One explanation just brought on another question. I never did get through explaining.

I'll never take her to another ball game with me.

Excellent advice and counsel for Northeast students comes from our faculty members.

Sincerity of purpose for the student characterizes the assistance offered by instructors, professors and the administrative staff. These friendly people want to see all Northeast students do well and to prosper as alumni.

Believe it? Just ask them!

Ralph attended LSU and collected bugs there. He says there are more bugs at the university but Northeast has better specimens.

Jack White Heads New Student Band

Twelve Redmen, comprising the new student band, are aiming to become the official Northeast orchestra.

The Redmen, headed by Jack White, originally were a ixie-land group playing for various organizations and activities in Monroe. Rex Dillingham, trombone; Volmer Dean Boyd, alto sax; Horace Smith, clarinet; Billy Crain, piano; Bill Wilson, drums; Jim Willis, tuba; and Jack White, trumpet constituted this original organization.

After everything from "Ten Little Indians" to "The Tribe", "The Redmen" emerged victorious as the group's name. The idea for this name also led to the type of uniform the band will eventually have.

In addition to being a proficient musician on his individual instrument, each member of the group also sings a little, thus making the orchestra not only a playing group but a singing one, too.

In this orchestra the following states are represented: Arkansas, Louisiana, and Tennessee. Members of the band, respectively from the different states, are:

Hope, Arkansas — Volmer Dean Boyd, alto sax; Jack White, trumpet.

Monroe—George Phillips, piano; Phares Corden, trumpet; Rex Dillingham, trombone; "Slick" Lawson, trombone; Marvin Pipes, alto sax; Bobby Cargile, tenor sax; James Russell, bass, from Jena.

Memphis, Tenn. — Charles Hytkin, tenor sax.

Columbia, Tenn. — Jimmy Kirk, drums.

Jack White, the leader and originator of the orchestra, is a junior music major and is employed at Paul Hewitt Music Company.

If anyone is interested in a young, growing musical organization to entertain for any kind of activity or dance, please contact Jack White at Paul Hewitt Music Company or call 8286.

'Bring 'Em Back Alive' Petty Gets Specialized Experience In Phys Ed

By Ezra Adams

The morning was cold and dove hunting was tiring.

Harry Petty held his gun carefully and sat back on the bank of Black Bayou near a small clump of bushes.

But even before he could relax, he saw the snake—a water moccasin.

Easily but with care, Harry swung, sighted and pulled the trigger.

Another dead one. Harry thought, and he won't be any good.

Now, most of us think of snakes as good only when they are dead. Not Harry.

Harry's got to be different—he brings 'em back alive to Robert Gordon, of the science faculty.

The Northeast sophomore physical education major has been catching snakes for the college science department since he was a junior at Neville High school. And he says the department doesn't want the snakes brought in dead because then the instructors couldn't use chemicals to kill them (takes six to eight hours) and remove the poison glands and preserve the snakes for all of us to see.

Harry estimates he has caught 50 or 75 snakes.

Frosh Initiation Rules Announced

Don't run, just be nice to it. That strange creature coming down the walk is only a freshman. The freshman activities committee for homecoming has outlined the freshman do's and don'ts for the initiation period.

All freshmen are expected to follow instructions all day Friday and Saturday morning. They are to wear their costumes to the parade Saturday morning. They are instructed to march in the parade and to be present at the bonfire tonight. Freshmen do not have to wear their costumes to the game Saturday afternoon.

Freshmen men are to have a shoe shine kit in their possession all day Friday and Saturday morning. They are instructed to wear a shirt with short pants and a band with a feather in it around their heads. For both days of freshman initiation they are to be made up to resemble Indians. If they are not made up in this manner the upper classmen will have the equipment to help them to achieve the Indian look.

Girls are to carry a clothes brush with them both days. They must wear short dresses, carry toys. They must furnish candy to upper classmen.

All freshmen are obliged to aid upper classmen Friday and Saturday by carrying their books, singing the alma mater and giving school cheers.

NE Writers Club Sponsors Contest

The Northeast State Writers Club is sponsoring a contest in creative writing, according to Ezra Adams, president.

Members are now preparing their manuscripts for entry in four categories—short stories, articles, poetry and one-act plays.

All entries will be brought to the next regular meeting on November 14 for registration. An evening meeting, time to be decided, will be held shortly afterwards for the purpose of reading, discussing and judging the entries.

The contest has a two-fold purpose: to give an outlet to members' creative thought and to help them prepare for the state contest which will be held in Lafayette on the last Saturday of February.

The Northeast Writers Club is a member of the Louisiana College Writers Society, and is sponsored by these faculty members: Dr. Willa Claire Cox, Dr. Charles B. Guest and Lewis M. McKneely, assistant professor of English.

Any Northeast student interested in writing is invited to join the club.

Northeast Will Display Assets At Louisiana State Fair Next Week

By Lew Koch

Amid the hustle and bustle of the colorful Louisiana State Fair starting tomorrow at Shreveport, you'll find a College Exhibit building where Northeast State will proudly display her assets.

A majority of Louisiana colleges, along with Northeast, have been invited to show the public just what they have to offer. Our section, measuring eight by twenty feet, will show photographs of the campus, depict various types of student activity, and emphasize the six major fields of study: Agriculture and Home Economics, Business, Fine Arts, Liberal Arts, Science and Math, and Teacher Education.

"And we plan to add a 3-D touch to the exhibit," said Robert L. Tetteleton, art instructor and chairman of the industrious "Display Committee." The committee includes Miss Frances Baldwin, Assistant Professor of Chemistry; L. L. Price, head of the Agriculture and Home Economics Department; and George Brian, Assistant Professor of Speech.

Symbols will be used to represent the various departments. For instance, a small doll with apron might refer to the Home Economics division, a candelabra for music, a globe for history, a test tube for chemistry, a . . .

Well, let's just end it by saying that for nine days the exhibit will refer to Northeast as a whole, a great idea to let the people learn more about our great institution.

Music Recitals Will Be Oct. 24

The first student music recitals of the current season will be held in Brown Auditorium on Monday, October 24 at the 9th period. Students and the public are invited to attend at no cost.

Eight music majors will perform at the recital in the following order:

James Sullivan, voice; Beverly Durden, piano; Francis Adams, soprano; Tommy Sue Proctor, mezzo-soprano; Doris Kitchens, trumpet; Bonita Tucker, voice; Jane Wallace, voice; Fern Fogleman, piano.

Subsequent recitals are planned for November 21 and December 5.

Social Science Members See Film

"It's Everybody's Business," an animated motion picture in technicolor, was viewed by members of the Social Science Club at the meeting last Friday. The film explained how our business system has given America the highest standard of living in the world, and pointed out the importance of preserving the freedoms on which such a system must be founded.

New members were welcomed to the organization by the president, Dwight Grubbs. Prad Porter and Billy Thomson were named to chairman the committee which will co-ordinate plans for the float.

Regular meetings of the Social Science Club will be held on the fourth Monday of each month at the third period. Special luncheon meetings will also be included on the agenda.

Jus' Gabbin'

By Sara Hinton

For years on end Northeast has had the reputation of being one of Louisiana's friendliest colleges. As our school has grown our enthusiasm has grown greater. We're proud of Northeast—proud to be part of this wonderfully cordial campus.

Tomorrow is our 23rd annual homecoming. In these past years Northeast has come of age. It has progressed from T. O. Brown's junior college section of the Ouachita Parish school system to one of the state's fastest growing four year colleges. Our enrollment for this year has increased more than 200 over last Fall's enrollment.

This year's homecoming game will honor the classes of 1935, '36, '37 and '38. Besides the honor group, many of our grads are coming home for a visit. Let's make smiles bigger 'n better to show our guests that our campus atmosphere hasn't changed.

We're still friendly Northeast and proud of it!

Indians Meet Cowboys

By Fred McDowell

Wails and Wahoos

By Fred McDowell

The tension that has been building up all this week for the game tomorrow began last Saturday night when the Cheerleaders led the students in the loudest yells of the season. Needless to say, the loudest yell was "We want a holiday." That request was quickly granted by President Slater in an announcement over the local radio stations and downtown newspaper.

Running a close second to "We want a holiday" was "Throw John Earl in the bayou." This request was not granted. John Earl begged off on the flimsy excuse that he had on his good clothes. He had made the rash statement that if we beat Western Kentucky the students could throw him in the bayou.

Let's do it this time and give him a real ducking.

"Colonel" Jack Rushing also made a rash statement in connection with the Hilltopper game. He said that if we beat Western Kentucky he would treat the whole team to free milkshakes at the College Friend. The banquet was Wednesday night.

NL Club Adopts Rules And By-Laws

The "NL" Club held its regular meeting on October 17, in the football players' lounge at the north end of the Stadium. The Club has officially adopted a constitution and its rules and by-laws will be strictly followed.

It was also decided at Monday's meeting that all regular Letter-men's Club meetings will be held on the first and third Mondays of each month at 7 p. m. in the football players lounge at the north end of the Stadium.

The "NL" Club is requesting that all students respect the athletes, who have earned a letter at Northeast, and to refrain from wearing letters earned at schools other than Northeast. Your cooperation will be greatly appreciated.

Tentative plans are being made for the annual "NL" Club Ball.

Meet The Team

James Berry is one of those men that have been called, by an outstanding sports writer, a "mule". The writer was Grantland Rice and the men referred to were the linemen on the Notre Dame team that featured the "four horsemen."

James (Jimmy) Berry is a first string guard, is five feet eleven inches tall, and weighs one hundred and ninety pounds. He lettered last year for Northeast as a sophomore. He's back this year performing the capable, efficient job that is required of him.

As a high school football player for Ouachita Parish High school, he was voted the outstanding lineman in 1952. Jimmy played under the expert tutelage of Coach Jim Hodgins, who has coached several other members of the Northeast squad.

James is a junior this year and is a physical education major.

Indians—the team that will win the 23rd annual homecoming game tomorrow.

The Indians meet the McNeese Cowboys at Brown Stadium in an afternoon contest that should prove to be the best game of the year as far as excitement is concerned. It's a game to get excited about. There isn't a student on the campus that isn't certain that Northeast will win this game.

It would be hard to find a tougher team for a homecoming game. The Cowboys have won two games, tied one, and lost one. They were beaten by Louisiana Tech by a score of only 14 to 0. McNeese has been labeled the "dark horse" of the conference this year. They were no slouches last year, either. They beat us 27 to 6.

This year will prove a different story.

Why? Because the Indians are still fired up over the win against Western Kentucky last week and that enthusiasm has reached a fever pitch in the excitement of homecoming week. Pep rallies, bonfires, parades, all have served to keep the team and the students stirred up. The desire to win this game has reached monumental proportions and shows no evidence of weakening. Then, too, the team has shown steady improvement with each game. Since the disastrous opening game against Southeastern, the scores have been closer with Northeast piling up more points and coming to a peak in the fracas against Western Kentucky with a high of 21 points.

But, lest the optimism reach undue proportions, there is a blue note in this symphony of smiles. Coach Devone Payne has said that Podge McKoin, injured in the game against Delta State, will not be able to play in this game. Podge had a pinched nerve in his Five of Northeast's Indians will play their last homecoming game tomorrow afternoon. All five grid warriors have played four years in college competition. back but has been recovering satisfactorily. He will probably see action later on in the season.

Plagued by an ankle injury all season long, Danny Hoak is not expected to play. Danny played against the Hilltoppers last Saturday night and even with a badly sprained ankle made two long runs. Once it appeared he would go all the way, but his injured ankle slowed him so badly he was caught by a surprised safety man. Danny's ball handling had fooled the defense and the whole Kentucky team had started after the wrong man.

But, we have two other quarterbacks who have shown great ability this season. Wallace Hargon is known to be a bear on defense and is one of the more capable linebackers. Everett Reynolds is the eighteen year old Texan who has filed for the job of first string quarterback.

The team expects to win this game: The students expect to win this game: The Alumni expect to win this game: the faculty expect to win this game.

Let's Win It.

An organizational meeting will be held on October 31 for the purpose of organizing a Romance Languages club on the Northeast campus.

All those students interested please contact Miss Hazel Mitchell, Spanish instructor, in her office on the second floor of the Library building.

Dr. G. K. Keegan To Speak Before Baptist Students

Dr. G. Kearnie Keegan, secretary of the student department of the Southern Baptist Convention since 1950, will address the state Baptist Student Convention Saturday night, October 29, and Sunday morning, October 30. The convention is to be held at College Place Baptist church in Monroe.

Dr. Keegan is a native Louisianan and a graduate of Northwestern State College, where he was a three-year letterman in football, soloist in the glee club, and elected the "best-all-around student" in his junior year. He holds a master's degree from Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, Tex., and a Doctor of Divinity degree from Howard Payne College in Brownwood, Texas.

An outstanding Baptist leader, Dr. Keegan has served pastorates in Natchitoches, Alexandria, Longview, Texas, and Los Angeles, California. He is in constant demand as a speaker and soloist.

Listed in "Who's Who on the Pacific Coast" and in "Who's Who in America," the speaker has traveled in Europe, Egypt, the Holy Land, Central America, South America and Hawaii. He is active in civic groups as a Mason and Rotarian. Special areas of study which occupy his time are theology, social science and psychology.

BSU "Twin Day" To Be Oct. 25

The Baptist Student Union is sponsoring "Twin Day" in their noonday chapel service on Tuesday, October 25. Every person attending chapel that day is asked to bring a "twin".

The "twin" does not have to resemble the person in any way, because it is just a plan for everyone who attends to bring someone else. A goal of sixty has been set for the attendance that day. The previous high attendance was 51.

Dr. James T. Horton, pastor of First Baptist Church, Monroe, will be the speaker. All students and faculty members are invited.

Staff Meeting

A meeting of the Pow Wow staff has been set for the third period, Monday, October 24, in the Pow Wow office.

All members and others interested in becoming a part of the staff—please be present.
