Northeast ROTC Rifle Team No. 1 In U.S.

The Northeast State Small-bore Rifle Team took first place in the nation during the recent National ROTC Intercollegiate Indoor Small-bore Rifle Match. The ten-man team was in competition with 80 other state colleges, universities, and junior colleges throughout the United States.

With a top score of 2879, the local team outdistanced their nearest competitor, Ouachita Baptist College of Arkadelphia, Ark., by a margin of 47 points. Other colleges ranking in top places include Kansas State University, Drexel Institute of Technology of Philadelphia, Oregon State University, University of West Virginia, University of California, and University of Hawaii.

The ten Northeast ROTC cadets on the team include Durwood Antley, Downsville; Robert Calvert, Rayville; Thomas Corry, Monroe; Henry Donelson, Monroe; John S. Gary, New Iberia; David Kirtley, Monroe; Charles McCough, Sterling; Gomer L. Sharbono, Rayville; Glendale Sullivan, Winnsboro; and Jack Williams, Waverly.

Highest-scoring man on the team was Sharbono, followed by Donelson in second place and Antley third.

The firing match used .22 rim fire ammunition, which was fired from three different positions: prone, kneeling, and standing. Ten rounds were fired each position for a total of thirty shots in the match for each man.

Each man on the team is awarded an individual medal, and a large silver trophy is awarded to the team as a whole. This trophy is relinquished each year to the new national champs. Last year's top team came from Oklahoma State University, who is sending the trophy to its new owners at Northeast State.

Faculty advisor and instructor of the award winning team is M/Sgt. B. D. Maroney, who this year is retiring from duty after 30 years of service.

Faculty Member Is Injured In Mishap

Mrs. Evelyn Sanders Chilton, faculty member in Northeast State's English department, was recently injured in an accident at her home when she fell and broke a collar bone. She was taken for treatment to St. Francis hospital, where she remained until earlier this week.

She was scheduled to be released from the hospital yesterday, officials said, and she will convalesce at home.

Student Here Is Officer In State Religious Group

Miss Emily Kay Ensminger, a Junior at Northeast, was elected President of the Louisiana Presbyterian Student Organization at a statewide Conference. This is the first time this distinction has been made by a student at Northeast.

Six students and the Director of Westminster Fellowship here at Northeast attended a weekend conference at Silliman recently. Eight colleges and universities were represented at this meeting. Miss Ensminger was elected president after serving in places of leadership throughout the conference. She and Lori Harris served as discussion leaders for one of the study groups for its four sessions.

Miss Ensminger is majoring in Social Studies here at Northeast. She holds the position of Junior Representative on the local Westminster Council, and will represent her state at an assembly-wide conference at Mo-Ranch Texas in August and will be official representative during the coming year to many councils and conferences throughout the United States.

Geology Group Here Travels To Tulsa, Oklahoma

Thirty geology students traveled by chartered bus last weekend to Tulsa, Oklahoma, to attend the International Petroleum Exposition. Associate Prof. John McCarter accompanied the students to the meet which is held every four years.

More than $50 million of equipment was displayed on 30 acres of fairgrounds. A museum of science described all phases of geology, and included working models with cutaway sections.

A 100-ton truck, reportedly the largest in the world, was exhibited. Of French design, it was built for travel across the Sahara Desert, and made so that, per square inch, it is lighter than the footprint of a camel.

Some of the countries, other than the United States, with exhibits were South America, Japan, and India. The smaller equipment and machinery was displayed in buildings and such equipment as drilling rigs stood out on the fairgrounds. Literature describing each displayed item was available, and films were shown continuously throughout the Exposition.

Goodyear Rubber Company exhibited the world's largest tire, measuring 10 feet in diameter and 4 feet in width. Other companies displaying products and machinery included United States Steel, General Motors, and International Harvester.

Movie stars present for the IPE were Jane Russell, Chill Wills, and Dale Robertson, the latter of Wells Fargo TV series fame. Other guests were Miss Louisiana and Miss Oklahoma.

Enroute to and from Tulsa, the group made several stops to observe and describe various geological formations found in

Annual AAU Track And Field Meet Scheduled Here

Track Coach Lew Hartzog, director of the junior and senior Southern Amateur Athletic Track and Field Meet to be held here Saturday, has announced an outstanding field of entries.

"We have entries from junior colleges, colleges and universities in Louisiana and Mississippi and outstanding high school stars of East Texas, Mississippi, Southern Arkansas and Louisiana high schools," said Hartzog. He added that a complete listing of entries along with a schedule of events would be released.

In the javelin, Edward Red of Lafayette High School, holder of the composite record with a toss of 214 feet, will duel Joe Cage of Neville High School of Monroe. Cage holds the national freshman and sophomore record with the javelin. His best throw was for 206-5.

The 440 and 880 events will pit Earl Wright of Ruston High School, who holds the composite record in the 880 with a time of 1:56.6 against Larry Smith of Central High School, Jackson, Miss. Smith has equaled Wright's time in the 880 and also holds a 49.5 clocking in the 440.

The junior mile promises to be another top event. George Abbott of Jonesboro-Hodge High School, double-A mile champion who has signed a track scholarship with Northeast, and Jimmy Cobb of McGehee, Ark. High School. Cobb is the all-time mile record-holder in Arkansas.

Rules for junior ranking require that the entrant has never placed in junior or senior AAU before.

The meet is scheduled for Saturday afternoon and evening at Brown Stadium. Northeast was awarded the meet in April.

Awards In Band Announced Here

Charles E. Hytken, senior music education major from Memphis, Tennessee, won the Dew Music Company Award, which is awarded annually to the outstanding member of the Northeast College Band.

The low woodwind section was recipient of the Joe Barry Mullins Award which is awarded annually to the most outstanding section of the college band. Members of this section include Margaret Killen, Monroe; Charles Hytken, Memphis, Tenn.; Jack Reynolds, Monroe; Sue Paine, Crowley; and Don Bernhard, Keerville, Texas. Charles Hytken is section leader of the winning section.

Both awards are voted on by the members of the band. The winner of the Dew Music Company Award receives a trophy and the winners of the Joe Barry Mullins Award receive a steak dinner and pictures of the section.

As things come to a grinding halt for this semester, let's sit back while the campus dust is settling and determine what all this means for Northeast Indians.

To the freshmen who entered here last September with fresh, energetic faces and eager minds, this final week is the end all and cure all for the pains of exams, term papers, tests, and studies.

The sophomore, after two years of exams, term papers, tests, and studies, consider it the granddaddy of all wonder drugs.

And to the junior — with his impressive background of exams, term papers, tests, and studies — it is the magic elixir, the remedial antidote, the medicinal panacea for the three-year beating to which he has been subjected.

To the seniors with their added burdens, this final week is nothing less than an earthly paradise, a rainbow's end, and a care-free Utopia. No more early morning or Saturday classes, no more test-happy professors, no more cramming sessions, and more outside readings.

But for the graduating seniors, this final week brings on a confusing mixture of heartfelt emotions. They're happy at getting out, but they're sad at having to graduate so soon. One month after graduation, the typical senior will look back on his college career and describe it as the "happiest time of my life." Somehow, all the troubles of exams, term papers, tests, and studies fade far into the background.

Such is college; such is life. "Thirty" is the journalistic term for the end. For us, this is our last Pow Wow — this is our "thirty" mark. With this issue, we relinquish our editorship to our successors.

Perhaps another journalistic term would be more appropriate in the place of "thirty." This is the indication of "more" or "continued," for we are sure "more" is to come in the annals of the Northeast Indians and the history of Northeast State College as a whole. Surely, for our college, the future can hold nothing but "more."

With these thoughts in mind, we hand you this, our final issue.

Final Issue

The journalistic symbol "30" means the end. The issue, then, is our "30" issue for the year. We've issued a total of 28 issues during the last two semesters. In closing, our thanks go to the long list of names we've compiled of people who have helped us when we needed help the most. Such people are, of course, too numerous to mention; because this is the entire college's newspaper, and we must be grateful to the entire college.

A special note of thanks, however, is due our very co-operative and excellent faculty sponsor, Robert H. Russell, who has never refused our cries for help when the going got rough. It is because of his worthy assistance, we firmly believe, that our year as the POW WOW staff has been such a wonderful one.

Smoke Signals

By Janis Hilburn

Hello, and also, good-bye, on this our last issue of this semester. We have really enjoyed chatting with you, sharing the latest gossip, but like everyone, we are kinda glad that summer has come. Our plans for vacation include sleeping all morning, loafing in the sun afternoons, and partying at night — no work, at all; that is until summer school starts. To end this semester in the right (?) way, we have endeavored to compose a "work of art." Hope you like it.

This year has been a great one, as we look back, There's lots of memories stacked upon that rack. That football fever which filled one and all, That trip to McNeese, now that was a ball. Our "soldiers" had a dance one starry night, Betty was a real queen that night, smiling so bright. Redskins '58 combined talents from far and near And Norman, our director, really deserved that cheer.

The Old South week-end saw the Civil war renewed, And that same Thursday, Northeast beauties were reviewed. Don't feel downhearted as those memories go flying by, New memories to come are fast drawing nigh. To you seniors, a sad goodbye and a hearty cheer. And you others, remember there's always next year. Good-bye, and have a wonderful summer. We'll be looking for tan faces when the next semester rolls around.

The professor was noted for his practical approach to all subjects and he always insisted that there were logical and reasonable explanations for everything. His friends were surprised one day, then, when they found a horse shoe hanging over the professor's door.
"Why did you put up the horse shoe," one of them asked.
"You surely don't believe that old superstition that a horse shoe will bring you good luck?"
"Of course I don't believe it," answered the professor. "But I understand that it's supposed to work whether you believe in it or not."

A man walked into a small railroad station and asked the ticket agent, "Is the New York train on time?"
"Yep!" drawled the agent.
"The man sat down on the platform bench and waited . . . one hour passed. Then two and then three. Finally, four hours late, the train pulled into the station.
"I thought you said the train was on time," he accused the ticket agent.
"Son," said the old agent softly, "I ain't paid to sit here and knock the railroad."

Kirk's Korner

What a wonderful way to end the four years of college — a C.S.C. championship. And for Don Reynolds, Robert McGough, Gene Hagen, and Jerry Ivy, it is just that — the end of their college track participation. Oh, what a way to go!

For many of us graduating seniors, the thrill of winning the first GSC crown is equally as exciting. As a freshman we pulled and yelled with little meaning, but the spirit was there even though we knew no one. Our sophomore year was a little different. We knew some of the athletes and we pulled just a little bit more.

That third year of college was a great one. Slowly we began to be completely adjusted and rapidly our enthusiasm grew as we dreamed with great anticipation the outcome for the oncoming year. But at the close of that junior year, we again felt as freshmen — we were backing but there was little meaning in our support. Three years we had hoped and dreamed for something big to happen. Three years of dreaming had been shattered.

Then all of a sudden it hit. So fast and with such terrific impact that it left us stunned as a tornado might when it rips through a small town. The year 1958 was to be a great year. We were seniors and little did we know what would be in store.

Before four football games had gone by, we were rated among the top in small colleges. The season ended with one of the best records compiled in several years. To top it off, Jack Rowan was named "Coach of the Year."

We were feeling good again, alive again — proud to be an Indian. Our senior year was off to a good start — we would have something to remember. And a lot more was in store. The basketball team did better than it has done in a couple of years under the tutoring of coach Lenny Fant.

Then the scoring sports came. The baseball team under George Luffey kept its own, and the track team under the Coach of the Year Lew Hartzog did it! Not only did they thrill fans from all over the Southland, but they became champions of Gulf States Conference.

I can remember when it was difficult to get a crowd to a home game; we filled the stands at Northwestern. "Everybody and his brother" was there. I saw something else new. In the past three years, we failed to see the college president at all home games. Our president this year, Dr. George Walker, I've seen at practically all games — home and away. By the way, he and his wife yelled louder than the rest of the crowd Saturday.

For many of us, May 25 will be a joyous occasion. We graduate. But we couldn't be happier than we were Saturday when the track team walked away with the GSC first place trophy. Congratulations, fellows!

This has been a wonderful year.

FINAL RESULTS ANNOUNCED: MEN'S INTRAMURAL PROGRAM

The men's intramurals season closed Monday as the Roundballers won the softball playoffs with a 15-2 victory over the Rinky Dinks. The Rinky Dinks, managed by Phil Cramer, were the winners during the regular season, but the Roundballers pulled an upset behind the strong pitching of Harry Sykes, who won his third straight game in the double elimination playoffs.

Home Ec Club Here Announces Officers

Jean Williams, a senior Home Economics major from Delhi, has been elected president of the Home Economics Club at Northeast State at a recent meeting of the organization.

Other officers include Jeanette Holdeman, vice-president; Lou Sheppard, reporter; Donna Holdeman, treasurer, and Martha Stockstill, secretary. Parliamentarian is Jo Ann Ezell; historian, Molly Gewin and song leaders Laura Bowles and Marie Stell.

The Home Economics Club is made up of girls whose major is Home Ec. Faculty sponsor is Miss Robbie Lee Cox.

The Rinky Dinks came out on top for the "All-Sports" trophy by placing second in touch football, basketball, and volleyball, as well as being the pennant winners in softball. The Red Shirts, managed by Jack Tarver, came out second in the race for the overall championship.

A total of 42 teams participated in the men's intramural program this year with a total membership of over 400 students, according to R. L. Murdock, director of Northeast State's intramural program. In addition to this, tourneys were run off in tennis and badminton.

Student director of Inter-murals was Ralph "Red" Sims.

WRA Announces New President

Maxine Sykes, a freshman from Jonesboro, has been elected to head the Women's Recreation Association for the coming year. She was formerly the treasurer of the organization, which is made up of girls whose major is physical education.

Outgoing president of the WRA is Glenda Bennett, a senior from Winnsboro. Other officers for the organization are to be elected at the beginning of the fall semester, Glenda said.

Got Books? No Grades?

Students who have books checked out from the Northeast State library are reminded that all books must be checked in before final exams. The rule requiring a clearance slip from the library before taking a final does not apply this semester.

Dean Of Women Here Is Author Of Book

The Dean of Women at Northeast State, Margaret M. Newman, is the author of a new book, Bible Quizzes and Answers, recently published by Exposition Press, of New York. The volume contains more than five hundred questions pertaining to people, places, customs, and events mentioned in the Old Testament, and nearly three hundred in the New Testament.

Dean Newman's book may be called a do-it-yourself quiz book, because the answers are not given. Rather, in each case, a very interesting and engaging question is asked, and, in answer, the chapter and verse are given, showing where the answer may be found in the Bible itself.

The book asks such questions as What were, the first words ever spoken, How many songs did Solomon write, Why were women given long hair, When was Jesus' hour for rising, What should be done with a wizard, Who was the lefthanded judge?

Vets On Campus Plan Organization

At a recent meeting a group of veterans discussed the possibility of forming a Vet Club at Northeast next fall. Permission was obtained from Mr. Tatum, Supervisor of Student Activities, to proceed with plans. W. C. Buchanan, Assistant Professor of Geography, was contacted concerning serving as faculty advisor. He assured the group that he would assist in any way he could.

According to Mickey Prestridge, spokesman for the group, all veterans are urged to give thought to the possible formation of the Vet Club through the summer months, and are invited to be prepared to offer suggestions for the drafting of a constitution in the fall.

A meeting for the purpose of electing a temporary chairman and appointing a constitution committee is planned for the beginning of the fall semester. "Any support in this endeavor will be greatly appreciated," Prestridge said.

Additional information can be obtained by contacting Pat Patterson, Kelly Nix, or Mickey Prestridge.

Men's Dormitory Award Announced

Dr. Ernest Duncan Holloway, dean of men at Northeast State, has announced that the annual award for the most outstanding dormitory citizen this year has been presented to Norman Carlington, a sophomore in Health and Physical Education.

The award is presented annually to the resident of the men's dormitories who displays the most initiative for orderliness in his room, personal appearance, cleanliness in his dormitory, and friendliness with the other residents.

Norman was chosen as the finalist from an elected group of five contestants recommended for the award.

LTA Officers Installed During Annual Banquet

Thirty-nine members and guests were present at the recent annual banquet of the Louisiana Teachers Association, held in a local restaurant. New officers were installed at the meeting, and they include:

Evelyn Senn, president; Sue Stanley, vice-president; Dianne Osborn, secretary; and Barbara Elliott, treasurer.

The annual student LTA award was presented to the most outstanding member, Jeanette McMurry.

Former Students In Return Visit Here

Three former Northeast State students were recent visitors of Mrs. Lucille McLeod, accountant of the college Auditor's office. The visitors included the former Carol Bagwell, now Mrs. Milton, who was very active in college and who is now Dean of Women at a Tennessee college; Dell Bosth, presently doing her internship as part of her career in medicine; and Rita Barnes, now Mrs. Bill Moore, who lives in New Orleans.

THINKLISH

English: LOWEST MAN IN THE COMMENCEMENT CLASS

Thinklish translation: The only courses this bird absorbed were the ones served in dining hall. The only examinations he passed were the ones his dentist gave him twice a year. After five years of work (at a two-year college), he finally got his diploma. Obviously, the word for this fellow is graduate! Of course, being a Lucky fan marks him as a man of high degree... with extra credits for good taste. Get the honest taste of fine tobacco yourself.
