Commissioning Ceremonies Honor 33 Graduates

ROTC commissions were awarded to 33 cadets who had completed the requirements of the ROTC program and were to graduate from Northeast in spring commencement exercises.

A former professor of military science, Derwood Cann of Monroe, addressed the cadets on the topic, "It is our duty to pay our debts." during the ceremonies May 29, in the College Union Building. Cann said the cadets have accumulated an indebtedness to the educational system, to the country and "to those heroes of this land who have toiled, suffered and bled to maintain these United States."

Referring to the heritage of education, Cann commented, "There are those who refuse to acknowledge such an obligation. Instead, they seek to bite the intellectual hand that fed them. They disregard the guidance of wiser, older generations, who tried to set a firm foundation...

"They refuse to take their rightful place in society as educated men, who by their individual efforts strive to build, expand and improve the institution of learning. Building and improvement cannot be done with mobs, led by short-sighted pseudo-intellectuals."

Copies of the 1970 Chacahoula, the Northeast yearbook, are still being distributed upstairs in the old section of the CUB, room 4.

Students who attended both the fall and spring semesters can obtain a copy upon presentation of their ID cards. Students who attended only one semester must pay $2.75 for a copy.

Veterans enrolled for the summer session who have not checked with the Office of Financial Aid and Placement should do so immediately, according to James F. Hawkins, director.

Certification for veterans' benefits for fall and spring semesters does not automatically extend these benefits through the summer session.

O'Brian Chairs Summer SGA

The first regular summer meeting of the Northeast Student Government Association was held Tuesday at 6 p.m. in the SGA office and was chaired by Miss Shan O'Brien.

A bill proposed by Dan McKay, senior class president, allocating a maximum of $300 from the senate budget to allow the cheerleaders to attend the baseball post season playoffs in Phoenix, Ariz., was passed.

An informal discussion lead to a general agreement that a Free University speaker be obtained for the summer session. Don Hoyt, department of public affairs and Dan McKay will direct the acquisition, with time, speaker and location to be announced at the next meeting.

The regular meetings of the SGA will be held Tuesdays at 6 p.m. in the College Union Building Auditorium.

LITTLE MAN ON CAMPUS

"I SAID. I'VE SOME BAD NEWS, PHILIPSON — YOU'VE BEEN REASSIGNED TO HAZARDOUS DUTY WITH A STATE-SIDE COLLEGE RECRUITMENT DETAIL."

Dear Editor:

I am taking this means of reminding students that, among several pending matters affecting students that will be decided soon, is a bill in the Louisiana Legislature to lower the voting age to 18. The bill as you know has already needed the Senate has already passed the Senateby a wide margin— and is now before the House, where it is also expected to pass.

Students should realize that such suffrage for persons be-tween the ages of 18 and 21 can mean more to us than any other such innovation in recent his-tory. With the granting of voting rights to persons in the 18 to 21 age group, students will be able to participate in the political system which affects them even more than they know.

But, even after the bill passes the Louisiana House (if, indeed, it does), the highest obstacle in putting this measure into effect will remain ahead—that being the ratification of this constitutional amendment by the voters of Louisiana. Students here may remember that just recently the people of Oregon rejected a sim-ilar move to lower the voting age, and the reason was largely attributed to major student violence within the country.

Students of Louisiana must unite now more than ever before in order to insure passage of this very important legislation. Write you area representatives, this one if any, and talk to your parents and other registered voters. The 18-year-old vote can mean a major improvement in the position of students in our political system.

cerning women's dormitory hours has recently been undertaken at Angelo State University, San Angelo, Tex.

The proposed system would establish self-regulatory hours residents of campus women's dormitories. To be eligible for participation, the resident must have successfully completed at least 30 semester hours, must have parental permission if not 21 years of age, must not be on disciplinary probation and must have a weekend permission form completed by her parents. The hall would be locked each night at a specified time, but a "Night hostess" would be employed to allow women with self-regulatory privileges to enter the hall after closing.

In expressing views on the system, the residents most frequently voiced the feeling that they were old enough to determine their own hours, but that freshmen coeds should not be included in the program and the under-21 parental permission clause should be included.

Many of the women pointed out that they had no curfew at home and should not be required to keep one at school.

The coeds who rejected the self-regulatory program ex-plained that those students returning might disturb others and there might be a tendency to let grades fall off from staying out too late. It was pointed out, however, that disturbances occurred when great numbers came into the hall at closing curfew each night. As for the grades falling off, the selfregulatory hours would separate

By Stephen Gilchrist those at school to study from those who are there to play.

In discussing the proposal, Dr. William O'Zee, dean of students, stated that the group had done an outstanding job of research to justify their requests democratic.

The proposal was, however, sent back to its writers for further study with a suggestion that a modification of the present curfew and signing procedure be looked into as a possible plan of

Drs. Powers, Smith Co-author Paper On Teacher Evaluation

Dr. Glenn F. Powers, vice president for academic affairs and professor of Physics, and Dr. Ronald E. Smith, associate professor of physics at Northeast co-authored a paper to be pre-sented by Smith at the meeting of the American Association of Physics Teachers, June 18-20, at the University of Wyoming, Laramie, Wyo.

The title of the article is, "A Comparison Setween Teacher Evaluation and Theory of Electrical Measurements.'

"We discuss the important physics concept that in order to make a valid measurement, you must not disturb that which is being measured," said Powers. "Electrical measuring devices are so designed that if a measurement of current, for example, is required, the introduction of the ammeter into the circuit should not change the circuit characteristics significantly. Whenever the subject of teacher evaluation arises, there is always considerable argument in favor of having a dean, department head, colleague, or professional visitor of some kind enter the classroom and evaluate the teacher. In our opinion, such a method is invalid because it does not give a correct picture of the everyday state of the cassroom. The performance may be better or worse but it is unlikely to be unchanged."

Co-author Smith is president of the recently formed Louisiana

Northeast Baseball Team In Phoenix Trying For National Championship

Northeast's Gulf States Conference champion baseball team is in Phoenix, Ariz., this week trying to win its first national championship.

Northeast won the Area II championship last week in a 17 inning marathon with Sam Houston State. After loosing the opening game to Sam Houston, 2-1, the Tribe made a comeback by edging Northern Arizona, 4-3, in 13 innings. Tom Brown was the winning pitcher in relief of Van Pardue. Friday, Kenny Roussel pitched to eliminate Dallas Baptist, 6-5, and then Pardue allowed only one run for Sam Houston, 5-1, setting up the 17 inning contest.

Tom Brown pitched a brilliant game in the 105-degree heat, striking out 14 and walking only one. Third baseman Barry Amedee drilled a double off the center field wall to drive home Charles Prestidge with the winning run. Prestidge was pinch running for center fielder, Larry "Eugene" Turner, who has been playing with a pulled muscle.

Sam Houston's all-American pitcher, Hugh Hamilton, who took the defeat, was a former roommate of Brown two years ago when both played with Galesburg of the Central Illinois Collegiate Summer League. Hamilton also pitched the entire 17 innings.

Northeast won its record setting thrid straight GSC and NAIA district titles this year before going on to the area meet. Previously the Indians had been eliminated in area play, losing in the finals of the Southeast Area meet in 1968 to Georgia Southern and dropping two straight in the Southwest Area tourney in Phoenix last Northeast has never won a national championship in any sport, with second places in the NAIA Gymnastics Meet in 1967 and 1968 being the school's highest finishes previously.

Teams appearing in the tournament along with Northeast are Pembroke State, N.C.; New Haven of Connecticut, Livingston State, Ala.; Emporia

State, Kan.; Eastern Michigan; William Jewell; Missouri and Central Washington.

Northeast will meet Pembroke State at 8 p.m. Monday in the opening round of the 14th annual NAIA national championships.

Deadlines Set For Graduates Test Application

Deadlines for graduates and prospective graduates to file applications to take tests administered during June and July at Northeast have been set according to the examination.

Application forms may be obtained from the Office of Testing and Guidance or from Educational Testing Service, Princeton, N. J., 08540.

Persons interested in taking any of the tests should first check with the graduate school or school system to which they are applying to determine which tests are required. Applications for the tests should be received by Educational Testing Service no later than the application deadlines.

The Admission Test for Graduate Study in Business will be given June 27 to students who must have filed test applications by today.

The Graduate Record Examinations will be given July 11 to students who have filed test applications by June 16.

The Graduate School Foreign Language Test will be given July 18 to students who have filed test applications by June 24.

The National Teacher Examinations will be given July 18 to students who have filed test applications by June 25.

Will Be Presented To Optic Convention

Dr. August G. Danti, head of the Department of Allied Health Sciences at Northeast, will speak Sunday at the mid-year convention of the Louisiana State Association of Optometrists at Hodges Gardens near Many.

Danti's talk on "Drugs-Action, Reaction, Interaction" will be the first item on the Sunday program.

The convention, slated to begin today, will also include talks by a New Orleans attorney, a Shreveport pediatrician and several doctors of optometry.

Danti recently returned from the biennial meeting of the National Professional Interfraternity Conference at Williamsburg, Va.

Danti attended as national president of Kappa Psi pharmaceutical fraternity.

Participants in the conference discussed contemporary campus conditions, fraternity-sponsored insurance programs, and other matters of current interest to professional fraternity members.

Payne Approved For Internship In Psychology

Ralph Payne Jr., graduate student in psychology at Northeast began a 3-month Master's Clinical-Psychometric internship June 1 at Arkansas State Hospital in Little Rock, Ark., according to Dr. O. N. Walley, head of the Department of Psychology.

Payne is the first student from the graduate program in psychology at Northeast to be approved for such study.

In addition to training in psychological assessment procedures and psychotherapeutic methods, Payne will attend a series of seminars conducted by the staff of Arkansas State Hospital for psychiatric residents.

This program of studies for the Northeast student will be under the coordinated supervision of Dr. Daniel V. Taub, psychologist administrator, and mental health authority with Arkansas State Hospital and Dr. James D. Thrasher, professor of psychology at Northeast.

Payne is a 1968 graduate of State College of Arkansas. After receiving a Bachelor of Science degree in psychology, he began his graduate work in January 1969.

Pharmaceutical Association Elects Officers, Directors

Officers for the 1970-71 Fifth District Pharmaceutical Association, Inc., were elected at a recent meeting held in Monroe with John A. Sampognaro receiving the position of president.

Mrs. Nancy Mulhearn will serve as vice president and Dr. Edward A. Brecht, a Northeast professor of pharmaceutics and pharmacy, will serve the organization as secretary-treasurer for a second term. All three officers are Monroe residents.

Association directors elected at the same meeting are Dr. Ben F. Cooper, dean of the School of Pharmacy and Allied Health Professions at Northeast; Paul H. Hammond, Gilbert; Neal McEacharn, Delhi; Truman Potts, Ruston; and W. L. Yancey, Rayville. Outgoing president, Robert S. Crouch Jr. of Oak Grove, will be a director representing the Louisiana State Pharmaceutical Association.

Plans for the current year include presenting an invitation to the state organization to hold its annual convention in Monroe next summer so that the convention will coincide with the completion of the new pharmacy building under construction.

A grant of $12,322 has been awarded to the Northeast School of Pharmacy and Allied Health Professions under the Allied Health Professions Basic Improvement Program of the National Institutes of Health.

This grant has been designated for use during the 1970 fiscal year, according to Dr. Ben F. Cooper, dean of the school, for new equipment, alteration and renovations in facilities and other current needs in the area of medical technology.

Program director for the medical technology project is Dr. August G. Danti, head of the Allied Health Sciences Department.
