By REX CARTER

Now that the British crisis is a thing of the past out of which came forth a new King of England and Emperor of India, your columnist, whose words carry no weight outside of Ouachita parish, believes that the erstwhile Edward has been underrated by the world in general and the Empire in particular. Of all the things that have been said in his behalf, and of all the condemnations and epithets that have been hurled against him, the most mature and thought-stimulating were these words, made by an American commentator: "Here is a king who is thinking of love instead of war." Powerful words, and Edward, himself, issued the saddest words of the affair in his valedictory to his people, culminating his address with a lugubrious, reminiscent and heart-rending "God Save the King."

New Year's day is just around the corner, and calendars will emanate from all directions. While we are on the subject of calendars, Rex would like to say that he thinks that the so-called "Northeast Center calendar," promulgated and concocted by Miss Ingledue, is merely a speech club chronology. Why doesn't she name it "Coming Speech Club Events"?

Another thing, too. A large majority of our students ride the buses, and in this act, are helping to maintain the bus lines. Most of these students have been complaining about having to walk in to the school from DeSiard street. Hard feeling is harbored toward the bus drivers for not making the turn into the drive. It's not the bus drivers' faults, students. They have received their orders the higher-ups, and these "big shots" forget that these inconvenienced students will be old enough to vote in the next city election. And if, by any chance, the macrocephalics in question happen to read this paragraph, I the editor, wish to assume full responsibility for what you have just read.

Ruth Morris tells an amusing story. According to Dr. Caldwell's amanuensis the Morris family are fond of dogs and cats. Well, old man Morris happened to pick up a tiny, flea hotel, and brought the puppy home. Ruth's little brother, after examining the canine, gave his opinion that the newest addition was the biggest joke of the year. Therefore, they appropriately named the newcomer "Rose Bowl."

PRE-MEDIC CLUB IS ORGANIZED

The Pre-Medical Club of Northeast Center was organized Tuesday at activity period. Miss Terry Pullig, instructor in zoology and sponsor of the club, announced that the programs presented this year will consist of lectures, by prominent doctors of Monroe, and reports by the members of the club on current articles of scientific value to the medical profession.

The following officers were elected: president, Charles Bickham; vice president, Max Fink; secretary and treasurer, Earl Rogers; reporter, William Tanner.

The club in the past has stimulated a keen interest for students at Northeast Center preparing for the practice of medicine.

VESPER SERVICE AT GRACE CHURCH

The student musicians of Monroe, Louisiana, will present a Christmas Vesper Service at the Grace Episcopal church, Sunday, December 20, at five o'clock.

The services will consist of several selection by the ensemble, mixed quartet, the men's quartet, and the girls' double trio. John Winkler and Frank Mullen, Northeast Center baritones, will be the soloists.

Episcopal student musicians are urged to attend this service of carols.

STUNT PROGRAM IS POSTPONED

The annual stunt program, under temporary sponsorship of the men's glee club has been postponed until after the Christmas holidays. Various clubs requested that they have more time for preparation of their stunt. All clubs who wish to participate are again urged to select their stunt for an early date after the holidays.

"SORDID DESTINY" CAST TO BE TAKEN TO BIG CONVENTION

LOUIS GUERRIERO IN FINE EMOTIONAL ROLE AS "JOHN TURNER"

By Scherck Bogen
"Sordid Destiny," a play written by Miss Myrtle Killian as a part of the work in the drama class of the Northeast Center of L.S.U., will be presented in St. Louis, Mo., December 29th. Miss Grace Ingledue, head of the Speech department, who directed the play, has made arrangements with the president of the National Association of Teachers of Speech for the presentation of the play at the National convention.

Miss Killian has received much favorable comment on her achievement by several dramatic critics.

"Sordid Destiny" was included on the program of the Speech section of the Louisiana Teachers association at their convention in Monroe last month. The audience commended the play as a very outstanding piece of student work.

The play was given in the theatre of the Northeast Center last Wednesday. Those who saw it hailed it as the best production of the year.

All members of the cast portrayed their roles with an ease that displayed genuine understanding and appreciation of the characters. Louis Guerriero exhibited his usual skill in interpreting fine emotional values in the role of John Turner, as a man whose life was clouded with misfortune and who is thought by his own daughter to be dead. Mildred Johnson, as Mrs. Van Shover gave a very convincing picture of a woman whose chief interest is in money, but who suffers from a guilty conscience because of the unhappiness she has caused others. The action in the part requires a fine balance be-

Galaxy of Vocal Talent Goes Unheard at Center

The total absence of student recitals has been altogether too conspicuous this year. The freshmen of Northeast Center do not realize that some of the best musicians in this section of the state are enrolled as pupils at this institution.

There is Garland Shell, for instance. This young baritone, who seems to have a brilliant future in the field of voice, has not been heard this semester. Give us Shell singing "Old Man River" or "Lonesome Road." And then there is Frank Mullen, another baritone, whose voice has been silent. Mullen excels in the interpretation of Irish ballads, such as "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling" or "My Wild Irish Rose," or Oley Speaks' immortal "Road to Mandalay." John Winkler, a third baritone, has been recognized as an excellent vocalist, successfully presenting such difficult numbers as "Prologue to Pagliacci" and "Le Marseilles."

DR. YOUNG SPEAKS TO STUDENT BODY ON IMMUNIZATION

DISCUSSES SANITY AND CHIEF CAUSES OF INSANITY

Dr. Paul Young, professor of psychology at Louisiana State university, lectured to the Northeast Center student body and faculty Wednesday on the subject of "Immunization Against Insanity."

Dr. Young, who is a brilliant speaker, evaded all oratorical formality, and made his talk in the aisles of the auditorium. Throughout his lecture, he held the attention of every student. At times he had the students laughing so heartily that it seemed as if the lecture would have to be discontinued. His wit, his personality, and his knowledge of mental hygiene were intricately woven together in what students acclaim "the most interesting lecture they have ever heard."

In his discussion, Dr. Young dwelled upon the subject of raising a child not to fear. He discouraged the future parents' ideas of "spoiling the child," and insisted that the offspring should shift for himself.

Dr. Young also touched upon dementia praecox, schizophrenia,

PROCEEDS OF MINSTREL GO TO GOODFELLOWS

Last Thursday night the Goodfellows Club sponsored a minstrel, the proceeds from which went into its Christmas fund. This minstrel which was directed by Mrs. Daly of Texas, contained many of the college students. Dot Lively, Louis Guerriero, Myrtle Killian, James Newburn, and Nita Martin were end men. Jo Combs, Eleanor Bennett, and Garland Shell rendered solos. The men's glee club offered three selections. Mr. Goss sang "Short'n Bread."

JACKETS SPONSOR CHRISTMAS TREE

A Christmas program will be held in the auditorium today under the sponsorship of the Purple Jacket club. Featured on the program will be a reading by Katherine Penuell, a solo by Garland Shell, and a brief talk by Dr. Stephen A. Caldwell. Names were drawn by a novel method during the past week. Slips of paper bearing names were inserted into capsules which could be purchased for five cents. The individual then bought a small gift for the person whose name he drew. These gifts will all be placed at the foot of the tree, and will be presented by Dr. W. M. Caskey.

Gifts received by the Purple Jackets will be donated to a needy family.

A French film, "Prenez Barde a la Peinture" (Be Careful of Fresh Paint), starring Simone Simon was presented Friday, January 11, in the Northeast Center auditorium. Members of the French clubs of Ouachita Parish and Neville High schools along with the French club of Northeast Center were present.

This film was the second of a series of four to be shown in Monroe under the auspices of the Northeast Center French club sponsored by Doctor Phillips. The next film, "Le Gendre de M. Poirier," will be shown January 15th.

HUSTED, HAYNES DANCE SPONSORS

Virginia Husted and Libby Haynes have been elected sponsors of the Phi Kappa Fraternity for the coming year. They were chosen Sunday afternoon by vote of the members of the fraternity.

Miss Husted and Miss Haynes will sponsor the Christmas dance, which will be given at the Francis hotel on the 29th. They will attend the Phi Kappa convention in Memphis, Tennessee, in June. At the summer dance they will again act as sponsors.

L.S.U. FAVORED TO WIN IN ANNUAL NEW YEARS DAY CLASSIC

FRATERNITY DANCES WILL BE FEATURED DURING SEASON

With the annual New Year's day Sugar Bowl football game the main topic of interest in Louisiana, Christmas holidays at Northeast Center have been extended to January 4, announced Dean Stephen A. Caldwell.

The Sugar Bowl will draw the largest crowd in its short history of existence. In its third year, the New Orleans event has already begun to threaten the supremacy of the Rose Bowl as the main attraction of New Year's day. With the powerful Santa Clara squad playing Louisiana State university's undefeated Tigers, the eyes of the sports world will be directed to the Sugar Bowl rather than the event on the west coast.

Gaynell Tinsley, the great all-American end, and Marvin "Moose" Stewart will be Louisiana State's outstanding attraction, whereas L.S.U.'s supporters are anxious to witness the playing of Nello Falaschi and Manuel Gomez, sensational Santa Clara backfield luminaries. Falaschi was mentioned on several all-American selections, and his brilliant playing was the outstanding feature in the game with Texas Christian university last Saturday.

Betting odds are on L.S.U., but inasmuch as this is a year of sports upsets, the scribes are predicting that the Broncos will defeat the Bayou Tigers.

PHI THETA KAPPA PLEDGES SEVEN

Seven new members were pledged at the meeting of the Gamma Gamma chapter of the Phi Theta Kappa held Wednesday, December 16. These pledges, all sophomores, made a term average of two points for the last semester. New members will be taken from this year's freshman class. Those pledged Wednesday were: Helen Adams, Harold Anderson, Mary Esther Brown, Josephine Combs, Myrtle Dieterich, and Lois Lucas.

The old members were very much elated over the arrival of their keys. The gold keys have black enamel bands with the Greek letter, Phi Theta Kappa in gold on them. The guards, also of gold, form the chapter letters, Gamma Gamma. Another shipment of keys is expected to arrive after Christmas.

SPONSORS ELECTED BY DELTA SIGS

Marjorie Farmer and Mary Ann Wilds were chosen as sponsors by the Delta Sigma Fraternity for the coming year. At the Christmas dance on December 28 they will be introduced. They will assume the duties of the former sponsors, Roberta Neel and Lorraine Matthews.

Miss Farmer and Miss Wilds will sponsor all events of the fraternity for the year. They will attend the National Convention at Rockford, Illinois, in June.

THE FOOTBALL BOWLS

King Edward VIII, now David Windsor, monopolized the front pages of our newspapers, but the football bowls expressed themselves promiscuously on the sports pages, and the sporting eyes of America have been pointed to the "flat spheroid" rather than the shores of England.

In extending the invitation to the University of Pittsburgh, the Washington Huskies may have sounded the death knell of the Rose Bowl. Here is the situation.

The Rose Bowl. More than eighty-five thousand football fanatics will witness the Washington-Pitt game, and ninety percent of these spectators will be viewing the game with a sour grape in their mouths. Washington and Pitt both have unenviable records. Neither has been impressive in the Rose Bowl. The event this coming January will not decide which is the best, but which is the worst team. Neither has won a game. A tie game would ring down the curtain on a "perfect" season in California. Pitt brings to Pasadena a determined eleven with the highly-touted Marshall Goldberg as its chief threat. Washington's ace-in-the-hole is the spectacular half-back, Byron Haines, who wanted L.S.U. as the Huskies' opponent.

The Sugar Bowl. In historic old New Orleans, the biggest feature of New Year's day will be the clash between L.S.U. and Santa Clara. Texas Christian thrust a thorn into the side of the Sugar Bowl when the Frogs marred Santa Clara's perfect record. However, Southern fans still believe that the best game will be played in the Sugar Bowl. The fate of the Rose Bowl rests upon the outcome of this game. If the Sugar Bowl is a successful venture, then it's "adois" to the boys on the west coast; for here is what might happen: the Southeastern conference may decide to send its champion to the Sugar Bowl each year, and if this comes to pass, it will mean that thirteen more major elevens will not consider the Rose Bowl. If the Southeast Conference champions play in the Sugar Bowl, the west coast champions would be forced to choose the second best team in the conference and this would seem unlikely. What does this indicate? It means that twenty-six major teams will not notice the Rose Bowl. The Big Ten and the Big Three do not play post-season games, and the Southeastern conference, consisting of thirteen teams, will favor the Sugar Bowl.

Cotton Bowl. The only threat that the Cotton Bowl offers is the scenery.

The Orange Bowl. This bowl is in its embryonic stage. With Duquesne, the conqueror of Pitt, representing the North, this event will also detract from the Rose Bowl. The climate of Florida is a challenge to California too.

The Yello-Bole. A pipe wherein sports writers may have a peaceful pipe dream after a hectic season of upsets.

CHRISTMAS SEALS FOR TUBERCULOSIS

In Delaware in 1907 Miss Emily P. Bissell began the sale of Christmas seals to raise funds for the care of children with tuberculosis in that state. She had established a little shack to care for these children, but money was badly needed to keep it going. The inspiration for the sale of seals came from Denmark where funds were raised for the same purpose by selling penny Christmas stamps. Miss Bissell adopted this means to raise money to run her small sanatorium.

Since the sale of the first Christmas seal in Wilmington, Delaware, the sale of Christmas seals for the care of tubercular patients has become a nation-wide institution. Penny by penny money is raised each year for further and better defenses against this dreaded disease. Proof of the effectiveness of these defenses is the fact that from 1907 to 1935 the death rate from tuberculosis has decreased from 179 deaths per hundred thousand to 54 deaths per hundred thousand.

The sale of Christmas seals in Monroe is under the direction of Mr. G. B. Cooley who has spent infinite time and money toward checking tuberculosis in this section. He is the head of the Ouachita Parish Tubercular Association and it was through his efforts that the tubercular sanatorium at Pine Top on Bayou Darbonne was built. This sanatorium will soon be opened. Much of the expense for running it will come from the sale of Christmas seals.

Big strong men go out and get broken up — what for — not money—what for then?

These big strong men tear up pretty green sodded grass with rubber nobs on the bottoms of their shoes, and run head-on into each other like bulls, and wipe their bloody heads—back up and try it gain.

Little "fancy dancer" gets ball from middle man and does a grotesque ballet in his own peculiar way; running at men and missing them following two big "shock-absorbers" who make it easy prancing for the little man.

Rugged man behind line smashes "little dancer" for a loss, and coach sends in two more "shock-absorbers" that can clear the way for his little Rabbit.

Man in striped shirt blows quivering whistle and steps back fifteen steps, little Rabbit had gained.

Men on the line pull up grass, show their teeth, snarl at each other like mad bull-dogs ready to fight. Ball leaves line and they pile up all on one, and sometimes that one doesn't get up, and they move him off the field so he won't be in the way.

They get tired going one way and change sides to see if they can do any good in the opposite direction.

Rabbit gets loose and runs seventy-five yards for a "toucher" they line up and kick the ball through the H. A man shoots a gun and that's all until the paper comes out.

RABBIT BACK SHOWS COTTON TAIL TO SNARLING BULL DOGS. Races seventy-five yards for lone "Toucher" Cinch All American.

Big "shock-absorbers" can't kiss their girls for cut lips, can't dance—too sore, can't rest too tired. But do read paper about Rabbit backs' sensational run, and wonder, but know who cleared the way. Little Rabbit is also good on the dance floor.

What's it all for? Glory?

"NORTH TO THE ORIENT"

"North To The Orient," by Anne Morrow Lindbergh (Harcourt and Company, New York), is the story of the flight the Lindberghs took to the Orient in the summer of 1931. Mrs. Lindbergh writes the book from an entirely personal point of view. She describes her moods and thoughts as she and her husband made the dangerous flight.

It is most interesting to note Mrs. Lindbergh's reactions to her different surroundings. She is really very human. When Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh were about to leave New York, she was exasperated by two women reporters who asked her about her clothes and her housekeeping in the ship.

Learning to operate the radio was difficult at first. After Colonel Lindbergh told his wife she would be radio operator and would have to pass an examination in radio she said, "Now, Charles, you know perfectly well I can't do that. I never passed an arithmetic examination in my life. I had to be tutored to get through elementary physics in college."

The book is filled with such delightful instances. Every place

FACULTY HONORED WITH RECEPTION

A delightful informal reception was given December 12 at eight o'clock by Dr. and Mrs. S. A. Caldwell and Dr. and Mrs. W. M. Caskey honoring the faculty of Northeast Center. An entertaining program was presented which included "Humoresque," a piano solo by Miss Florence Ziegler; "Air on the G String," a violin solo played by Mrs. Mrs. Roger Frisbie with Mr. Frisbie accompanying at the piano; "The Devil in the Pigs," an interpretive reading by Miss Grace Ingledue, and "Just an Ivy Covered Shack," a song by Mr. Dallas Goss with Mrs. Goss accompanying at the piano. By popular acclaim Mr. Goss returned to sing the number which everyone loves to hear him give, "Shortenin' Bread."

Following the program the guests were received in the faculty reception room where the Christmas note of red and green predominated in the use of flowers and lights. Mrs. Caskey presided very graciously at the coffee table which was made attractive by its centerpiece of Christmas berries, red tapers, and handsome silver service. Sandwiches embossed in holly and poinsettias, fancy cookies, and mints gave an attractive finish to the holiday theme. Assisting in the courtesies were Miss Billy Caskey, Miss Mary Esther Brown, Miss Elaine Caldwell, and Miss Mabel Claire Richardson. Those who enjoyed the hospitality of the gracious hosts were Dr. and Mrs. A. G. Albritton, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. Benton Holt, Mr. and Mrs. Roger C. Frisbie, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Fashion Flashes

Well...well...well... Fashion Flashes are still managing to get in the Pow Wow every once in a while... So here we are again... Northeast Center was well represented at the dance last Friday night at Neville High school... We hear that it looked as if the dance was sponsored by N. C. because there were so many familiar faces there... The coeds had a grand time even though some made the statement that they felt like "grandmas." Virginia Faulk looked as cute as ever in her new green knitted suit... Martha Olive Myatt, Jane Gregory, and Dorothy Williamson all wore sport models which were really chic... Speaking of knitted suits... Have you noticed Thyra Holt's and Margaret Pierce's rose colored dresses which they knitted themselves? Stella May wears a navy blue knitted model and Alice Mary Wilkins' fair complexion is brought out by her Dubonnet two-piece creation... It must be nice to have such sweet friends as Jerry Wilkes has... Wasn't she surprised when she came home the other day to be greeted with "Happy Birthday to You"... Even though she was surprised, Jerry was dressed for the occasion in a rust wool tailored model... Among the guests at the party were Mildred Johnson, who wore a grey wool suit, and Carrie Jo Hill, alumna, who wore a very becoming brown outfit... Kathleen Cox was becomingly dressed in a rust silk model, and Billie Ryan was dressed from top to toe in soft grey wool... At one of the recent dances we noticed Ervina Castleman in a pale blue taffeta evening dress with a very full pleated skirt... It was truly becoming to her... Mary Finn Anders wore a scarlet chiffon model with ruffles in the back from the waist to the hemline... We wish that everybody could have seen Virginia Husted and Libby Haynes when the appointed member of the Phi Kappa Fraternity informed them that they were elected the sponsors for this fraternity for 1937... Both Virginia and Libby were bubbling over with excitement and have been ever since... When the Delta Sigma fraternity elected Margie Farmer for one of their 1937 sponsors, Margie was thrilled beyond words and says

Delta Sigma is the best fraternity anywhere... We don't want to see any hair-pulling between the fairer sex, girls, caused by difference in opinion about fraternities... Every time we go Christmas shopping, we see Northeast Center co-eds trying to select one from a number of lovely evening models... Saw Nobby McKenzie the other day, looking at a gorgeous peacock blue chiffon with a flowing scarf of blended yellow and green in the back... Hope she bought it because it would look grand on her... Eleanor Colbert told us about her main Christmas evening dress, and we think that she will achieve a very sophisticated effect in it... We can't describe it because that would be telling... If you haven't put your name into the Purple Jacket Christmas tree box and haven't bought a present for the person whose name you drew out, you are certainly going to miss a lot of fun this afternoon during fifth period... And if you don't come to the Pow Wow dance tonight, you are going to miss one of the best dances this year, besides not starting your holidays off right... We'll be seeing you in about two weeks... So we wish you all a very MERRY CHRISTMAS and a very HAPPY NEW YEAR.

ED WALKER GETS SILVER FOOTBALL

A silver football, representative of the best sportsmanship at Northeast Center, was awarded to Edison Walker of Waldron, Arkansas, by the Kiwanis club of Monroe.

Members of the Northeast Center football squad were unaware of the fact that an award was to be made. The presentation came as a distinct but pleasant surprise.

Walker, who has not received much publicity this year, was a fine choice, state the Northeast Center football players. This indicates that headlines do not always herald the most valuable player, that is, the most valuable in the sense of willingness to cooperate with respect to the betterment of the team.

"Pop," as he is known to his teammates, has a personality all his own. Liked and respected by every student on the campus, Walker is to be commended, too, for his attitude as a student.

Walker's prowess is not solely relegated to football. He is a skilled boxer and has been recognized as one of the gamest middleweights in this section of the country.

L. WHITE FINISHES SEASON AT OLE MISS

Lloyd "Bully" White, former Northeast Center tackle and member of the 1935 national junior college football champions, has finished his first year at the University of Mississippi. White, who is the best tackle North Louisiana has seen, played his best game against Louisiana State university, and impressed the undefeated Tigers with his ability and determination. In all probability, White will be a star in the 1937 Rebel line.

Other Northeast Center football stars who have made good elsewhere are Mickey Jefferies, Ole Miss.; Edwin Cashion, Charles Fields, Powell May, and Boyd Arnold, College of the Mines, El Paso, Texas; and, Charles Lemak, Louisiana State university.

College women's clothing costs more than college men's clothing according to a survey of 42 men and 56 women on the Texas Wesleyan College campus.

A complete outfit for a man averages $78.90 while a complete outfit for a man averages $60.40. The only single items for which males pay more than females is hats.

"Bully" White

Lloyd "Bully" White, former Northeast Center football star, has just completed his first year as a member of the University of Mississippi varsity eleven.

COLORFUL BACKS PROVIDE THRILLS

The backfield of Northeast Center's football team has attracted a noticeable amount of attention this year. As a finale to the football season, the attributes and eccentricities of each backfield man are revealed.

Edison Walker—"Pop" is the best-natured back on the squad. Although he was not spectacular, he made it easier for the other backs to be sensational. Recently awarded the Kiwanis trophy for the best display of sportsmanship Walker is one of the best-liked students on the campus.

Bryan Reynolds, poet laureate of the gridiron, is the most eccentric of all. Reynolds spends most of his spare time studying poetry, writes unusual, but nevertheless excellent free verse, and denies all rumors that he is "punch drunk" from boxing. According to reports received here, Reynolds finds the banks of Bayou DeSiard as the source of his poetic inspirations.

Perhaps the most sensational back Northeast Center has seen in many years is Bob Kellogg, whom sports writers have nicknamed the "Wynn Flash." Kellogg is credited with making the longest run on Brown field, when he raced 100 yards for a touchdown against Southwest Junior college of Summit, Miss. Kellogg thinks that Kellogg is the best backfield ace Northeast Center has ever had. He also insists that "all the girls are nuts about me, and I don't blame them a bit."

Dick Elliott, the flash from Olla, was the biggest discovery of the year. Elliott, at times, outshone Kellogg on broken-field runs, and was the target for many passes. "Goathead," as Elliott is known to all, has the heartiest laugh on the campus.

The most dependable of all Northeast Center backs was Frank Mosley, who, with Reynolds, played his last game for the local college against Southwest J. C. Mosley is truly a triple-threat backfield man. His punts, his blocking, and his passing have pulled the Indians out of many bizarre circumstances. In 1934, Mosley was voted the most valuable man on the squad. His main interest is Dot Lively, who has cheered him on, and who has been his steady inspiration.

John Semago, who came to Monroe from Duquesne, Pa., is the most unusual man in the backfield. Besides being an able line plunger and blocker, he is also said to be the neatest and most original man on the team. It is said that his room over at the "shack" is ingeniously decorated, reflecting the goodwill and cheer of Christmas.

Tony Veranda, the California "Whiz," is the mystery man of the backfield. The most silent man on the team, Veranda is credited with having played a game this year with a splinter in his thigh. Local sports fans look forward to his debut in the Northeast Center "squared circle."

Horace Anders, of Arcadia, who is familiar to North Louisiana boxing fans, has not had much opportunity in the Indian backfield this year, but was out-

FOOTBALL BANQUET MOST SUCCESSFUL

Twenty-three lettermen were announced at the annual Indian football banquet, held at the Virginia hotel Wednesday night. Seventy-five Northeast Center adherents attended this banquet which was the most successful ever held for the squad.

Frank Mosley, 1934 winner of the most valuable award, was elected honorary captain of the 1936 eleven with Joe Cooper Harrell and H. C. Spillar co-alternates. Harrell was the winner of the Standard Office Supply company award for his exceptional ability in the field of blocking and tackling.

Bob Kellogg won the most valuable player award. In 1935, Charles Lemak was the winner of this coveted award, and Mosley won the trophy in 1934.

Words of praise were also extended to halfback Edison Walker, who recently received the Kiwanis award for sportsmanship.

Principle speakers were T. P. Heard, athletic director at L. S. U.; Dr. B. F. Mitchell, dean of the lower division at L.S.U.; Edgar Jackson, L.S.U. business manager; Jesse Hair, state superintendent of health and physical education; John Adams, manager of the L.S.U. book store; Ben Downing, Dr. W. L. Bendel, J. Porter Burgess, D. Y. Smith, William Rodriguez, Paul Fink, Mrs. Benton Holt, Dr. J. R. Gorsline, J. L. Warren, Leo Keenan, William A. Walker, Percy Brown, George Lofton, Judge W. M. Harper, G. B. Cooley, Jack Warren, Claude Harrison, Dean S. A. Caldwell, Dr. W. M. Caskey, and Buck Brown, assistant coach.

Dallas Goss rendered two vocal solos, and Mary Wilba McKee presented an acrobatic dance number.

standing in the game against Southwest J.C. Anders' only weakness lies in his more or less timid nature and inclination towards books.

Flavel Yates, another triple-threat, who "wows" Kathleen Cox is often referred to as the handsomest boy at Northeast Center.

Vernon Leatherwood, who starred in the Southwest game is also a silent man. He will return to Northeast Center next year.

All in all, the Center backfield is versatile.

The homecoming attendance record at the University of Minnesota was shattered by 5,000 this year when 64,000 fans saw the Gophers smother the Hawkeyes.

Appreciation . . . The boys on the training table wish to use this means to express their appreciation in having a swell lady in charge of their meals. Mrs. Benton Holt, in supervising the preparation of the meals, has given the players the best food possible within means. She has literally become a "mother" to them, worrying about where they are and what they eat when one happens to miss a meal. Mrs. Holt says that "the way to man's heart is through his stomach." This wonderful "missus" has acted accordingly. She certainly has succeeded in placing herself in the hearts of every one of the boys. But the "trainers" aren't the only ones who think she is fine. There isn't a time that you can walk into the cafeteria without seeing one of the students near Mrs. Holt, talking and exchanging "wisecracks." So, "sweet cafeteria lady," the whole student body salutes you.

Future Facts . . . The Indians' victory over the Southwest Junior College in their last game of the season was the difference between a "bum" and a "fair" season.

Having played nine games this year the Malone men came out on top in four of the contests, lost four and broke even with their opponents in two. The boys got some tough breaks this year though. Due to injuries, there was only one player who started the first game of the season that played in the entire nine battles. This year's team can be taken as a natural build-up squad. In spite of the fact that some very valuable first stringers will be lost through graduation, the general outlook for the 1937 team is indeed bright. The freshmen on the aggregation will have a year's experience under their belts, and if you know anything about football, that really means a lot.

Tony, it's too bad you won't get home and see the folks this Christmas but nevertheless every one of your friends joins me in wishing you a very happy Christmas and a very prosperous New Year.

How does our selection of an All-Time Northeast Center football team compare with yours?

"THE POW WOW"

By Emmett Chisum

On a bluff towering high above the Mississippi River, a crowd of Natchez Indians view the movements of six canoes which appear as specks in the vastness of the great river. The final crafts carry Tensas Indians from the swamps west of the river. The entire Natchez Nation awaits the arrival of these ambassadors who are coming to conduct a Pow Wow with the chief in order to end a long bloody war between the two nations. The squaws engage in grinding maize and sweeping out the huts in which the visitors will be quartered. The warriors put the finishing touches on their makeup with thick paint.

The canoes, in a single formation, are pulled to the shore, and the Tensas start the long climb up the steep bluff. They are particularly masqueraded for the Pow Wow. Many brightly colored feathers adorn their heads and even their ears which are pierced with small holes. Rattles hang from each Indian's belt while long plaited buffalo tails bring up the rear. The face of one man is painted black on one side and red on the other.

When the Tensas reach the top of the bluff a number of Natchez retire to the wilderness leaving a clear space for the ceremony to take place. Several of the ambassadors advance toward the mound where the chief sits on a wooden throne. They circle the chief singing peace songs and waving the calumet (peace pipe). A large man takes the calumet and rubs it over the chief's body from head to feet. The party then returns quickly back to rejoin the other delegates.

A speaker rises from the crowd to give a stirring oration on peace and good will. When the long oration is finished each of the Indians smoke the peace pipe always blowing the first mouthful toward the earth, the second toward the sky and the third into the horizon. After the last pouch of tobacco has been consumed, the warriors boast of the noble deeds performed in the last war.

An ambitious Natchez warrior watches the six canoes as they disappear around the bend. He rubs his finger over the keen edge of a tomahawk wondering how long the dreadful Pow Wow will endure.

"Old-maldery" is definitely on the upgrade unless Hunter College questionnaires were not answered truthfully a week or so ago. Only one freshman out of the total of 929 has confessed a desire to be married after graduation from college.

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS ELECTED

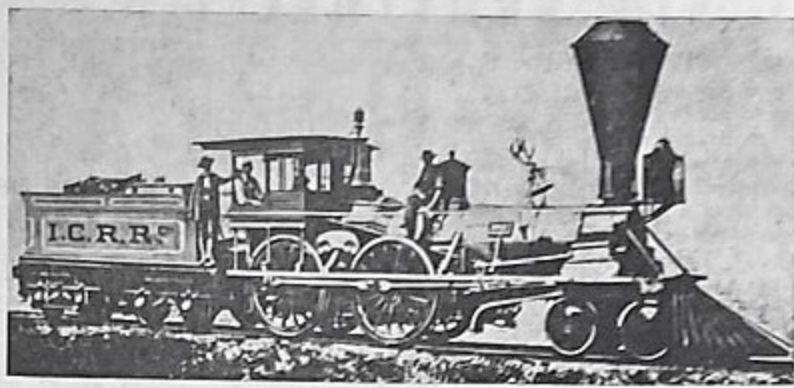

A meeting of all the girls in the student body was held last Thursday in order to elect officers for the student council. The council is composed of the girls who are specializing in physical education: Syble Renaud, Dorothy Taylor, Jennie Mae Ford, Elizabeth Whatley, Eunita Martin, and Colene Hart. The officers of this group were elected as follows: Eunita Martin, president; Colene Hart, vice-president; and Sybil Renaud, secretary-treasurer. The council, acting under the guidance of Miss Ada Bes Hart, has for its purpose—to explain the point system to the girls who are trying to make a letter, to record the points made by each girl, and to act as a medium in getting any changes in the system desired by the student body referred to the proper authorities.

All the girls in the gym classes are to be divided into two groups called the "Purples," and the "Golds." Points made by both sides will be recorded and at the end of the year the winning side will be presented with a plaque on which will be written the name of the captain of the victors. The captains, who were chosen from the girls' student body are, for the "Purples," Helen Adams, for the "Golds," Colene Hart.

The purpose of the whole system is to promote interest in intramural sports. Instead of specialization in any particular sport, a wide range of activities will be offered so that every girl may have a chance to become skillful in at least one field.

Because 75 members of last year's freshman class at Massachusetts Institute of Technology were taken forcibly to the institute's cabin at Lake Massapoag and held there in chains overnight, Dr. Karl T. Compton, president, and the student body have taken joint action to abolish wholesale kidnappings of freshmen.

First Locomotive Used On Illinois Central Railroad

PROGRESS IS KEYNOTE OF I. C. RAILROAD

By Emmett Chisum

Rugged pioneers following dim aboriginal paths toward the fertile prairies in the Illinois territory, dreamed of a railroad traversing through the region to the Great Lakes. From isolated trading posts proposals developed in 1832 for the realization of these dreams. The proposals were unsuccessful, however, the need for a railroad was clearly shown.

In 1851 news reached Chicago that the legislature had passed a bill forming the Illinois Railroad Company. The state granted the company a charter to build 705 miles of line between Cairo to East Dubuque, with a branch line to the frontier town of Chicago. Constructing a line of this length at that period was a colossal undertaking and engaged the aid of many famous men. Abraham Lincoln was employed by the company as an attorney. General George B. Clellan was selected to be the chief engineer.

At last the laborious track laying was completed, and a long-stack locomotive slowly puffed down the tracks. With this locomotive came prosperity to Illinois. Settlers moved into the territory in great number from the east, large towns sprang up along the railroad, industrial centers were established and the once barren prairies became the scene of growth and progress. In 1870 the Illinois Central leased the incomplete Dubuque and Sioux City railroads, extending its system into fourteen states of the Middle West and South. After the Civil War the system was completed from Cairo, Illinois to New Orleans, thus linking the Great Lakes with the gulf.

The Illinois Central was the first railroad to use refrigeration. A shipment of fruit being made in 1866 from Cobden, Illinois to Chicago. The railroad has aided the development of the coal mining industry in the midwest as a pioneer in the use of coal for locomotives. Sleeping car were provided by the line before the Pullman came into existence.

The Illinois Central Railroad has created the vast circulatory system of the Mississippi Valley, a system that nourishes and makes possible the pulsating urban centers of the midwest.

If you think that your brain power is affected by loss of sleep, stop worrying right now. That is, if you want to go by the results of an experiment conducted at the University of Southern California.

Dr. Neil Warren and Dr. Brant Clark, with the help of 12 assistants, kept three students awake from 5:30 a.m. on a Friday, until 10:30 p. m. on Saturday. Every ten hours the experimenters took tests in solving more than 100 mathematical problems and identifying more than 300 colors flashed before their eyes.

Their accuracy was partially unchanged in spite of fatigue, but increasingly frequent "blank" lapses occurred in which they could not solve the simplest problems.

It's fairly late to be giving advice to men who are about to experience a Leap Year date, but males at Washington University, knowing that such things will be going on until December 31st, offer these suggestions to all collegians:

Be sure to keep your escort waiting at least 20 minutes.

Load your pockets with combs, powder puffs, and mirrors. She will be disappointed if she hasn't anything to carry.

Of course she'll provide you with cigarettes and gum. Under no circumstances light your own cigaret. It would make her feel bad.

Marion Harris better watch her step—we heard that Plug's heart-throb might visit here Christmas. Now, Plug, start explaining.

Gosh, of all people to go and get moon-eyed on us—we are really surprised at Larkin and Buckner.

We have been wondering why Sam Dunlap has been coming to all of the dances so dolled up and standing around looking—. Yes, that's the way these blonds affect these boys.

MISS ALEXANDER BACK FROM TRIP

Sidney Alexander, outstanding in 4H club work, returns with wonderful reports concerning the banqueting and entertainment afforded the fifteen hundred club members who represented forty-four states and three Canadian provinces at the National 4H Club Convention in Chicago.

While in Chicago Miss Alexander was chosen as a judge in a clothing contest, this particular phase of work being her favorite. However, this does not mean that her abilities are limited to one particular work, for she is very versatile. She won the food preparations contest conducted by the Electrolux company last year for which she was awarded a trip to the state capital.

Sweepstakes prizes at the Ouachita Valley Fair awards Miss Alexander this same trip for the second time again next year.

BOOK EXHIBIT IN LIBRARY

The library of Northeast Center is indeed fortunate in being able to obtain the exhibit "How Books Are Made," from the F. E. Compton and Company, publishers of the Compton Pictured Encyclopedia. This exhibit is run on a circuit and it comes to this library from the Louisiana State University School of Library Science.

The process of book-making is discussed in its entirety. It begins at the editor's desk with the manuscript and ends when the book is completed.

On Wednesday the Library club had as their guests the library clubs of Neville and Ouachita parish high schools. At this meeting the principal speaker was Mr. Fred Williamson who spoke on "The Printing Process." Mr. Williamson showed the smallest book ever printed. It is a perfect copy of the Bible and can only be read under a magnifying glass. Later, the clubs went to the bookstore where refreshments were served.

"My Story"

"My Story," by Mary Roberts Rhinehart, is the author's autobiography. It is a frank and personal story of her very colorful and eventful life. Miss Rhinehart, who is now well up in years, is one of the few women who have reconciled home and career. She always put her family before her work and insisted that she had a profession, not a career. The language is vivid, yet simple and clear. There is a great deal of humor everywhere in the book. Miss Rhinehart's life has been filled with her family, with travel, and with contact with famous people. She has had a very full life.

THE SENTINEL

By REX CARTER

good at Northeast Center, gives a very intelligent defense of the University of Pittsburg in regard to its inability to win in the Rose Bowl. Semago says that the Pitt boys are accustomed to playing football in zero weather, and that the climate at Pasadena is altogether too warm for comfort and coordination. Personally, I believe that Pitt has a better team than Washington, and if the Huskies' flashy half, Byron Haines, can be stopped, Pitt is apt to break her record.

In the minds of Louisianians, Gaynell Tinsley is the greatest football player in America. Twice an all-America, Tinsley is as modest as he was prior to his acquisition of fame and importance.

Tinsley, Larry Kelley, Edwin Widseth, Raymond Buivid, and Sam Francis were the only players to make every all-American selection. But, there's a young fellow at Fordham, with the almost unpronounceable name of Alexander Wojciechowicz, who rates equally with them all. For some reason or other, the Associated Press writers found fault with Wojcie and gave the center position to the Duquesne star, Mike Basrak. However, the official all-American, published in last week's Collier's remembered the Fordham star and the Seven Block of Granite. This has truly been a year of great centers with Wojciechowicz, Stewart, Basrak, Haute, and Gilbert being the most outstanding.

Seeds of chaos and destruction of morale are being sowed in the F. B. H. M. O. A. Frank Mullen, the president, seeing that James Roberts will displace him eventually, was apprehended with a bottle of Krem Hair Tonic. Mullen says that he has a new crop of hair coming. The members of the organization are supporting Mullen in lieu of Roberts, because the president knows how to wear his face with his bald spot.

In addition to the semi-weekly broadcasts given from N. C. another program is given each Tuesday from 2:30 to 3:00. This program sponsored by the Parent-Teachers association, is presented by the various parishes throughout Northeast Louisiana. Mr. Dallas Goss is in charge. Through this medium a closer relationship is brought about between Northeast Center and the citizens of surrounding districts. PORTRAITS IN PROSE

By BRICE BURROUGHS

A blackface comedian with a northern accent; a miscast Falstaff with a low sense of humor; a Hamlet with a Marx brothers' twist—such is our subject today. This personable young man has a flair for oddities and almost becomes a personality through his exploits of said oddities. His nature is not likened to "the gentle zephyr that drifts hither and yon," on the contrary it is more like an unleashed cyclone. He, as a person, is striking in the literal sense; he seems to leap at one blantly and intrudes himself into any private matter that catches his fleeting interest. This should be laid, I suppose, at the door of artistic temperament, but this path is more worn than the one to the door of the better rat-trap maker. There is no place where he fears to tread and one will find him at any and all places.

He is your friend to your last dollar but there his friendship, though it doesn't die, wanes a bit. He is never embarrassed at his shortcomings and hides any inconvenience he may have to bear under a very toothy smile.

He is addicted to turpentine and free dance tickets.

Who is he?

JUST IMAGINE—

Dean Caldwell without a story to tell.—Dot Lively being quiet.—Mildred Johnson or Dr. Caskey without a smile.—Kathleen Cox being angry.—Katie not talking about Jimmie.—Howard Honeycutt without a book.—Pindell Cordell not being dignified.—Frenchie Edwards not looking cute.—Dot Williamson being still.—Bob Kellogg without his yellow sweater.

"SORDID DESTINY" CAST TO BE TAKEN TO BIG CONVENTION

tween repression and expression of emotions. This Miss Johnson achieved. Ervina Castleman as Mona, and John Mason as Larry, gave a sincerely worthy presentation of a young couple who think that supreme happiness is but two weeks ahead for them and then suddenly find that it is all shattered. The play opens with Mona singing the negro spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot." As the curtain is drawn a man's voice is heard in the distance singing the same spiritual and Mona, as if in a trance, is drawn toward the music.

The members of the cast will be accompanied to St. Louis by Miss Ingledue, who will attend the three-day session of the convention of the National Association of Teachers of Speech and supervise the production of the play. Miss Killian will also accompany the group as assistant to the director and in charge of make-up.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Clifford's whole name is Walter Clifford Johnson, Jr.?

Bob's whole name is Robert Francis Kellogg?

Billy Caskey's real name is Willie Ethel Caskey?

Jerry Wilkes' name is not really Jerry, it is Geraldine Josephine Wilkenstein, but when she came from the old country they changed it?

Henry Clay Spillar has a new set of false teeth?

Mosley, Spillar, and Harrell are now shack rats?

CERTAINTY UNDER ALL CONDITIONS

WHEN WINTER COMES, with its added hazards to all forms of transportation, the trains stand out by reason of their exceptional dependability and safety. • Railroading is based upon all-weather principles, sharpened by foresight. Railroads build track and equipment solidly. They provide ample power, warmth and comfort. They clear the way with snow plows, thaw out switches, inspect signals, keep in touch with trains by telephone and telegraph. There is a devoted and resourceful personnel, accustomed to winning battles against the elements. • While some regions of the Illinois Central System are more fortunate than others as regards the severity of winter, the same care for safety and pride in performance hold true throughout. Shovels for snow, sandbags for flood, freight and passenger cars as havens for storm refugees—all are parts of Illinois Central experience.

• Such a background leads to constant preparedness for the unexpected. That is why those seeking winter transportation consider it both smart and safe to patronize the railroad.

• Low fares invite acquaintance with carriers that ought to be better known to young people today. New patrons will observe many travel refinements, and they will learn how great an emphasis our railroads place upon dependability and safety.
