Dallas Goss should be complimented for his taste in selecting "Barbarossa of Barbary" as the major production of the music department. This musical comedy has that certain something which critics label "everything." The music lover will find the numbers in this show above par and those who are interested in comedy will enjoy the role of "Jim." This part is played by Sam Dunlap and Tommy Downs, which indicates that the audience will be pleased.

One of the Pow Wow's best critics outside the school is Winnie Maroney, who is employed at the News-Star. Winnie is a young little lass who knows plenty about newspapers, and she also has an idea as to what college students like and dislike. She is the only person who gets a chance to see "Minnie-Ha-Ha" and this column before the paper goes to press.

Paul Oxley, one of the despicable Chacahoula stooges, gets an orchid from Red Carter, which is quite a compliment. Paul is an excellent amateur photographer, and he'll probably get to the top if he chooses this for his vocation. However, Paul's work with colors (tinting) is the best this column has seen for some time. Although he is a rather modest boy, Paul might be induced to show you his enlarged tinted picture of Frenchie Edwards, and, if you see this masterpiece, you will echo my sentiments.

Although J. W. Chase was not a student of our school, he had many friends at Northeast Center and his departure from this terrestrial sphere was deeply felt by all who knew and loved him. To his family we would like to use this column as a medium to express our sympathy in their loss.

A philosopher once said "Hobbies spawn vocations." The old bird hit the nail on the head, because Emmett Chisum, one of our best contributors, is slowly climbing the ladder of fame as the result of an intriguing hobby. As you all know, Chisum has a passion for excavating fossils, and his desire to disinter and exhume has netted him a reward. Emmett is now doing research work at the university of Arkansas, and his prospects for the future look rosy. "Congrats, "Fossils."

The Sentinel doesn't like to repeat, but last year I called the attention of my readers to the fact that Maud S. Gill and Jo Combs are eyeball anomalies. Both of the young co-eds have a half and half eye. One of Jo's eyes is half brown and half gray with the segregation in a horizontal semicircle, whereas Maud's peculiar iris is divided vertically.

Rex doesn't know whether it's authentic or not, but someone told him that Mabel Claire Richardson blushed in the picture show when the hero kissed the heroine. Although this is not a scandal column, your informer would like to say that the little gal has a boy friend in France, and quite a few in Monroe. Her

WORK ON MUSICAL COMEDY RENEWED; REHEARSALS HELD

EXPERIMENTS WITH DUAL CAST BEING MADE TO INSURE SUCCESS

Students of Northeast Center eagerly anticipate "Barbarossa of Barbary," which will be presented early in April by the department of music.

A fine cast has been selected and several rehearsals have been held. Two casts of principals have been selected, as the music department contemplates the presentation of two separate performances.

John Winkler and Garland Shell will sing the title role. The part of Althea, Barbarossa's daughter and heroine of the musical comedy, will be played by Johnette Register and Eleanor Bennett, sopranos. The role of the historically famous Stephen Decatur is being studied and practiced by Chester DeCuir, young tenor. Kate Penuell and Jo Combs have been selected to sing the part of Isabella, the slave girl. Ferdinand, who loves Isabella, will be portrayed by Billy Regan and Earl Heckler.

Sam Dunlap and Tow Downs are playing the comic role of Jim, the Negro. Dunlap and Downs have reputations at Northeast Center as being masters of the Negro dialect. Dunlap has participated in several minstrel shows, whereas Downs has concentrated his ability upon singing in dialect.

The part of Tingad will be played by Fred Coon and Frank Smith. Elton Brazzel, outstanding basso profundo, will sing the part of Mulai Ahmed, an Algerian official.

Beautiful choral numbers feature this musical comedy. The chorus is composed of Lettie Austin, Maureen Cobb, Neater Decantrel, Mary Esther Brown, Anna Frances Gerald, Tiny Harris, Dorothy Hudnall, Octave Register, Layton Wilks, Billie Caskey, John Semago, Chester Bolin, Alfred Causey, Jack Baldwin, Jack Hackley.

Rehearsals are held every Monday night for the entire cast. On Monday at activity period, the principal players practice their parts, and on Wednesdays at activity period, the chorus holds its rehearsals. The musical comedy is being directed by Dallas Goss, director of the Men's Glee club.

NORTHEAST CENTER'S PHI THETA KAPPA

Gamma Gamma Chapter of Phi Theta Kappa, national junior college scholastic fraternity, is making definite plans to attend the national convention in a body. The convention is to be in Little Rock, Arkansas, on April 7-9, and a host of delegates from every section of the country is expected to attend. Dr. W. M. Caskey, faculty sponsor for the local chapter, says that although the usual custom is for each chapter to send one or two representatives, he hopes to take the entire Gamma Gamma chapter, which will probably number about forty members by convention time.

When Little Rock was selected for the 1937 Phi Theta Kappa convention city, members of Alpha Alpha chapter promised that there would be a wonderful time awaiting each member making the trip to the "City of Roses." And according to reports received here by Dawson Kennedy, national treasurer of the fraternity, the Little Rock chapter is planning to more than fulfill its promise. Letters are now being circulated to every chapter in the nation inviting them to the convention, and announcing the tentative program. The events now scheduled are business meetings, a reception, a tea, a picnic, a sight-seeing tour of the "City of Roses," a banquet, a dance, and a model initiation. Alpha Alpha chapter is making extensive plans for the accommodation and entertainment of visiting delegates.

When the Phi Theta Kappa candidates who became eligible for membership at mid-term are initiated, Gamma Gamma chapter will have a membership of forty or more. This is a good record for a school the size of Northeast Center and exceeds the records of many larger junior colleges. Dr. Caskey hopes to have the largest chapter representation of all those sending delegates. Dr. Caskey states that he hopes to be able to charter a city bus for the trip to Little Rock. The barn dance sponsored by Phi Theta Kappa members last Friday night was the first big financial step toward making the trip possible. Gamma Gamma chapter has caught the convention spirit, and the slogan now is "On To Arkansas."

ISSUE DEDICATED TO ADVERTISERS

The annual custom of the Pow Wow is to dedicate one issue each year to the advertisers who help make the paper possible. As you students well know without them there could be no papers. This year we have been even more staunchly supported by the various advertisers than ever before. We especially wish to thank Mr. Joseph Airoldi of the Airoldi Shoe Shop who has inserted an ad in each issue since the beginning of the Pow Wow. Other business men in Monroe to whom we owe much because of their loyal and continued support are Mr. Mike John, Jr., of the Mike John Department Store; Mr. Leslie Kiper of E. R. Kiper Hardware and Supply Company; Mr. Joe Gordon of the Paramount Theatre; Mr. Benny Bicknell of the Capitol Theatre; Mr. Bernard Levi of Ferd Levi's; Mrs. Benton Holt of the College Cafeteria; and those people who are responsible for the advertisements from the Ouachita Coca-Cola Bottling Co., The Monroe Morning World and News-Star, Rialto and Strand Theatres, and the College Book Store. Among our new local advertisers we welcome the North Side Pharmacy owned by Mr. Mitchell Denoux, and Bella Scherck Davidson at The Woman's Shop. Likewise we are indebted to our national advertisers, the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company, the American Tobacco Company and the Illinois Central Railroad.

Emmett Chisum Studying Archaeology In Arkansas

Emmett Chisum, popular young Northeast Center student has recently left to attend the University of Arkansas where he will head the field workers division of the archaeology department. He will work under the guidance of Dr. S. C. Dillinger, while taking studies which lead to a B. S. degree. Much of his work will be in the classification of potsherds found in Arkansas although he will also devote time to studying different types of Indian mound burials.

Previous to attending Northeast Center Chisum did work in the Middle Department of Research at Tulane University. For the last few years he has also done a great deal of archaeological research in this section of Louisiana. Mr. Chisum has had a number of his reports on his findings published and recently one of his papers received second place in a contest sponsored by the Louisiana Academy of Science of which he is a member. These awards were made to the best papers on scientific subjects submitted to the Academy. Chisum competed with some of the leading scientists of America at this time.

Results of Mr. Chisum's work may be found in many famous museums of this country. In the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D. C., he has archaeological material from a site in North Catahoula parish where M. Pierre defeated the Natchez Indians in 1732. He has cranial material in the Department of Anthropology of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City. Some of his findings may also be found in the Louisiana State Museum in Baton Rouge. Besides this work he has prepared maps of all the Indian tribes in Louisiana. He has contributed much material to Dr. J. T. Patterson of the University of Texas who is preparing maps of Louisiana archaeology.

Chisum has carried on a systematic classification of pottery throughout the prehistoric area in Louisiana. Through his work he hopes to accurately index early American culture.

For two years Mr. Chisum served as a feature writer and science editor of the Pow Wow. He took an active part in the formation of the Debating Club. Besides holding an important position in the P. C. B. Club, he also belonged to the Pre-Med Club.

FAMOUS ACTORS TO PRESENT 'MACBETH' HERE FEBRUARY 24

JAMES HENDRICKSON AND CLAIRE BRUCE ON TENTH ANNUAL TOUR

James Hendrickson and Claire Bruce, nationally famous actors, will present their interpretation of "Macbeth" in the college theater Wednesday, February 24, at eight p. m. The production is being sponsored by the Northeast Center Speech Club.

Mr. Hendrickson and Miss Bruce have established themselves as two of the leading exponents of the classic drama on the American stage. They are now on their Tenth Annual Tour, presenting handsomely staged productions of the Shakespearean plays. Previous seasons' tours have carried them from coast to coast and from Canada to the Mexican border. They have appeared with conspicuous success in some of the principal educational institutions of the country, most notable, perhaps, of such appearances being a performance, by invitation, at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

The ten actors comprising the company, have been chosen with the utmost care for their suitability, training, and experience in Shakespearean interpretation. All members of the company must first serve an apprenticeship in the theatre before they are eligible to the organization. The personnel remains the same, for the most part, from year to year; this undoubtedly is a large contributing factor to the company's reputation for smooth-running individual and group performances.

Mr. Hendrickson and Miss Bruce themselves have had sound apprenticeships, both having appeared on the Broadway stage in modern plays and also in the Shakespearean repertory companies of Robert B. Mantell and Fritz Leiber. Notwithstanding that they are well-grounded in the traditional methods of Shakespearean interpretation, their aim is rather to imbue the

A letter was received by Dr. W. M. Caskey, secretary of the Northeast Louisiana Basketball Tournament, from E. R. The letter, praising the faculty and student body of Northeast Center, reads as follows: "Northeast Center Invitation Tournament Committee, Northeast Center of L. S. U. Monroe, La. Gentlemen:

"Castor High school basketball teams desire to express their immense satisfaction in the way that you so excellently conducted your first invitation tournament, and urge you to have a tournament each year.

"Not only was the Northeast Tournament one of the largest ever staged in North Louisiana, but the splendid spirit of co-operation on the part of Northeast Center faculty and student body made itself felt to all who visited your campus during the tourna-

THE FLOOD SITUATION AT A GLANCE

A few nights ago one of the most popular of the many radio news commentators made a voluble and very caustic survey of the flood situation in the Mississippi valleys. Up and down the country he ran the government engineers for their failure to complete precautionary measures and protective projects before the flood struck in all its fury and ran hundreds of thousands from their homes. Harsh were his words in condemnation of expenditure of government funds for experiments. This money he lamented should be spent for actual prevention work or at least not tossed to the winds so recklessly.

The ignorance of such statements is appalling. It would seem that one so widely heard and respected as an authority on national problems would keep himself better informed. Otherwise this seems to be a cheap attempt at public recognition through unwarranted destructive criticism.

Placing under control a river which runs practically the entire length of the country, having hundreds of tributaries and draining the greatest amount of territory of any river in the world is not a job which could possibly be done in a year or perhaps in a decade. As a matter of fact, the aforementioned commentator will probably not live to see it done. Already many plans have been worked out and abandoned as impractical. And, in this, much data has been gathered which has naturally been useless. But this has not been wasteful. It has been necessary in order to hit upon a plan which would be the best to handle the situation.

The present plan which the government engineers have worked out and which is now only in the first steps of completion has already proved to be the answer to the situation. It is, first: To remove all the wide sweeping and hairpin curves from the river bed. Thus the water is caused to move off faster. In this manner the flood stages all along the rivers have already been lowered from one to three feet. Second: At strategic points along the river emergency floodways are being constructed. These floodways are low stretches of land around which levees have been built in such a manner as to drain surplus water. These floodways are not opened, however, until pressure has become so great on the main line levees that they are endangered.

Needless to say, these plans are far from complete. Many more months of experimenting will have to be done to determine which protective measures will fit best in certain places. Naturally, mistakes will be made. But all in all, the government engineers have done and are doing a marvelous job of controlling the rivers and making for the prevention of floods. And in a few years or a generation such things as thousands being made homeless and millions of dollars of property damage being done by flood waters should be a thing to be told of around the fireside and read in history books.

PLEASE DON'T ERASE

It's a funny thing about blackboards. People seem to think that just as soon as material is written upon a blackboard that just that soon it can be erased. "Please do not erase" signs have little effect upon some people. They totally disregard them, erase the lecture material, and exhibit their artistic talents where they can be viewed by the next class. Of course the writer realizes that funny paper caricatures are pleasing to look at after one has diligently copied for thirty minutes on one subject. However the aftermath comes when test day arrives with questions which he has never seen. The professor doesn't give a student credit for unanswered questions even though they were erased off the board. This problem can only be solved by the students themselves. So stop the first person whom you see committing this scholastic crime.

PHI THETA KAPPA HAVE BARN DANCE

The barn dance sponsored by the Phi Theta Kappa society Friday night, February 5th, was the novel dance of the year. The gym was decorated to give the impression of an old barn. Several bales of hay were placed around the walls of the gym. A scarecrow hanging at one end of the hall and two old fashioned lanterns added the finishing touches.

Many of the students of Northeast Center felt the call back to the farm and came dressed in unique costumes.

Scherck Bogen, who came dressed as a dude, created excitement with checked trousers, striped shirt, stiff collar, bow tie, frock tail coat and derby. The lovely little lass, dressed as a Puritan maid in blue and white was Mary Esther Brown. Homer Adler was dressed in pink striped pajamas with a derby to add a finishing touch. Sam "Grandpappy" Dunlap was the typical old farmer with a goatee and minus a few teeth. Maude S. Gill wore blue and white checked overalls with a red blouse and hair ribbon, Willie Ethel Caskey represented a model old fashioned girl with her simple long dress of light blue print. Kathleen Cox wore a red and white checked dress under a red organdy apron.

Mr. Kitt Touchstone, Mr. Bid Causey, and Mr. Tommy Downs motored to Jackson, Miss., last Tuesday to attend the Kay Kayser dance.

Opal Davis spent the week-end in Vicksburg, Miss.

We are glad to have Ruth Hugen back at school after a week's illness.

Dr. Caskey, Mr. Brown, Bob Kellogg, and Buddy Funderburk motored to Mangham last Saturday to attend the Boys' Basketball tournament.

WINDS

Wind, peaceful and calm breathing of love songs sung in tropical worlds comes blowing up from the Southland with its drowsy wings unfurled. Beaten off the heaving breast of the ocean, bringing life to a sleeping land, blowing to the sky as a ceiling, waking all nature with a touch, soft like
A maiden's hand.

But from the North came the angry blasts, spite in their demeanor, whistling shrill and wild full of hurt and hate like a wild bird aloft in the sky flying back to his winter's home after he's lost his mate. Winds chilled from frozen streams and lakes which are hard, dead bodies of ice come whipping down the seashore whipping the waves into submission.

But the Northwind meets the Southwind somewhere in an iceland cove, then the waves cease to pound the seashore. They beat rhythmically and slower. Out of the cove blows the Northwind with the Southwind at his side. Out they go together over the ocean wide, blending their souging tones with the tossing tide.

TWO BOXING MATCHES SLATED NEXT WEEK

TECH AND AGGIES WILL FIGHT HERE AGAINST INDIANS

The Indian mittmen are going to have their hands full next Monday and Friday nights, when they meet the Louisiana Tech Bulldogs and Oklahoma A. & M.'s stellar aggregations.

The Indian team has so far this season broken even in their matches, losing one to the Centenary Gents, winning a return engagement with the same squad, and breaking even with the strong Banxite, Arkansas team there last Friday night.

The Redskins have been working very hard because Coach Malone anticipates the two teams his boxers will meet next week to be the best they have encountered so far.

James Williams, stalwart Indian 165 pounder from Choudrant, returned last Monday to work outs, having been laid up with influenza for a couple of weeks. Williams has fully recuperated and his return puts the tribesmen at their best for the matches.

Coach Malone now has a well-balanced, experienced team that is one of the strongest in this circuit. Malone thinks that the Indians scrappers will more than hold their own with next week's invaders.

At 118 pounds, Bumps Gormley, a Lake Charles lad, always puts up a fast, clean scrap and should take his man.

In the 135 pound division Snyder Parham is a very clever fighter who has a terrific left jab as well as a good right. He can be counted on to put up a real scrap.

Monroe McNaughton, 145 pounder, is the buzz-saw of the team. McNaughton comes out "fists flying" and frequently puts his opponents away before things get started. He is from Rayville and came to Northeast Center with a long string of conquests in amateur contests.

In the heavyweight class will be Ernest "Pop" Freeman, who fought his best fight of the season last week at Bauxite. He fought a very good boxer, and many who saw the fights said he should have gotten the decision.

Both of the meets next week, will, as usual, be held at the Neville High auditorium. Northeast Center students will be admitted free.

Freshmen at the University of Michigan have been granted the permission to live in fraternity houses during the second semester.

Knox College will celebrate its hundredth anniversary during the Founders' Day program to be held on the 14th and 15th of February.

Viewing the situation at this early time of the year, it looks as if Malone will have another national champion football team.

Putting the material he developed last season together with the strong husky bunch of newcomers and barring unforeseen difficulties, it becomes quite obvious that supporters of Indian grid teams will not be disappointed.

During the last season when almost a full half dozen "pig-skin paraders" received various injuries of one sort or another and defeat seemed almost inevitable in the remaining contests, Mr. Malone remarked, "I really don't see how one coach can have so much hard luck."

However, we are positive that the passing clouds have gone and that Indian opponents will have to get up pretty early next fall to get ahead of the Malone men.

After seeing the mighty Jack

Torrance (our boy, Jack) put his lighter but more experienced opponent among the daisies in the opening minute of the second round. Unhesitatingly, I join the ranks with the rest of the scribes and say that you who missed seeing the array missed seeing the next world's champion working at his best . . . When Jack was throwing a little round ball (the shotput) around for the Tigers he looked like a tub of lard, weighing sometimes (after lunch) as much as 330 plus. Well, things are different now for him. The Oak Grove giant under excellent managing and training rules entered the ring last Monday at 255, a great fighting weight. Well, anyway, to you who didn't see him in Monroe, when Baby Jack wears the crown that Jim Braddock possesses (how long?) I'm going to say, "I told you so!"

"My voice is my career. It has inspired more than five million people to confide in me their personal problems. During 25 years, first on the lecture platform and then on the air, I have never missed a single engagement because of my throat. I am a steady smoker, and because my throat and voice are vital to my career I insist upon a light smoke. Northeast Center boys managed to stay clear of "Short St. John," "Boss" Hill's territory.

We hear Mr. Frisbie is going to take tap dancing after mid-term. He heard someone say he walked with such rythm.

Mr. Hammond is terribly lucky. Every time we see him matching in the cafeteria, he wins!

Mary Esther has acquired quite a string this year. String them along, Mary!

Dot Lively asked Mrs. Holt what she was feeding all the boys last week to make them fall out with their girls.

The students of Northeast Center might be interested to know that there is a tree-sitting contest going on. So far Virginia Faulk is the champion, with Margie Farmer running a close second.

What two punch-drunks go bicycling just when the fight begins with the boys from West Monroe?

Ralph Kiper seems to be the only boy on the campus who could hang the telephone receiver up on a girl and get by with it. Kiper, you really should have given her time to explain.

We guess they've gone again. Saw Dot in the library trying to find a book to read and Marion in the cafeteria singing "Daddy, won't you please come home?"

It looks like our own little Alice Mary has really gone over board for a certain football player from O. P. H. S.

COMING EVENTS!!! Skull vs. Bogen. Ten rounds to a decision over the heart of the professor's daughter.

Mildred seemed to be having a hard time answering a certain letter in the cafeteria the other day. Gal, were you afraid Scott would see it?

And didn't Olive look thrilled sitting by her "tall, dark and handsome" at the Centenary
