Largest Student Teaching Group In NLSC History Now Practicing

Northeast has ninety students with student teaching assignments this semester. This group is the largest one in Northeast's student teaching history.

This semester's student teacher group is almost double the size of any previous group. The Spring semester of 1955 the group numbered fifty-two. Last semester there were fifty-three student teachers, the largest group until now.

The ninety students are assigned to three local high schools, and six local grammar schools, and do their student teaching under the supervision of thirty-eight supervising teachers.

Neville High School has two student teachers in the home economics department and two doing student teaching in social studies.

Ouachita Parish High school has thirty-eight student teachers. They teach in ten areas: commerce—2, English—2, health and physical education (men)—10, health and physical education (women)—2, home economics—4, math—2, music—1, science—2, social studies—4, Spanish—1, and speech—2.

Second NLSC Speech Play To Be Staged March 1-2

George Brian Directs Three-Act Play From Best Seller Novel By C. Marshall

"A Man Called Peter", an inspirational three-act drama of the life of the Rev. Peter Marshall, Chaplain of the United States Senate, will be presented by Northeast State students Thursday and Friday evenings, March 1 and 2, in Brown Auditorium. Curtain time is at 8 p. m. and admission price is 50 cents.

Betty Jean Jones, Northeast speech major, is student director of the college production assisting George Brian, the director.

In novel form written by Catherine Marshall, wife of Peter Marshall, "A Man Called Peter" is a Book of the Month Club choice and a consistent best seller. The Reader's Digest published the book in condensed form and John McGreevey adapted the novel as a three-act drama.

The play is the second Northeast speech production of the season and its success is expected to be even greater than that of "You Can't Take It With You", produced by the speech department last fall.

Tickets for the current production may be obtained from speech students or at the door.

Cast for "A Man Called Peter" are: Peter Marshall, J. C. Wallace; Catherine Marshall, Sarah Batton; Peter John Marshall, Ronnie Dana and Richard Hill; Allen Talbot, Allen Scott; Judith Bickle, Rita Snider; Jesse Bickle, Lynn Phillips; Susan Grant, Peggy Rogers; Marian Grant, Dell Lassiter.

Five New Campus Building Projects Total $850,000

Building construction projects to begin this semester on Northeast State's campus will be valued at about $850,000, the amount of contracts and money earmarked for this part of the expansion, President Lewis C. Slater said this week.

Bringing the total already earmarked to $1 million is $150,000 set aside for the purchase of land on which to continue building for this rapidly growing college, President Slater added.

Construction began early this week on the second of the "new" women's dormitories along Bayou DeSiard. Going up immediately north of the modern dormitory now filled with Northeast coeds, the second will be built and in use at the beginning of the Spring, 1957 semester.

The next Northeast State building to get attention from construction workers probably will be the first unit of a new and up-to-the-minute agriculture building, President Slater said. At a cost of $200,000, the unit will rise in the area across the street immediately in front of the Science Building.

Plans on this and other new buildings and additions have been submitted to the state education department, the college president explained. Other planned buildings and their probable costs are:

Infirmary, east of the Pow Wow office, $50,000.

Student Center building additions, $100,000.

Music (Fine Arts) building additions, to double its present size, $200,000.

The modern classroom building now under construction is expected to be ready for use by the coming fall semester. Besides classrooms, it will house faculty offices, an ample faculty lounge and an amphitheatre, seating 175 to 200 persons.

Men at Northeast State this fall will be housed in the new and modern men's dormitory now being constructed. It is the first of an undetermined number of housing projects for men's quarters on the campus.

Editorials

Shelter At Bus Stops

Last year an editorial appeared in the Pow Wow expressing the need for a shelter at the main bus stop on DeSiard Road directly in front of Brown Hall. Apparently the editorial was either not read, or no attention was paid to it, for the shelter problem remains with us.

Those of us who are fortunate enough to have access to an automobile are not molested too much by rainy or misty weather, but bus-riding students get dripping wet while waiting for those ever patient buses to make those ever patient rounds. Coughs, colds, flu, the gripes, and what have you, attack us. Books become soaked, and fade on clothing, and to make a miserable story short, we become down-right uncomfortable.

There was a time when the bus came into the arc driveway on rainy days, but now the parking problem renders this a tedious task. Then, students could board it without too much exposure. Since this convenience is no longer offered, why not get behind the Student Council? They in turn could hold conferences with the president and see what sort of arrangements could be made.

What do you say? We need a BUS SHELTER.

Do Our 'Give-Aways' Keep The Peace?

The administrators of our foreign aid program give the general public an appearance that the Far East countries and other foreign nations can not bear the full financial brunt for a well balanced military program.

One of the main aims of our foreign aid seems to be in the realm of keeping peace among the Western and Eastern nations. The foreign aid program at the present time doesn't give one the appearance of averting further hostilities with other nations of the world.

The 18 American-made tanks delivered this past week to Arabia for continued operation of a U. S. military base may appease the Arabians but what about Israel arms appeal? Israel, involved in a bitter contest with Arabia, may take this as an endeavor to support Arabia's side of the conflict. Does pursuit of such a policy show efforts to lessen hostilities?

Following an outbreak of recent "riots" in Israel, where an American hospital was burned and American lives were given little consideration, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles stated, "What can a beggar expect if he is holding out one hand and grasping a dagger in the other?" In spite of this and other statements concerning curtailment of foreign aid, surface reports show continued gain in the pursuit of "give-aways."

On February 2 of this year, eight Arab nations, all scheduled recipients of the 1956 "grant" budget, served "notice they will refuse to let the United States and Britain dictate any settlement of their bitter dispute with Israel."

This bit of loftiness was delivered to U. S. assistant Secretary of State George V. Allen by the Lebanese ambassador, Dr. Victor Khoury.

Continued rebuff of the United States and other western nations in the form of Indian power-man, Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, does not halt in any manner the aid India is to receive.

Consistently Nehru has made efforts to seat Red China at the United Nations and has thrown accusations of "western colonization" toward the peace-seeking nations of the West. Maybe the British-educated Nehru is following the adage of "playing both ends against the middle". This is evidenced by his "friendliness" toward the United States and continued general appeasements for the Communists hammering at India's door under the nonchalant gaze of Nehru.

Unless aid flowing into these tumultuous countries is carefully supervised or even halted, the United States can not be assured that the grants will not be used to further "aggressive activities" in the Near East, as the American oil money is doing in Saudi Arabia.

A study recently conducted among 80 colleges and 80 corporations by Bernard Haldane, a career counseling specialist, revealed that 30 out of 100 June graduates will leave their jobs before the first year is over. Fifteen more will change jobs before the first year is over.

This job insecurity is brought about by career uncertainties among students, inadequate recruitment and training by industry, as well as inadequate job counseling and career development by colleges, according to the survey.

"There should be the realization that recruitment and career counseling should start early in the college career. Steps should be taken to help students realize their abilities and greatest potential usefulness before they begin to major in special subjects—certainly not until a few months before graduation," Mr. Haldane insisted.

The Shah and Queen of Iran were recently photographed while teaching reading and writing in a Tehran class, leading the way in a country-wide campaign to eliminate Iran's 80 per cent illiteracy problem.

Hollywood—The newspaper ad said that anyone who wanted to be a movie hero should call Vine 2031. Some fellow answered and said, "Greetings, this is Isolated Motion Picture Studios, can we be of service?" I reminded him of the ad and he arranged an appointment.

It took one hour and three buses to reach Hollywood and Vine from Beverly Hills, and it took six more blocks to find the dilapidated studio of Isolated Pictures.

On the walls were out-of-date photos of previous "stars". They looked like fugitives from the Griffith Park zoo.

The interviewer said, "What can you do, Mr. Wampum?" I replied, "Play a guitar and yodel!" He seemed impressed. Said things could be arranged if I would go to a special school for three months. I feverishly asked how much and he smiled out, "Seventy-five bucks a month."

That's when my guitar strings busted and I began the long hitch-hike home.

Next week: Wampum has a date.

Ag Members Judge FFA Contest

Members of the Agriculture and Home Economics Department of Northeast Louisiana State College judged the Tri-Parish FFA Public Speaking and Parliamentary Law Contests held in Tallulah on Friday evening, February 10, with L. L. Price, head of the department, serving as chairman of the judges and F. H. Holdeman, assistant professor of Agricultural Engineering, assisting. The third judge was V. B. Dunn of the State Department of Education.

G. S. Langford, FFA adviser of the Tallulah High School, stated that this team of judges had judged this particular contest for several consecutive years by popular request of the FFA members of that area. He pointed out that this was a sub-district contest with the winners going to Calhoun on March 30, to compete with winners of three other sub-district contests of North Louisiana.

Drama Is Theme Of Next Telecast

"Two Years of Drama at Northeast State College" will be the theme of the Northeast TV program to be televised tomorrow at 4 p. m. over KNOE-TV.

Northeast presents a program every other Saturday, alternating with Louisiana Tech.

Saturday's program will consist mostly of a film which will include excerpts from various productions staged at Northeast in the past two years.

Plays represented in the film are "Cyrano de Bergerac", "The Great Big Doorstep", "You Can't Take It With You", and "The Robe".

BSU Plans Twirp Party For Tonight

Baptist girls are taking advantage of 1956 being leap year.

The Baptist Student Union has planned a "Twirp Party" to begin at 7:30 this evening. The order of courtship is being reversed to permit the girls to ask boys for dates to attend the party. Many girls heretofore dateless are expected to bring a "feller" to enjoy the gaiety of the evening.

'Lady' Stahl Honored By Sherrouse School Home Life Counselor To Speak At Chapel

One of Northeast's assistant professors was a special guest of Sherrouse Elementary school Sunday afternoon when she received honors from the school at its 25th anniversary meeting. It was also the silver anniversary for the school's Parent-Teacher Association, and for the principalship of Mrs. Margaret A. Vincent.

Annie Lee West (Lady) Stahl, journalism instructor, and director of off-campus college publicity for many years, was on the honor platform to receive the school's special recognition of her work in behalf of publicity for the school and its P-TA during the past 25 years.

Mrs. Frank Leavell, home life counselor for the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Convention, will speak at BSU Noonday Chapel Tuesday and Wednesday, February 28 and 29, from 12:40 to 1 p. m. Mrs. Leavell will be featured on a Christian Home Week program at the First Baptist Church of West Monroe February 26-29.

Christian marriage has been the antecedent, the experience, and one of the main life studies of Mrs. Leavell. Her marriage to Frank H. Leavell in 1917 united two prominent Southern Baptist families. Dr. Leavell, one of nine brothers of outstanding leadership in religious and educational circles, was for twenty-eight years the southwide executive secretary of the Baptist Student Union. The three children of their marriage are now following paths of distinct Christian usefulness.

Meet The Team

STANLEY SHANEYFELT

Stanley Eugene "Root" Shaneyfelt is one of the most promising members of the basketball team. Root didn't play much at the beginning of the season, but he is really seeing action now. Root is very aggressive and alert and has been showing up well in the scoring column every game.

Shaneyfelt is only 20 years old and a junior. He should have a really big year next season. The fans of the Twin Cities have been watching Root and there is nothing but praise from them on his playing.

Stanley, or "Soupbone" as he is sometimes called, is from Chalmette, is six feet four inches in height and weighs in at 178 pounds. He attended New Iberia High School and Tippecanoe High School at Tip City, Ohio. He also attended Holmes Junior College. Playing four years of high school and two years of college basketball, he has also played football, baseball and track. Some of his athletic honors include basketball all-state, all-district and most outstanding player.

Wails and Wahoos

By Fred McDowell

Football Spring training has been hampered by the slightly damp weather of late. Coach Devonne Payne pointed out that in two weeks the team had only four workouts on the gridiron. However, he said the team had shown improvement. Because of the bad weather spring training may have to be extended. The one scrimmage allowed so far by the weather has not been sufficient.

There is a possibility that the graduating seniors may play a game against other team members at the end of training. Captain Red Yocom said that if there were enough of the seniors to play he felt sure it would be interesting. More on that at a later date.

This column would like to print a correction to an error appearing in last week's "Meet the Team." It was erroneously reported that Mr. Harold Davis and Miss Alice Mae Tarpey had been engaged. This is in fact an error. Mr. Davis and Miss Tarpey are not now, nor have they ever been engaged.

New PE Instruction Course Is Formed

An experimental course for physical education majors has been formed with a view toward aiding the students in increasing their effectiveness in teaching games. The course includes instructions in every sport from angling to wrestling. Not quite from a to z but as close as time will permit.

Dr. Carl Meeks will be co-ordinator of the class with assistance from other members of the athletic staff. Dr. Meeks said this course is intended to give "an insight into skills the students will require for purposes of demonstration and techniques of instruction."

The course is listed as a seminar and laboratory. The students will take turns teaching each other the various games and sports. While one student teaches, the others will participate and after the game a critique will be held. The discussion will center on the methods of the teacher and how he may improve his presentation. All is not seriousness, however. Sammy Moore has found it more difficult to catch and tag Gay Whittaker in a game of "three deep" than it was to tackle an opponent in football.
